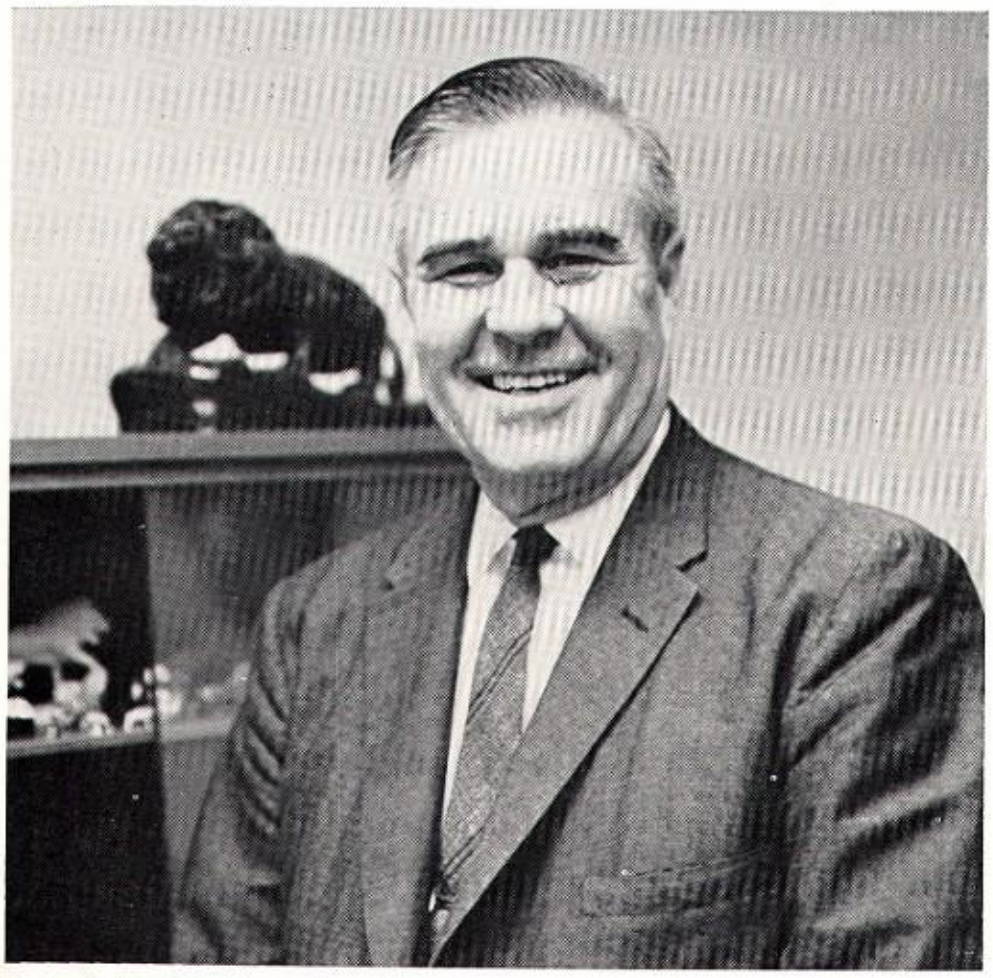
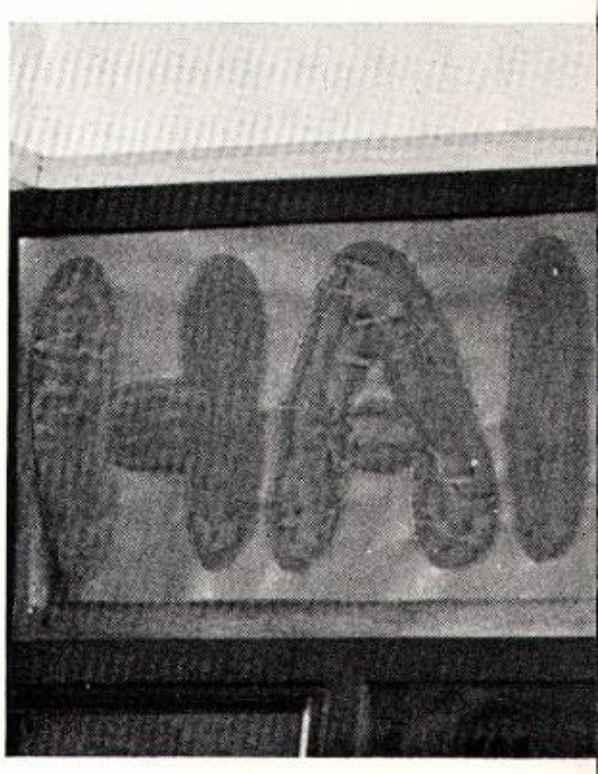
Moments of grief, gratification



A symbol of friendly authority, Mr. Warkow, now lost

The nation's mourning symbolized by a lonely flag

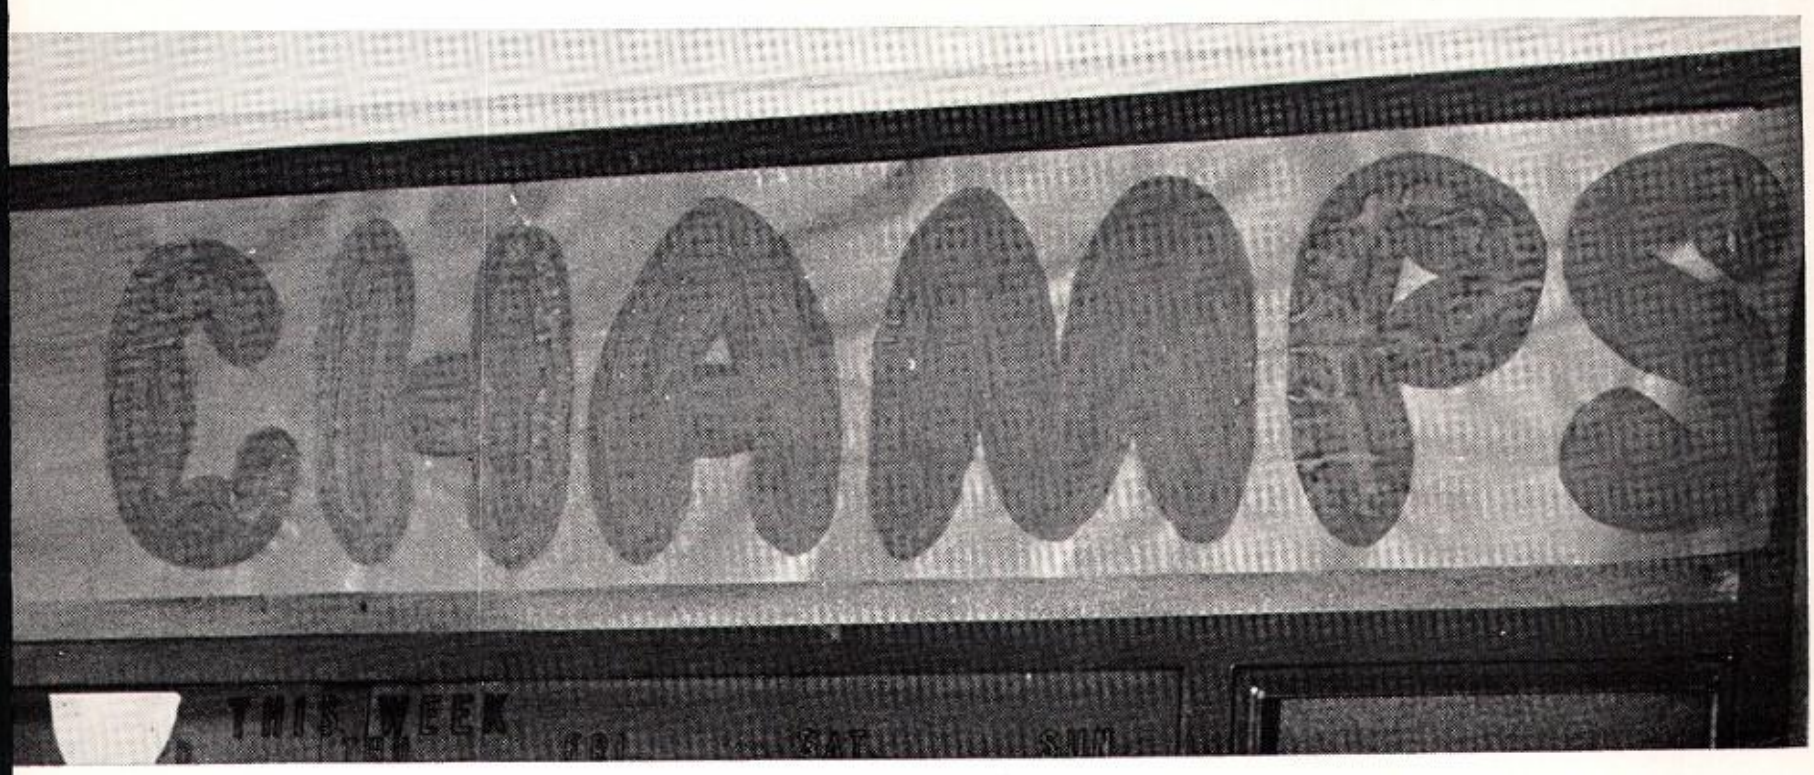
Determination expressed on faces of two LT debaters



part of meaningful, unforgettable year

An appeal voiced by an apprehensive candidate

Proud letters proclaiming our football victory



High school, an interlude,
A four–year transition,
A time to change
And a chance to experiment.
With growing direction,
We move in a maze
Of vague abstractions
And too–real realities.
Sometimes the hours
Spent in learning
Seem almost endless
Until we find them
Suddenly too short
For all the knowledge,
Understanding, and insight
That we must absorb
In our time of searching.

Brief moments of pleasure in Homecoming's splendor

Days of hours
8:30 to three,
Years of days
Filled with test-taking,
And striving for grades,
And working on homework.
Weekends become Attempts to escape
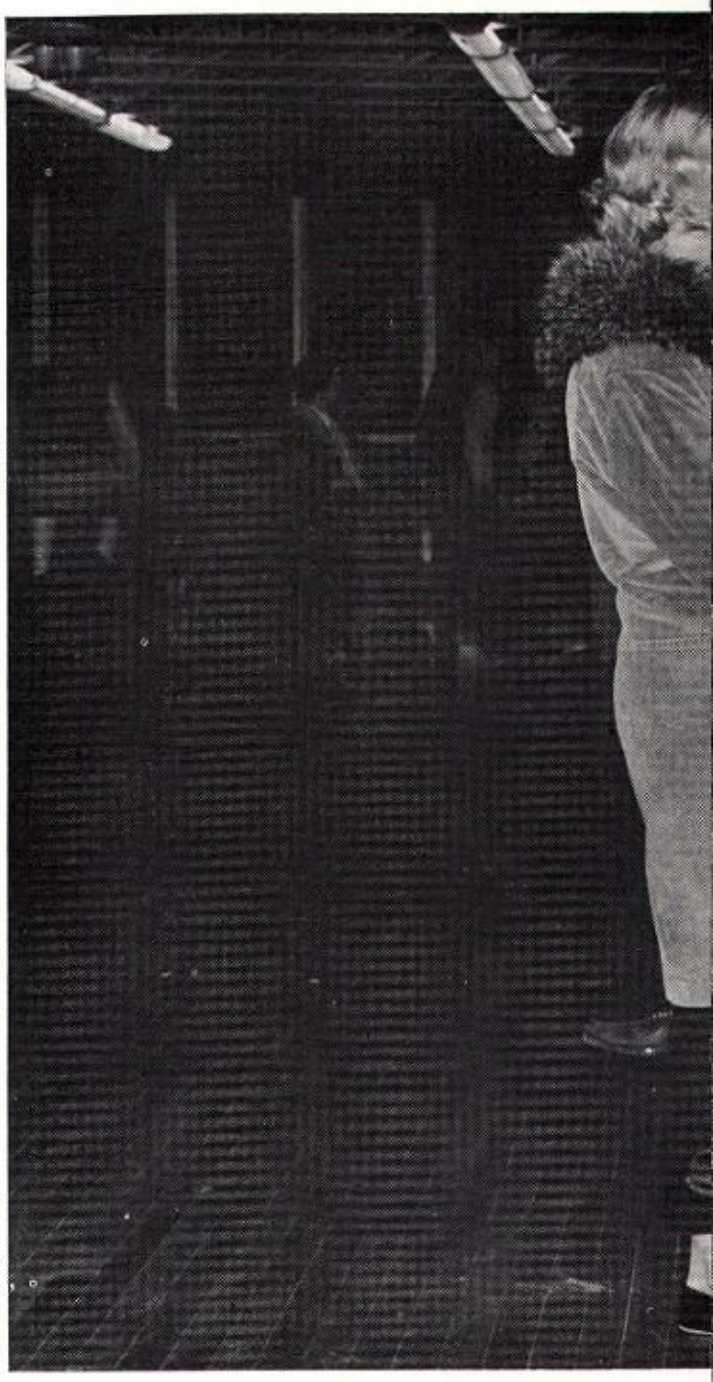
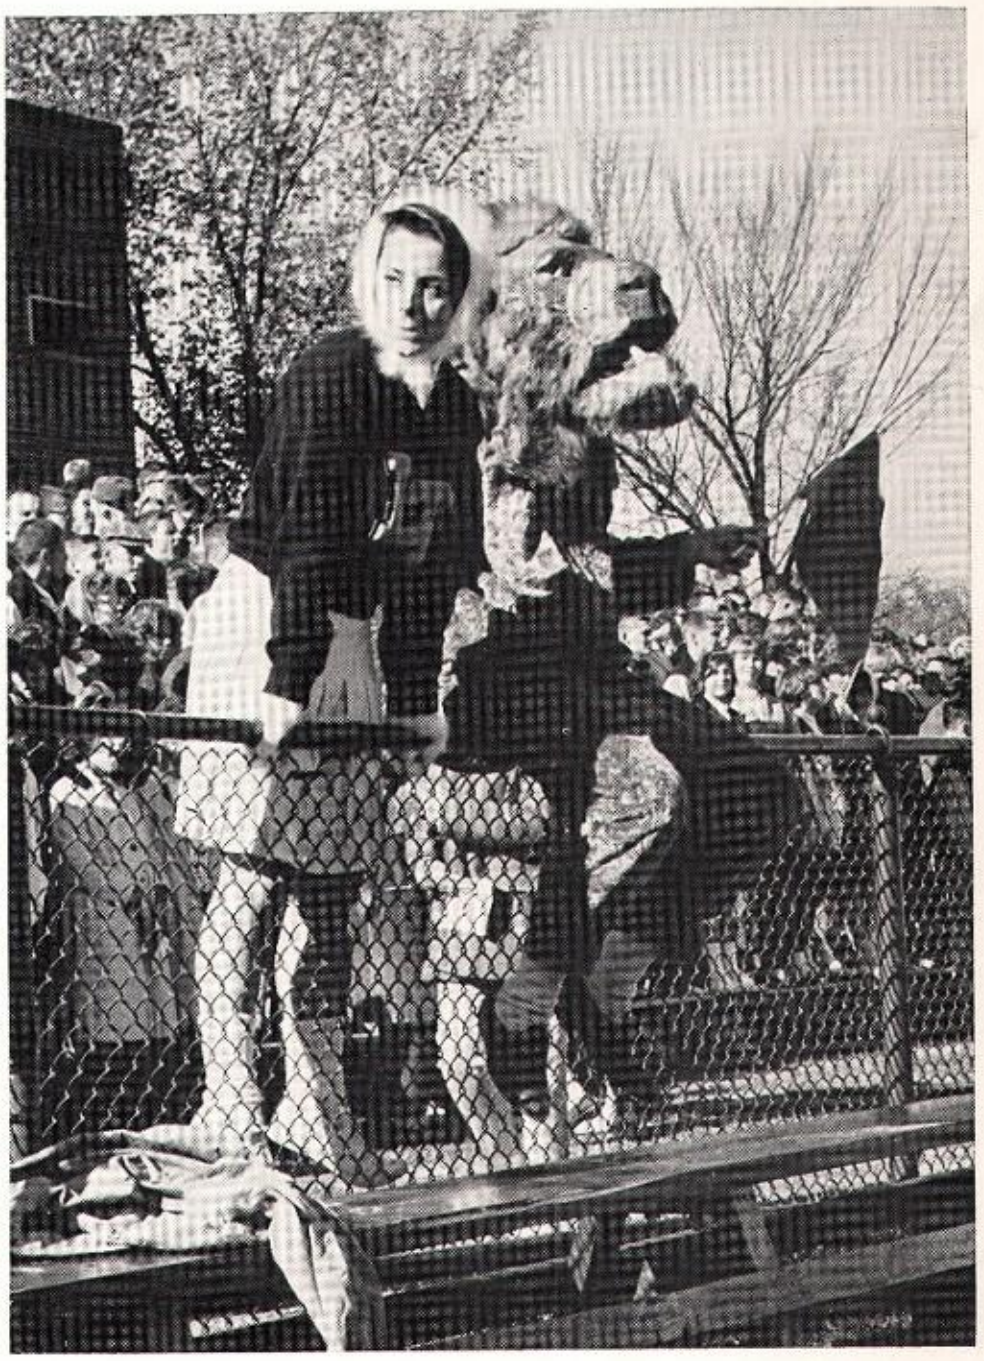
From the surge of ideas,
The memorized facts,
The extraneous details.

In spite of our tendency
To lose sight of the goal,
We somehow learn
More than we've realized—
And yet not enough
For our own satisfaction.





Semester follows semester ---
An unobtrusive build–up
To the climax of graduation.
In the years that follow
We must rise above
A mire of trivialities
In an effort to find
A purpose for being.
From the years we have Haphazardly lived
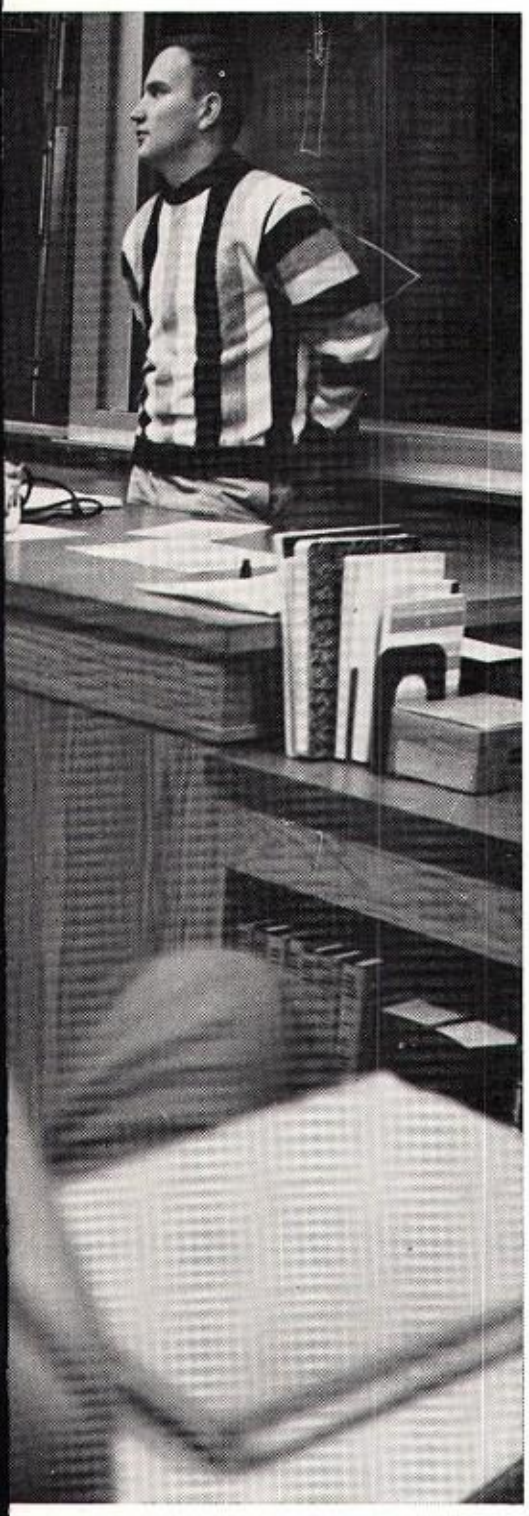
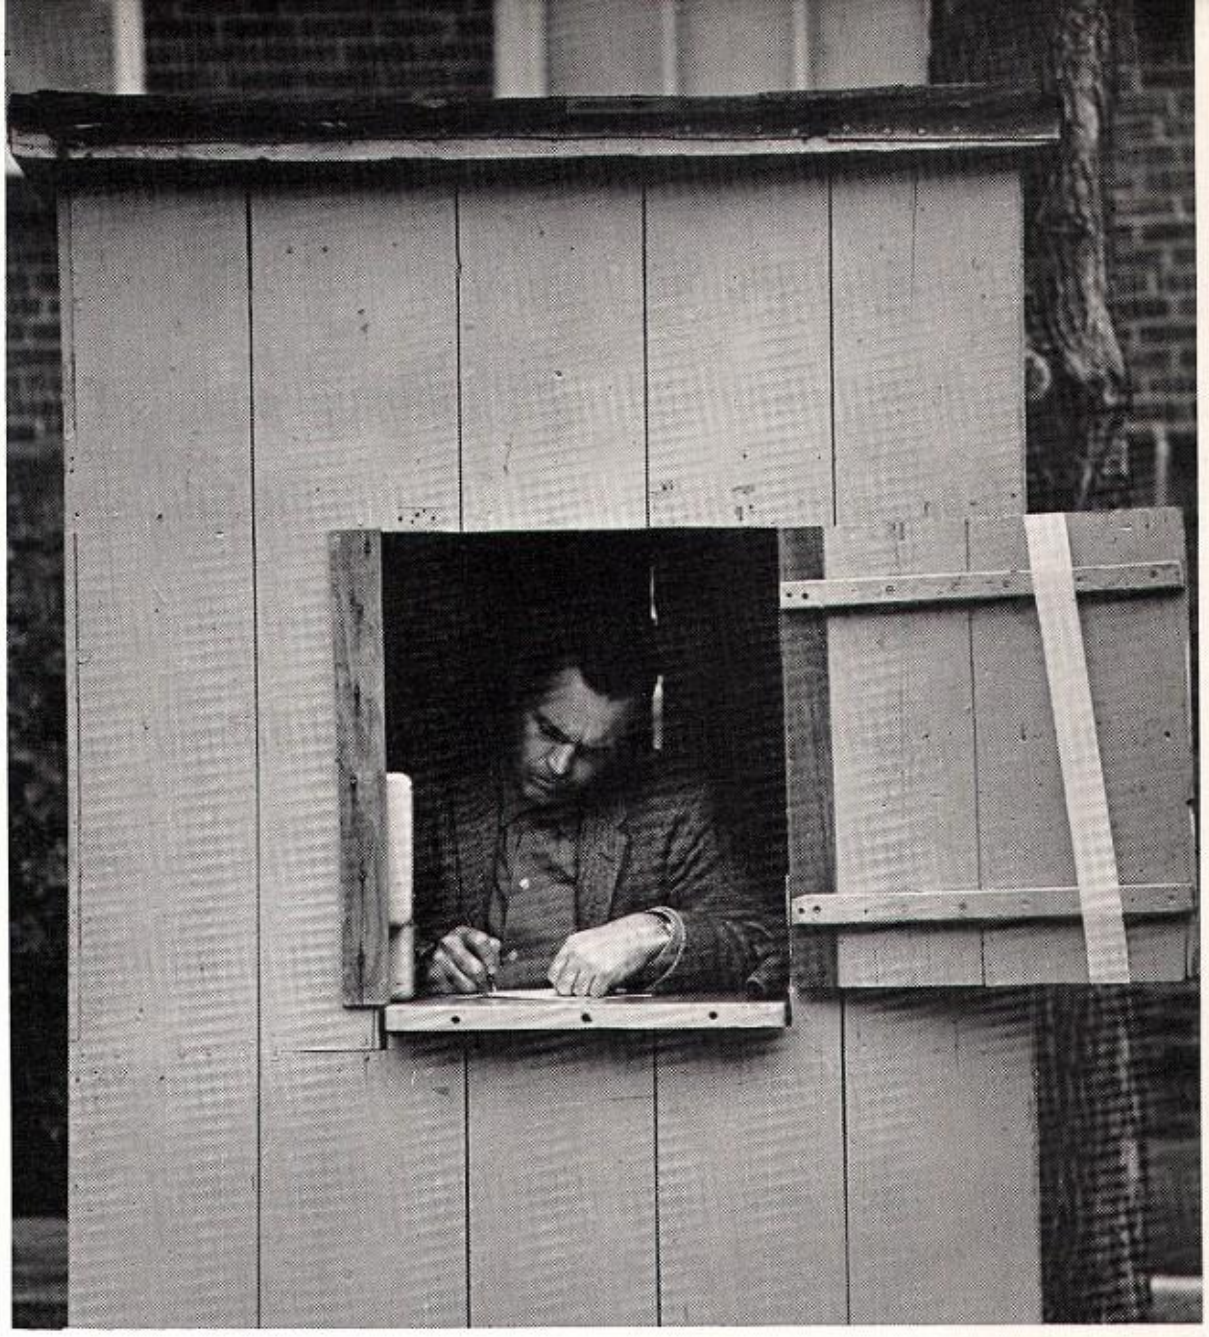
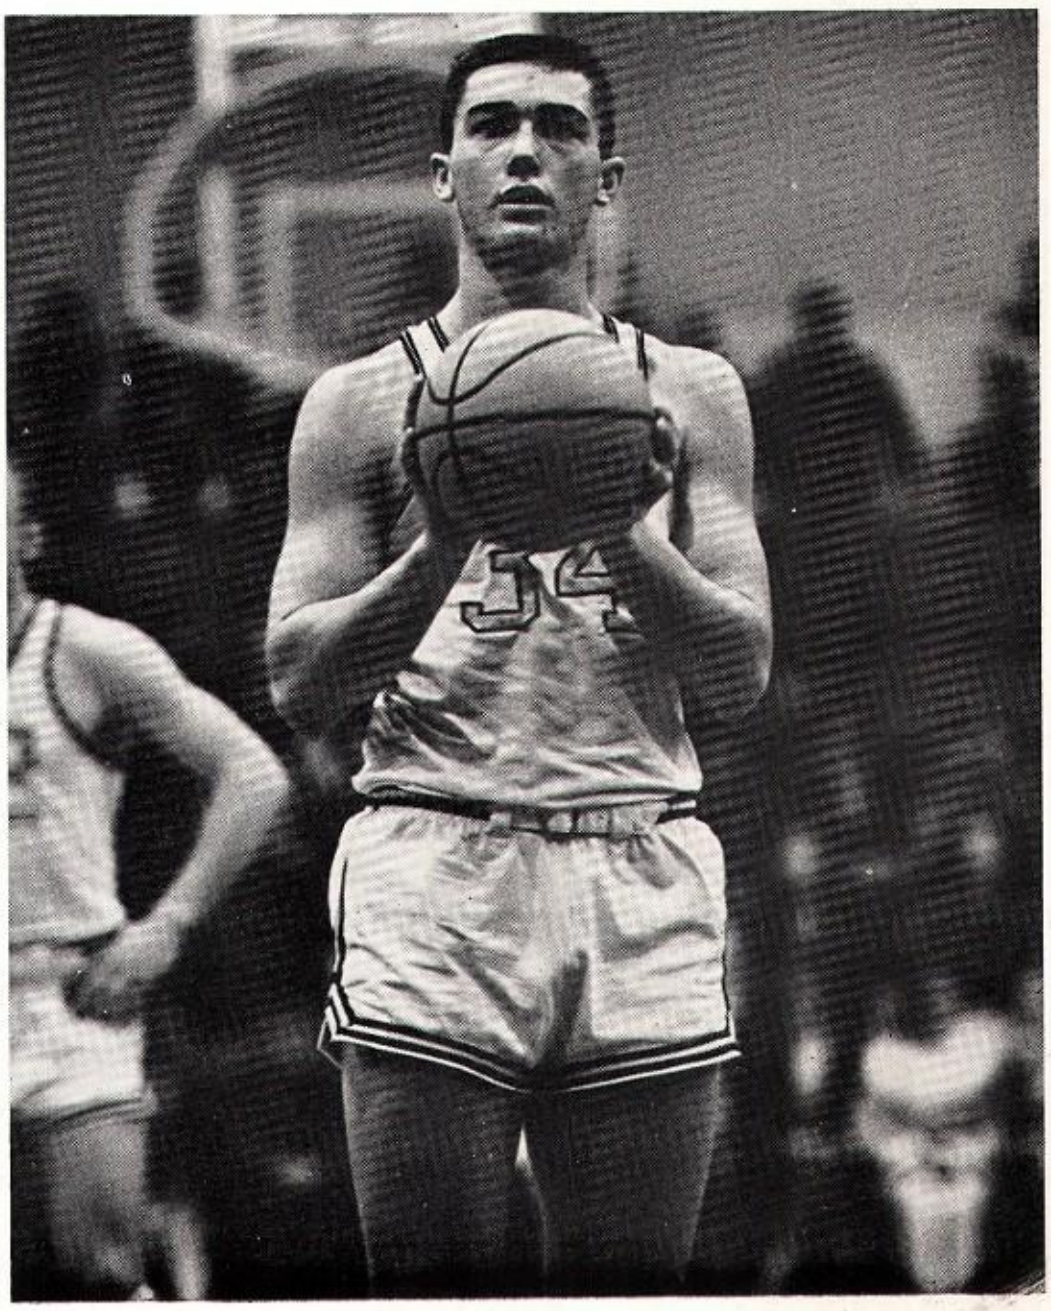
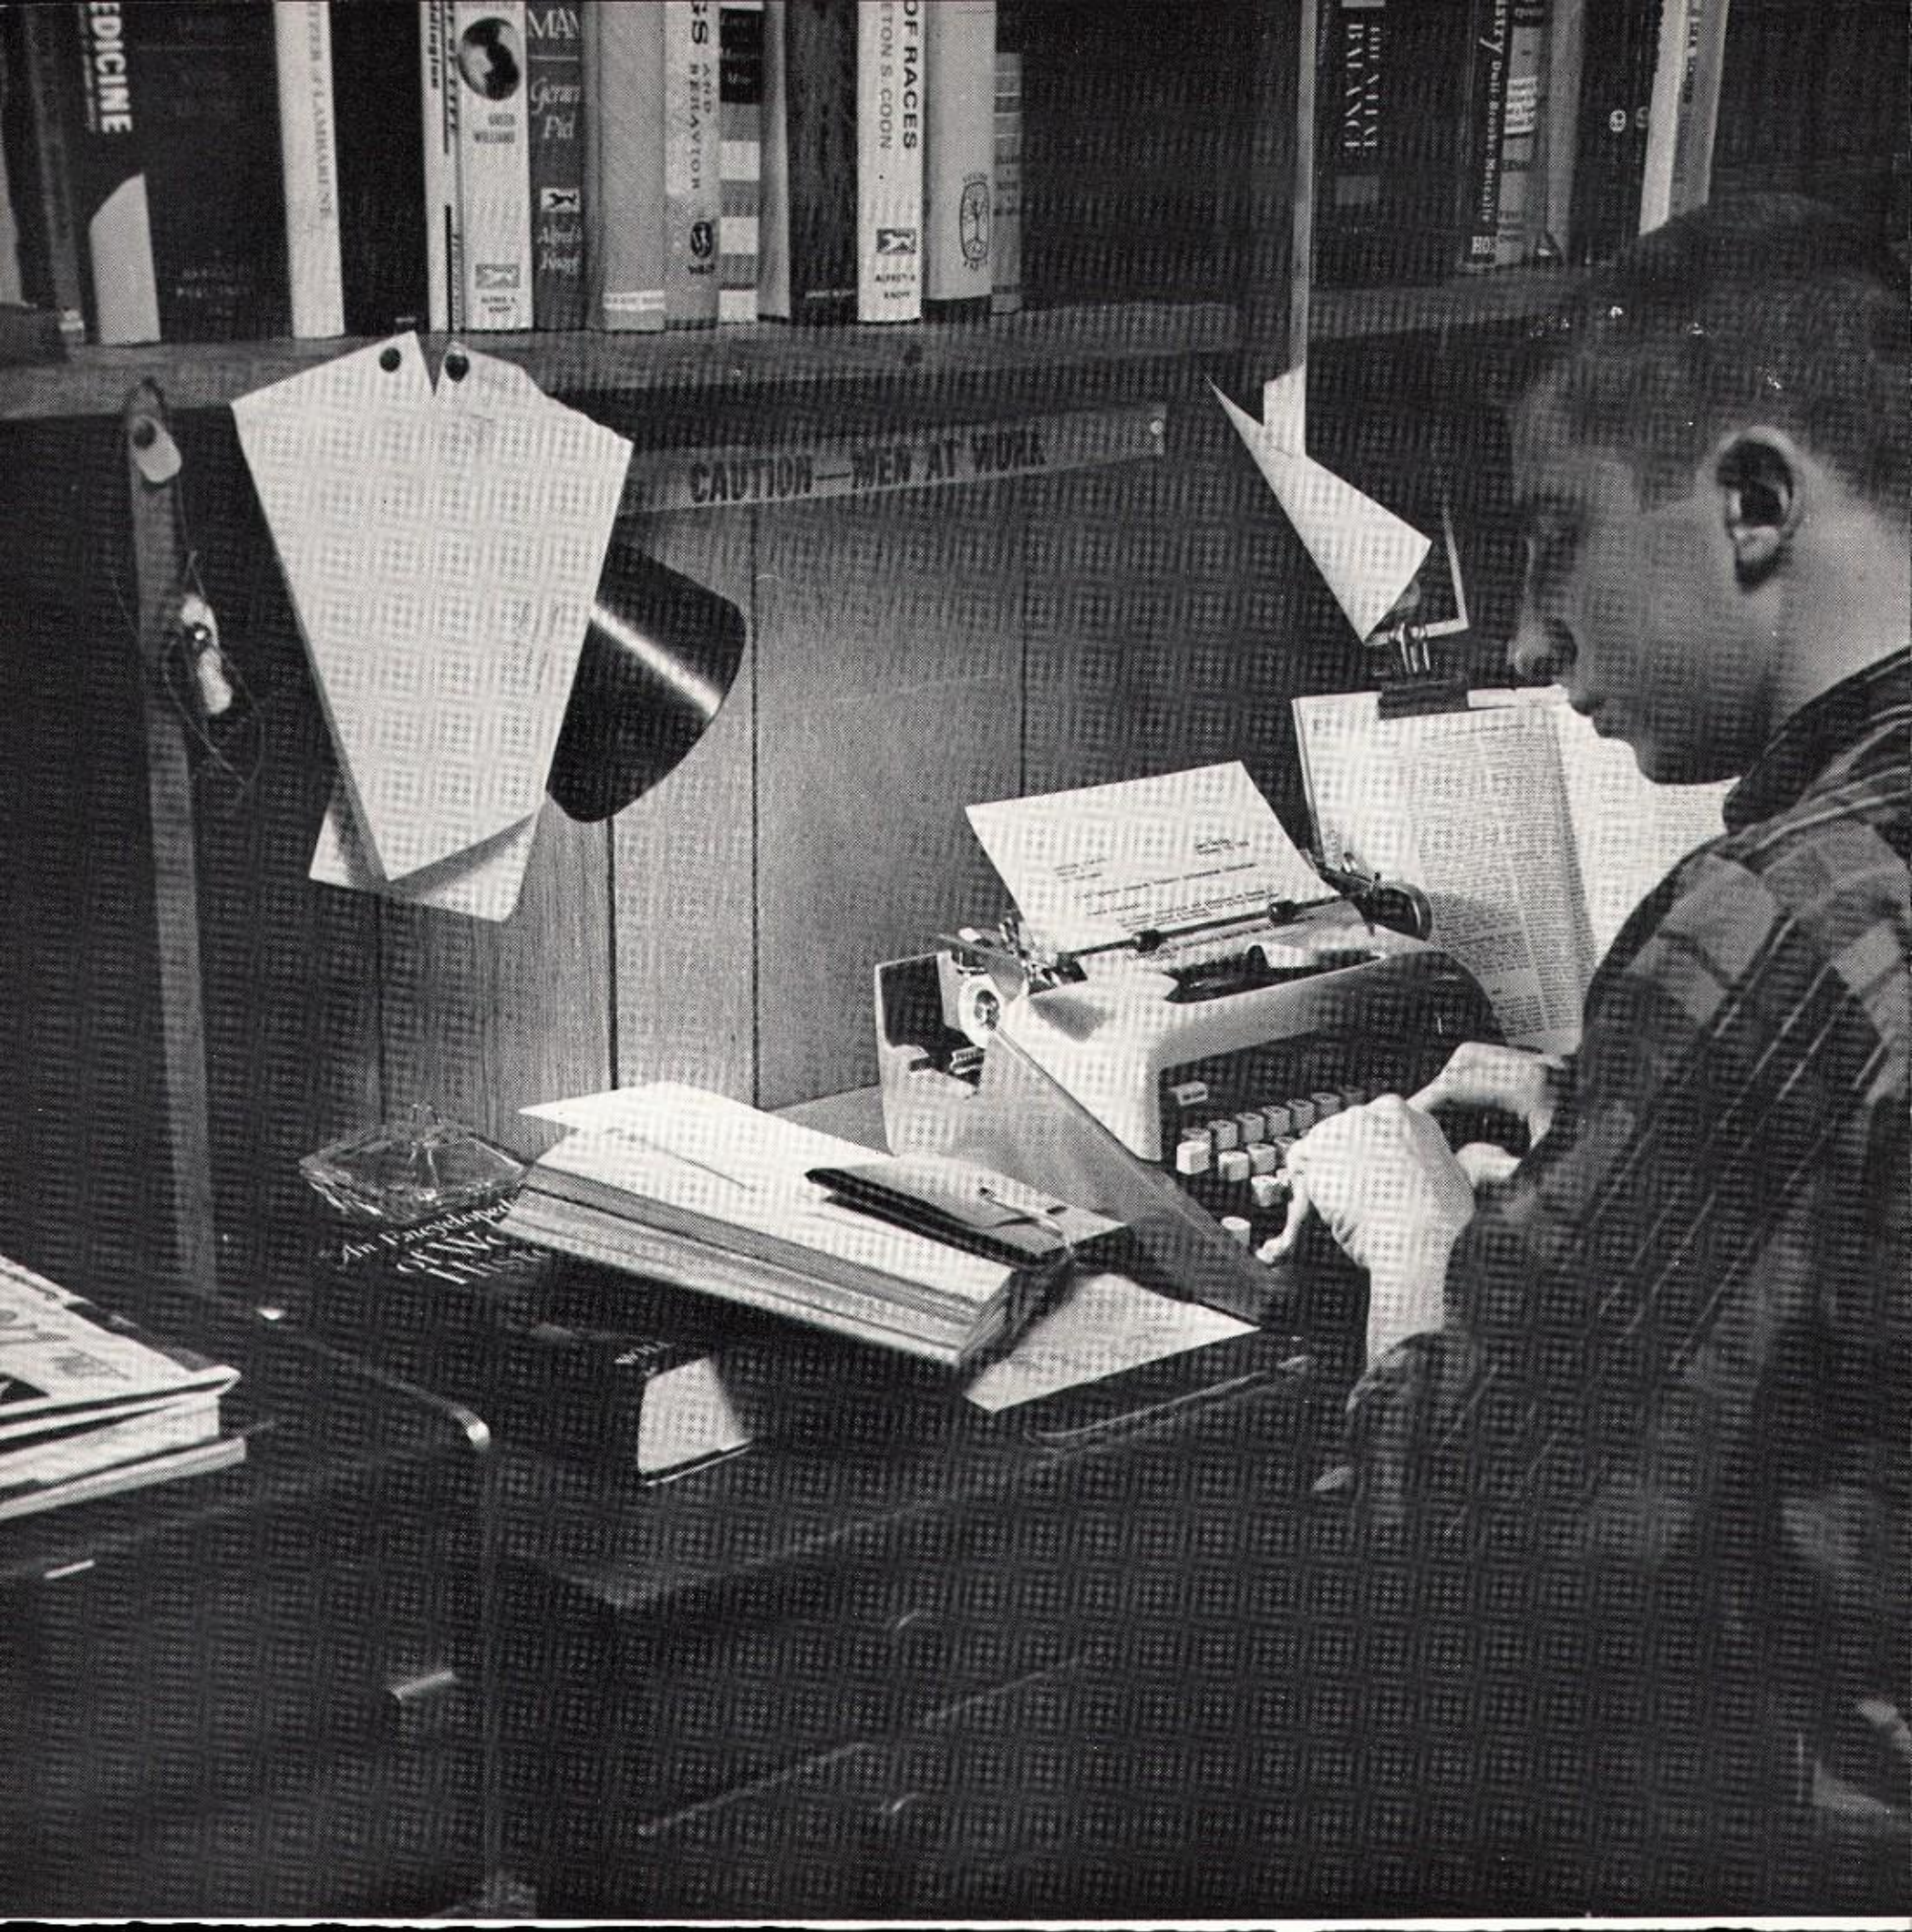
And fondly remembered,
We may only retain
Scattered remembrances
Forming a catalogue
Of our hopes and failures,
Our efforts and dreams,
Our years of searching.









ACADEMIC

The hectic imminence
Of tests and term papers;
The stimulation
Of class discussion;
The proud relief
Of finished assignments;
The hours of work
Done in one vital study hall
That passes too quickly. . .

Education is knowledge gained,
Though seemingly lost
In the confusion
Of busy work and coming tests.
Absorbing, adapting,
Uncertainly creating,
We search
For a blend of ideas,
A segment of truth.

Dr. Reber assumes office of superintendent

Dr. Reber begins to take over the duties of his demanding position as LT's superintendent-principal.

A new era in the history of Lyons Township High School began as Dr. Donald D. Reber, appointed last spring by the Board of Education, took over the task of continuing the able administration of the retiring superintendent-principal Mr. Olsen. The wide range of Dr. Reber's administrative experience, including the superintendency of a school system in Claremont, California, which included eight elementary and secondary schools, had well prepared him for the complicated job of taking over a large school with an excellent reputation to uphold. In spite of the demands of his duties and his membership in numerous educational organizations, Dr. Reber strived to maintain an interest in the individual student and his welfare.

An element of permanence was provided during the change of administrations by the continuing service of the members of the Board of Education and the administrative personnel. Although the administration did not plan any major changes in procedure, this year was marked by the completion of the new addition to North Campus and changes in individual departments. The emphasis remained on continuing LT's fine traditions during a period of potentially difficult transition.

The belief that reading comprehension, writing capability, and oral proficiency are as important as the mechanics of grammar is an integral part of the philosophy of the English Department, the fine quality of which was reaffirmed in a survey conducted last spring. The department feels that the development of these skills through three years of required courses will help produce articulate and clear-thinking citizens. Elective speech, drama, journalism, creative writing, and college preparatory courses at the junior and senior levels allow upperclassmen not only to obtain a further command of the language, but also to extend their knowledge to more specialized fields of English. The variety of courses offered provides the background necessary for more advanced college work as well as the literacy necessary in all phases of life.

The circular formation and small size of Mr. Cantrall's Creative Writing class facilitate discussion of a member's work.

Oral communication,

Because of the increasingly important role that language plays in universal understanding, the Language Department attempts to give its students more than skeleton vocabularies and the basic concepts of the grammatical structures of foreign tongues. Through a study of the history, literature, customs, art, and music of the countries, students become familiar with different ways of life. While an extensive program of outside reading furnishes not only reading practice but also an enlarged recognition vocabulary, language laboratories, records, tape recordings, and movies provide opportunities to master the spoken language. By studying the mechanics of foreign languages, students gain not only skill in a different medium of expression, but also a deeper understanding of their own language.

Because today's students are members of an increasingly complex society, the Social Studies Department seeks to give them an understanding of their social obligations. To help develop well-informed citizens, the freshman social studies course presents students with hypothetical social problems, thus teaching them to form logical conclusions. Individual research and panel discussions on all levels allow students to investigate more specialized topics and to increase their personal knowledge. The addition of a new course, Contemporary Thought, which analyzes the effect of past and present societies on modern civilization, and the expansion of the team-teaching program prove that the department tries unceasingly to utilize modern educational developments to meet the individual needs of the students.

Diversified offering

Change, the key word in education today, unquestionably has LT's Mathematics Department as one of its greatest adherents. Never slacking in its efforts to provide for the individual students' differences in abilities and desires, the continually expanding department now offers a total of nineteen different courses. Such a wide variety of courses enables the teachers to help students who have serious deficiencies as well as to challenge those who have reached the college level. In accordance with the modern emphasis on the why of mathematics, students are encouraged to concentrate more on the development of logical thinking than on the mere mastery of manipulation.

in Science Department

Finally fulfilling its desire to include all of its students in the new approach to scientific education, the Science Department introduced the BSCS (Biological Sciences Curriculum Study) biology course this year. All the modernized courses stress the logical interpretation of knowledge gathered from laboratory experiments, reading, class discussion, and films, rather than the mere memorization of facts. The student is thus able to obtain a better understanding and appreciation of what science is and of how a scientist approaches his work. Many North Campus science classes now make use of new physical facilities, including classroom-lab combinations and two modern seminar rooms. These intellectual and physical advances demonstrate the department's concern for making students aware of the importance of science in the modern world.

To provide a useful background of technical knowledge and manipulative skills is one of the major aims of the Industrial Arts Department. With the addition of a new drawing room and a photography laboratory at North Campus, more opportunities are provided to engage in a wider range of activities. A state-sponsored contest for projects and an opportunity to suggest solutions for a problem set forth by the Illinois Institute of Technology furnished the impetus for deft handicraft.

Through work in color, layout, and design, students of the Art Department are encouraged to find an opportunity for self-expression. The use of such varied media as tempera paint, India ink, chalk, and crayon in basic types of artistic creation enables art students to increase their general cultural background. Those who desired more emphasis on aesthetic appreciation as opposed to practical application could take advantage of a new course, Cultural History, which teaches the importance of art in the history of Western civilization.

In their newly-acquired classroom, mechanical drawing students work out an assignment as Mr. Sedgwick offers individual guidance.

personal techniques

To meet the practical needs of all students, the Business Department offers courses which encompass not only the basic office skills, but also the means for solving everyday consumer problems. Although other courses continued to be popular, student interest and enrollment were highest in typing, perhaps the most easily applicable of the many skills taught. To improve their rhythm and speed, beginners typed to music, an example of the variety of teaching methods members of the department employ. Whether they desire experience for a business career or for personal use, students find the skills they attain an asset to their education.

Dedicated to the basic purpose of preparing students to meet future domestic problems, the Home Economics Department provides learning through experience. Because the courses have become more diverse in their content, both boys and girls now take advantage of them. The addition of new and better facilities, including remodeled classrooms and modern home equipment, enables students to learn skills functional to everyday life.

The desire of the Music Department to maintain its record of excellent concerts is only surpassed by its concern for the improvement of the musical ability and knowledge of the individual. In order to give all students who enjoy music a chance to further develop their interests, courses in harmony and music appreciation are offered in additions to the activities of the bands, orchestra, and choruses. The enthusiastic participation of the instrumentalists and vocalists in district and state competitions and the popularity of the frequent school music programs demonstrate the success of the department in achieving its goals.

Physical education

Encouraged by the national emphasis on physical fitness, the Physical Education Department again stressed muscle development and coordination. In accordance with the suggestions offered by a detailed survey of the department, facilities were expanded and new equipment added. While boys' and girls' classes continued to offer the familiar team games and individual sports, senior co-educational classes featured badminton, golf, and archery. The leadership program for girls and the intramural and inter-school sports activities for boys offered opportunities for responsibility and co-operation beyond those available in a traditional physical education program.

Although the mechanics of operating a large school often seem only indirectly connected with the educational process, the successful performance of these tasks by LT's many Service Personnel is essential. While the secretaries handle the business details of correspondence and office work, janitors work to provide an attractive and efficient atmosphere for learning. The cooks and health office personnel safeguard the physical well-being of the students by offering breakfast snacks and nutritious lunches and by providing necessary medical service for school emergencies. As important as the work accomplished is the spirit in which it is done — a janitor's teasing of a student as he works late in the afternoon, the friendly voice of a cafeteria worker after a hard morning of tests. the smile of a secretary while answering a question.

Student Associatio

The addition of two new committees, Jazz Concert and Aims and Goals, and the revision of the members' handbook illustrated the continual effort of the Student Association to expand to meet the needs of the school. The influence of the Association on the individual was evidenced by Student Council direction of such familiar activities as Homecoming, Club Carnival, the sale of food at games, and four dances. Other projects included a Newcomers' party, a jazz concert, and the promotion of an AFS weekend as part of the foreign student program.

To increase voting percentages and ensure careful consideration of candidates, representatives informed underclassmen prior to the annual elections about the procedures and importance of student government. The knowledge of the members themselves was increased through attendance at several conventions. President Steve Warsh prepared for his position by participating in the summer National Student Council Leadership Conference in Colorado. In an effort to profit from the experiences of other schools in student government, LT hosted the Illinois Association of Student Councils Convention in the summer of 1963.

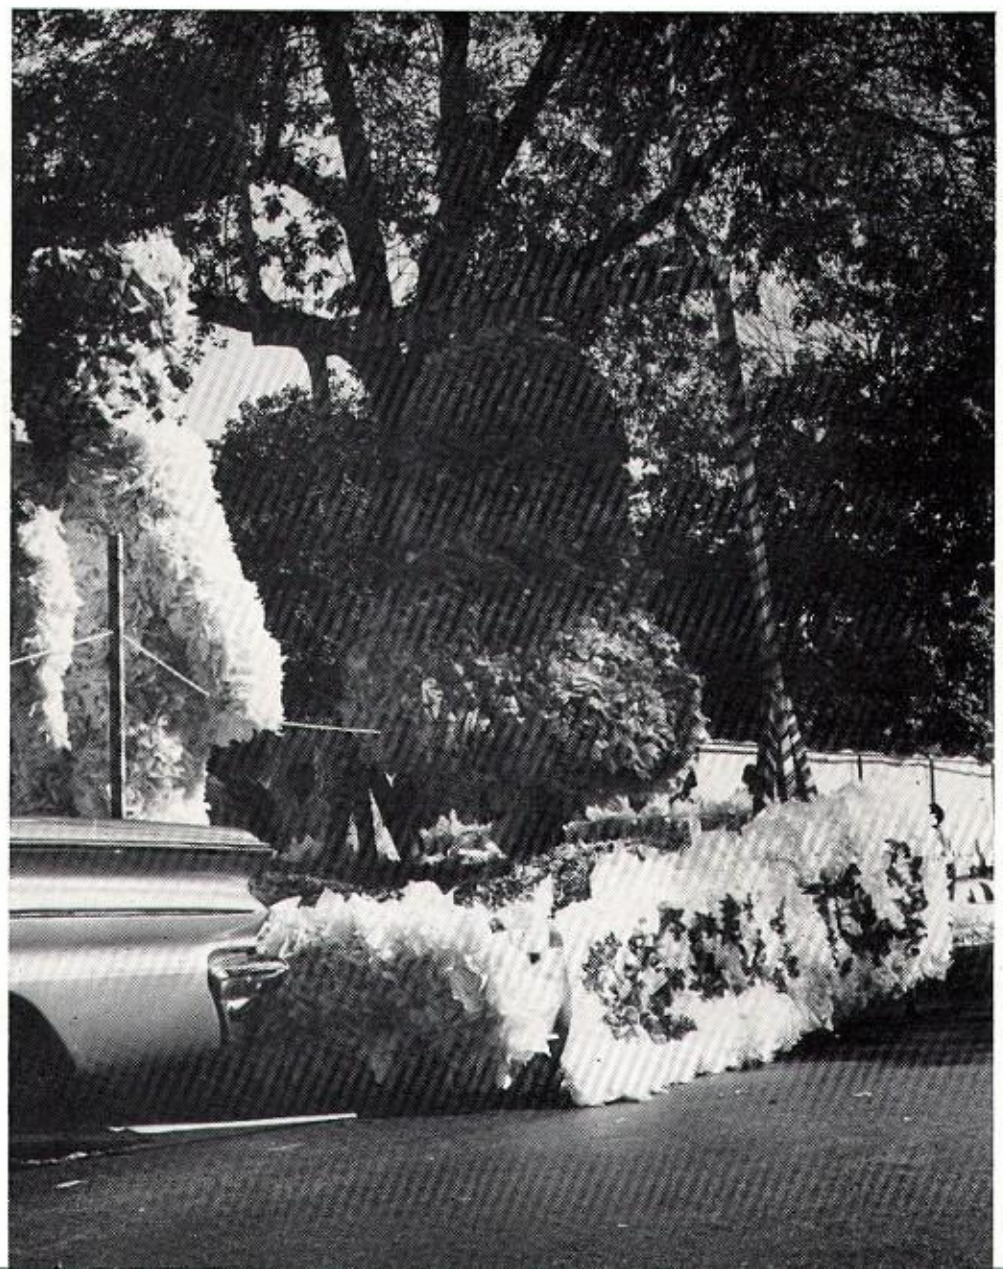
One of the ties between Boys' Club and Girls' Club, the joint Homecoming float, "The Bell Told," moves through the streets prior to the game.



Interest in every individual, a concept emphasized throughout the year by Boys' Club, was evident at its Newcomers' party, which sought to demonstrate LT's general friendliness and concern for the new student. Led by successive presidents Bill Ogden and Tom Armstrong and sponsored by Mr. Neuneker, Mr. Nemecek, and Mr. Gianuzzi, the Boys' Club Board and all active members cooperated with Girls' Club by serving at the Dad 'n Daughter dinner and by sharing in the building of the Homecoming float. Interested members also published the Boys' Club Directory and sponsored the annual Boys' Club dance, "Mist of Atlantis."

Fashion shows, teas, and parties highlighted the 1963-64 Girls' Club calendar of activities. In an effort to give all LT girls a chance to take part in the club's program, traditional events such as Bow Day, the Girls' Club Dance, Dad and Daughter Night, and the Christmas Tea were again held this year. An additional responsibility members shared was the support of an orphan in Greece, a project which was undertaken jointly with Boys' Club. The board and council, under the leadership of Kathy Taafe and Cindy Pritchard and sponsors Mrs. Bock, Miss Herzog, and Miss Gordon, worked to complete another year of recreation and worthwhile activities for the girls of LT.

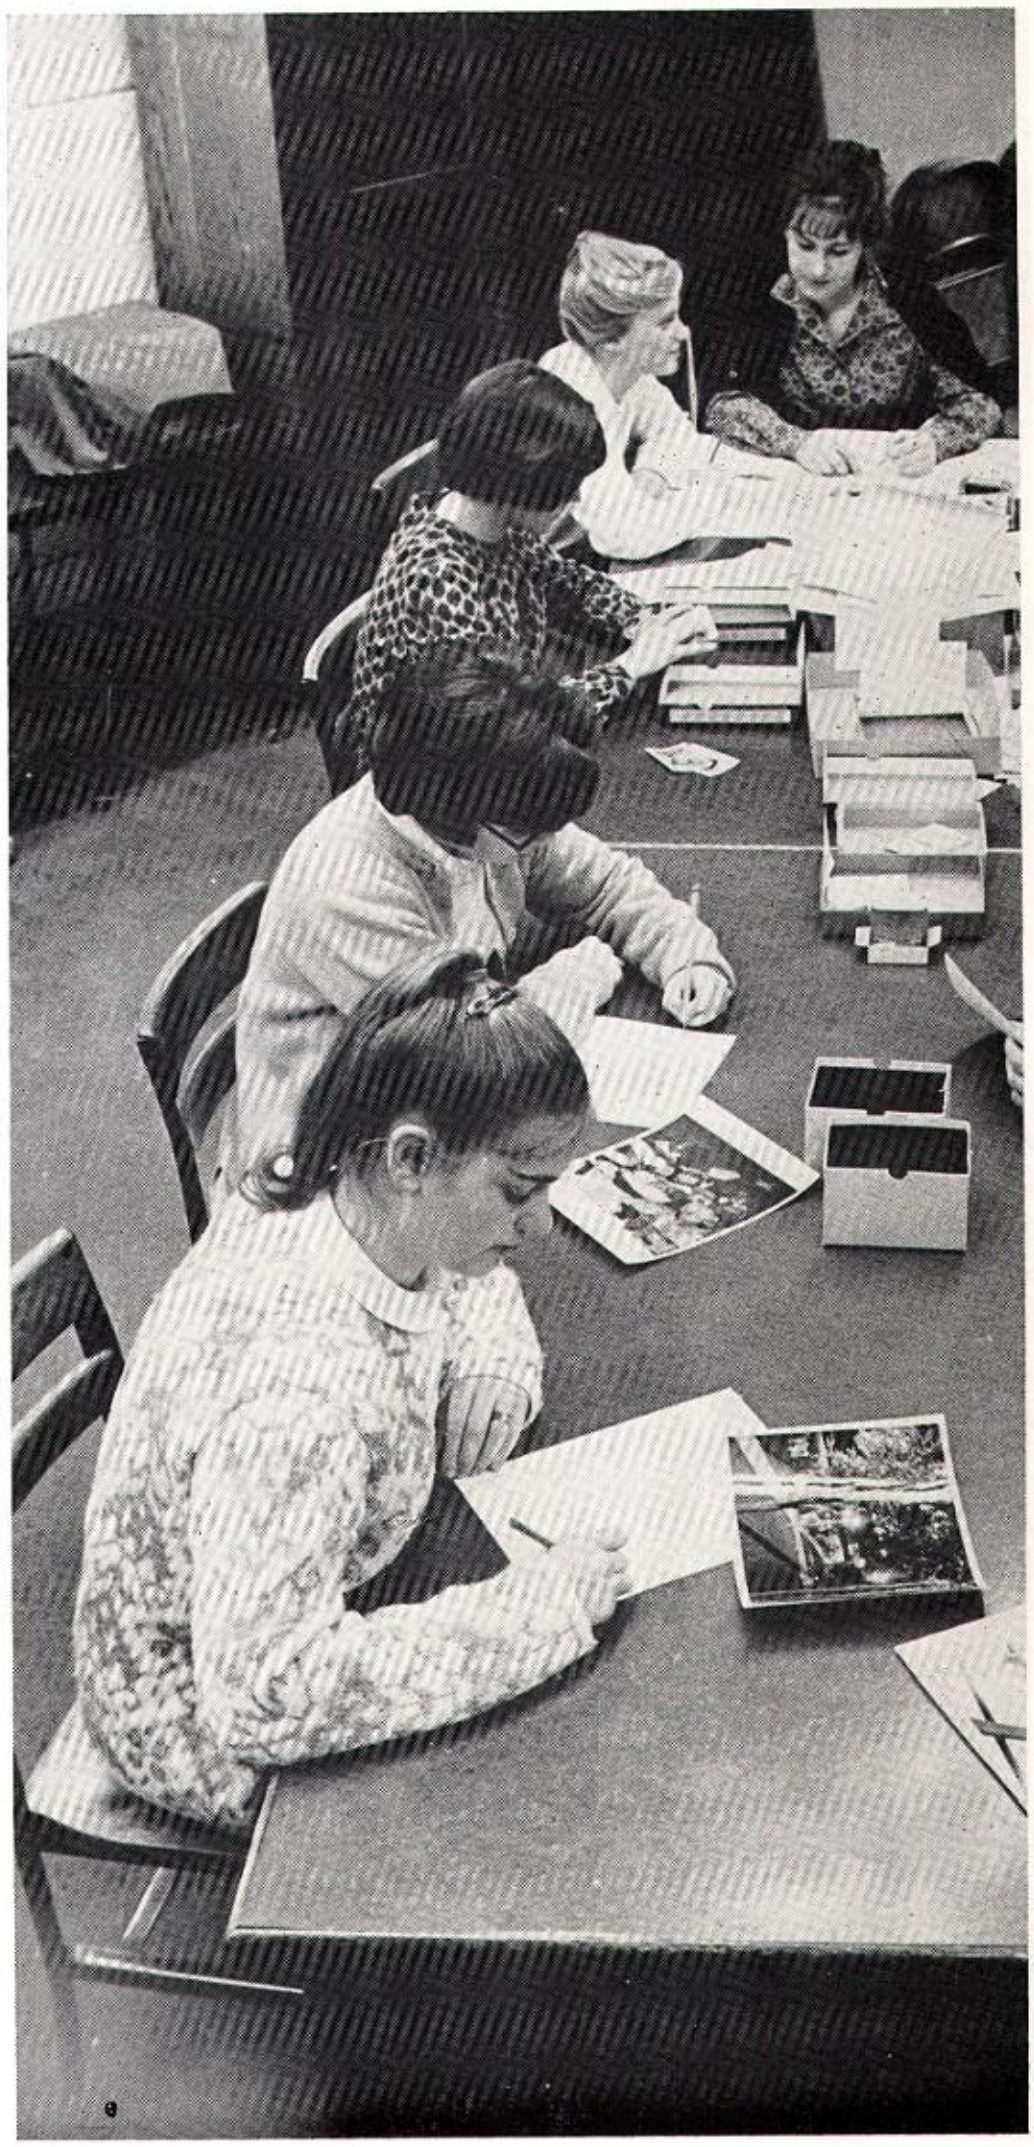
Integrating several phases of their separate, demanding duties, the 1964 "Tab" editors perfect layouts, type copy, and crop photos during the quiet of sixth period.

Photo caption deadlines and the processing of senior pictures provide plenty of work for the "Tab" staff members.



Eliminating widows and copying layouts were just two of the many skills learned by Tabulae staff members this year. The editors, with the guidance of sponsor Mr. Bull, began the year with many discussions of possible themes for the book. After staff members began reporting on the club "beats," copy editors Carol Sanders and Dick O'Connor began the task of rewriting copy and of supervising captions and running heads. Art staff members directed by editors Jody Bradley and Nedra Veatch, drew up the lay-outs. Nancy Cicero and Mark Oiseth, photography editors, assigned and cropped pictures, while co-ordinating editor Joy Rusch worked frantically to keep the departments moving.

In those rare moments when they were not overburdened with work to be done, the staff members took time out to attend several conventions for student journalists. Notable among these was the ISHPA convention held in Champaign in September. Later in the year, at the NSPA Convention, held in Chicago over the Thanksgiving holiday, Nancy Cicero represented the book on a panel discussion at the organization's request. A potluck and a Christmas party with improvised entertainment helped to unite the staff and to provide a break from the routine of ever-present deadlines.

"Lion" staff prides itself on outstanding record

The one hundred staff members of the Lion, under the direction of Miss Keefe, experienced another hectic, but satisfying year, marked initially by the completion of a long-awaited darkroom for the photographers. While "Lion" reporters worked to gather information and the editors worried over last-minute features and two-week deadlines, Press Bureau managed to send out forty stories a week to the local newspapers. To supplement their classroom study of journalistic technique and to increase their practical knowledge gained through long hours of work, staff members also attended several conventions held at near-by colleges and universities, which featured lectures on newspaper publication.

"Lion" members prepare to send their latest issue to various schools throughout the country as a part of their journalism exchange programs with other newspapers.

LT's branch of a national honor society of students interested in journalism, Quill and Scroll consisted of members elected and chosen from the senior "Lion" staff and chosen from the "Tabulae" by the yearbook sponsor. The highlight of the year was a candlelight initiation ceremony at which pins and certificates were distributed. Besides enjoying the high honor of membership in the organization, members were also encouraged by sponsors Miss Keefe and Mr. Bull to submit copy to newspapers and to creative writing contests.

This year Writers' Club was organized into a regular staff, composed of members who had expressed interest in writing early in the year. Reading and selecting from the many submissions to "Pen and Inklings," the student anthology published annually by the club, took up a great deal of the after-school time of the members and of the sponsors, Miss Jordan and Mr. Blei. At the regular meetings, members also criticized each other's works and discussed various literary styles, an activity which allowed them a respite from their work on the literary magazine.

During the mad rush that precedes Homecoming weekend, Cicero Club members hurry to finish painting the sign for their float, "Roman for Victory."

After officers were elected early in the fall, Latin II Club held meetings at which a teacher from a neighboring high school gave an illustrated lecture on Greek and Roman architecture. The Saturnalia festivals provided an excuse for the annual Christmas party, where members played games and sang Christmas carols in Latin. In March, all first year Latin students were invited to a meeting in order to get acquainted with the club and its activities. The Roman banquet, the spring highlight of the year, was attended by members in Roman attire, and it proved to be as much fun as it had been in previous years.

The activities of this year's Cicero Club gave North Campus Latin students the opportunity to meet others also interested in the language and customs of ancient Rome. With the help of their sponsor, Miss Birney, the members not only created interest in the language but also enjoyed various social activities under the direction of co-consuls, John White and Clark Hulse. Meetings, usually held once a month, involved such activities as planning for a booth in the Club Carnival, a picnic, a Saturnalia Christmas party, celebrations in honor of the birthdays of Cicero and of Rome, and an authentic Roman banquet to which aspiring "Romans" wore the customary togas and stolas.

Enriching students' cultural knowledge of Spanish-speaking countries was the purpose of the Spanish Club, led by President A. J. Ferrantino. After the elections and initiation of officers in the fall, meetings were held twice monthly at each campus. The construction of a Homecoming float and of the traditional pinata for the Christmas party provided the chance for the members to become better acquainted. A dinner at a Spanish restaurant climaxed the year's activities.

nembers interested in furthering language skills

Travel talks and short skits presented at meetings of this year's German Club helped to increase the members' facility in the spoken language, while the annual dinner and movie provided insight into German cultural tastes. The atmosphere of unity and congeniality created at the Christmas party provided the basis for the co-operation in constructing the organization's Club Carnival booth later in the year. Sponsors Miss Meyer and Mr. Hoch attempted to make the meetings, led by presidents Ed Jankowski and Ron Richardson, informative as well as entertaining.

Under the supervision of sponsors Miss Ford and Miss Lutz, North Campus president Cheryl Geiss also planned such activities as a Christmas party and the annual spring banquet. South Campus president Francoise Bryan, aided by sponsors Mrs. Unna and Miss Comiskey, also organized several informative meetings and arranged a successful and interesting dinner at a French restaurant.

Unlike other language clubs, Russian Club includes all students interested in that country, whether or not they have a knowledge of the language. Sponsored by Mr. Petronaitis and led by presidents Pete Haas and Dave Molnar, the North and South campus branches enjoyed such social activities as a Christmas potluck and a spring banquet. To foster interest in the language itself, the club visited a Russian Orthodox Church, sang Russian songs, and discussed literature of Russia. Attending a performance of the Moscow State Circus when it visited Chicago proved to be the highlight of the year for the members.

Opportunities for dramatic expression, honor

To acquaint its members with all aspects of the theater is the goal of Dramatics Club. Plays, readings, and scenes were given at both campuses to increase interest in the dramatic arts, although there was an increased emphasis this year on make-up, stagecraft, publicity, costumes, and ushering. Under the supervision of presidents Danise Stockbarger and Nic Knappen, the club also held a Christmas potluck and a spring party. The Theater Board, a new group in the club, consisted of two members from each field of dramatic work who were jointly responsible for their special area of interest in each LT dramatic production.

The debaters, working under the guidance of Miss Thurnau, Mr. Blaha, Mr. Anderson, and Miss Rimby, practiced their oratorical skills at several early tournaments. A fine showing at the Normal University Debate Meet was followed by the Metropolitan Debate Union Tournament at Navy Pier in Chicago. At the "Rosebowl of Debate," the Augustana Invitational Debate Tournament, LT debaters finished in their usual high position. The state meets and appearance on the WBBM-TV program "Rebuttal" provided climaxes to the year's competitions.

Seeking to emphasize the importance of a knowledge of current events, this year's Forum helped its members to become better acquainted with newsworthy people and places through a series of talks by distinguished guest speakers. The year began with a talk by Charles Percy, then one of the leading candidates for the Republican gubernatorial nomination in Illinois. President Rick Schaefer planned many other informative meetings with the aid of sponsors Mr. Wood, Mr. T. Davis, and Mr. Attig. Other guest speakers included Theodore Le Boy, President of the American Medical Association; Morton Ryweck, Executive Chairman of the Chicago chapter of SANE; and a representative from the Turkish consulate.

Formation of the new Folk Music Club was greeted by great enthusiasm from both North and South Campus students. Monthly meetings under the leadership of Phillip Phillips consisted mainly of hootenannies and occasional presentations by guest singers or instrumentalists. Members of the group also made several trips to Chicago to hear popular folk singing groups. Such talks as the one by Father Ian Mitchell, originator of the Folk Mass, served to increase the member's understanding and enjoyment of folk music.

Members of Mu Tau began an active year with the construction of their Homecoming float, "Around Glenbard in One Day." Christmas activities, which included a party and the annual corsage sale, were highlighted by a trip to Chicago to hear a professional performance of "The Messiah." The enrichment of each member's knowledge and appreciation of music was emphasized at the many regular meetings, during which folk music groups, members, and faculty sponsors performed. Along less musical lines, the members constructed a booth for the Club Carnival and provided the food and waitress service for the Pops Concert, in order to finance their other activities.

Interest in teaching, nursing careers stimulated

The informative meetings of the Future Nurses of America help all who are interested in a career in the field of medicine. The speeches of entertaining guest speakers and several trips to hospitals and nursing schools helped members decide on areas of specialization for themselves. Selling candy and Homecoming confetti to raise money for the Mildred Fetzner Scholarship Fund have become traditions for the club. This year a new project was introduced: the collection of new and used clothing for St. Vincent's Orphanage. Led by club presidents Barbara Kessmen and Sue Debaun and guided by sponsors Mrs. Scheeler and Mrs. Norbut, the club also planned and held its annual Christmas dinner, spring picnic, and senior farewell party.

by discussions at vocational club meetings

In order to further interest in the career of teaching, the Future Teachers of America introduced their members to various aspects of careers in education. Under the guidance of president Carolyn DiBenedetto and sponsors Miss Corley and Mrs. LaVigne, the club featured several guest speakers at its meetings. Included among these persons were a teacher of foreign languages, a teacher of the handicapped, and a high school social worker. Representatives of the club also increased their knowledge of this vocational field by attending two special meetings, an annual workshop, held this year at Oak Lawn High School, and the Illinois Association of Future Teachers of America convention. Social highlights included the customary Christmas party and a June dinner in honor of the graduating seniors.

Students interested in the modern business world are given the opportunity to learn about new trends through membership in LT's Business Club. The purpose of the club is to supplement classroom work by presenting programs that are outside the scope of the regular class. Many of the meetings featured secretaries, telephone personnel, and business executives who described their particular phases of work in order to provide members with information that might be helpful in their choice of a business career.

Future homemakers found the opportunity to enlarge their practical knowledge by participating in the activities of the Home Economics Club. The first of the club's monthly meetings, a fall style show, was soon followed by the tea at which a guest speaker discussed the creation of artistic holiday centerpieces. Other programs which centered around various aspects of cooking, fashion design, and good grooming, were supplemented by field trips to fashion shows, bake sales, and home furnishing displays.

Through the activities of Bi-Phy-Chem, science-oriented students had an opportunity to exchange views and to increase their knowledge of various areas of the sciences. In addition to participating in the student-led discussions about physics, astronomy, biochemistry, psychology, and other topics, the members received valuable help with their science projects. President Kent Williams and sponsors Mrs. Wenner and Mr. Arthur Hanson also planned a field trip to Argonne National Laboratory in conjunction with the Science Seminar.

With slide rule and reference books ready, Bob Parda, Mary Ingeman, and Dave Mowery prepare to do research on a new project for JETS.

With sponsors Mr. Hunt and Mr. Rorke helping to guide its initial activities, the Junior Engineering Technical Society, commonly known as JETS, began its first year at LT. Backed by the financial assistance of several local industries, president Bob Parda and the twenty other members of the club started their major project, the construction of a 1/12 scale remote-control automobile. Although completing the vehicle in time for a fair in February was the immediate goal of the club, its basic purpose was to provide an opportunity for members to increase each other's knowledge of engineering and to give mutual aid on projects.

Conducting archaeological surveys around Cook County was one of the most satisfying activities of this year's Archaeology Club. Sponsored by Mr. Peryon and led by president Karen Johnson, the group also reorganized the collection of artifacts belonging to the school. During the year members increased their knowledge of this field by seeing films on archaeology, hearing talks by members and guest speakers, and discussing various "digs" made by individual members.

Studying several Indian relics, members of Archaeology Club try to determine the age of their collected specimens.

To further interest in skiing by teaching the fundamental techniques of the sport was the main purpose of Ski Club. Meetings, under the direction of president George Reutzel, were held every three weeks in the North Campus Community Room. Members often watched movies in which the skiing forms of well-known professionals were analyzed and explained. With the help of sponsor Mr. Shouba, club members also discussed comparative advantages and disadvantages of local skiing areas.

Under the direction of their sponsor, Miss Mann, and president Joyce Godar, Pep Club members worked constantly to boost school spirit and the concept of good sportsmanship. Monthly meetings, which varied in their content, included skits demonstrating proper conduct at games and distribution and filling out of questionnaires, which allowed each girl to express her opinion on club activities. Members elected class representatives to supervise various committees, which were organized to carry out specific phases of the club's projects. In late winter a party was held at which those members who had attended the most games in each sport were awarded prizes.

As a part of their annual drive to increase school spirit, Pep Club members Betsy Leichliter and Joyce Godar urge South Campus students to invest in an LT "Lion" button.

of Pep, Ski, Weightlifting, Fencing Clubs

Thrusts, parries, and lunges were only a few of the manuevers taught by sponsor Mrs. John Champion at meetings of Fencing Club, which just finished its first year of existence at LT. The small size of the club and the enthusiasm of its members allowed for full participation in the frequent fencing matches. Although both girls and boys enjoyed the club's activities, the team which was formed for inter-school matches was composed only of boys. Frequent competition not only gave members a chance to practice their skills, but they also aroused an increased interest in the sport, giving returning members hope for a larger, even more active club next year.

Isometric contraction exercises as well as workouts with conventional weights were important parts of the program of the newly-formed Weight-lifting Club. Under the direction of their sponsor, Mr. Carpenter, members met twice a week in order to increase their strength and general physical condition. Reasons for boys joining the club varied from improving appearance to practicing for competitive weight-lifting, an activity in which several members actively engaged during the year. After weeks of muscle-building practice the club sponsored an intramural powerlift meet, held for the benefit of its members as well as for other interested LT students.

Hooks, splits, spares, and strikes were major items of concern at the local alleys near North Campus as Bowling Club members gathered for another successful season of league play. As in past years, the club's two leagues met in rotating competition once a week throughout the school year. Present at all meetings were sponsors Mr. Gooch, Mr. Bennett, Mr. Hammer, and Mr. Hamilton, who, with the aid of the league secretaries, supervised the matches and kept records for the teams. Of special interest to all members was the annual Turkey Roll which provided a Thanksgiving turkey for the winner. The large number of students participating in all of the club's activities proved it to be among the most active clubs in LT's extra-curricular program.

The care with which new members of Rifle Club were instructed in the exacting art of marksmansrip was evidence of the club's main objective — to teach the safe handling and use of firearms. The sharpshooters met several times a week at the South Campus range to practice shooting under the direction of sponsors Mr. Baker and Mr. Kenneth Nelson. Various tournaments held during the year gave members added incentive to practice their aim.

Increasing their knowledge about horses and improving their techniques of riding was the main goal of members of this year's Saddle and Spur. Sponsored by Mr. Love, the club worked for varied and informative meetings through the presentation of talks, movies, and discussions concerning horses and horseback riding. Although the members did not go riding as a group, each active participant in club activities found that he was able to learn much about the skill of horsemanship.

Under the guidance of sponsor Mr. Hursh, this year's Model Railroad Club sought to promote enjoyment and interest in the hobby. The club's principal activity was the construction and operation of a scale model railroad in the basement at South Campus although lectures by members and discussions of home layouts were also part of the bi-weekly meetings. Visiting noted model layouts and points of interest on real railroads served to supplement the knowledge of the members.

auctions, contests at after-school sessions

Weekly meetings of the forty members of Chess Club were marked by spirited competition for the best player. With the help of sponsor Miss Milesko, president Richard Quinn planned meetings designed not only to teach the essentials of the game to beginners, but also to instruct more advanced players in various techniques of strategy. Numerous interscholastic meets, including several matches with R-B, highlighted the year. Members also entered a booth in the club carnival, although their main objective remained to refine their game.

Among the most popular meetings of the Stamp and Coin Club were frequent auctions, which enabled members to purchase desired items. To further allow them to enrich their individual collections, president Jim Davis invited two dealers to each club meeting. Members made several visits as a group to local coin shows. The proceeds from the club's social project, their booth at Club Carnival, were used to purchase a painting for the school.

Photography's role as both an art and a science was the concern of members of Camera Club. To help members improve their own photographic technique, the club featured presentations by local professionals Roger Wyckoff, Dave White, and Milton Fanta at its meetings. In addition, South Campus officers Bruce Ashley and Dave Squiers demonstrated correct darkroom technique, while North Campus members studied color-processing in detail. The annual Camera Club photo contest, again highly successful, gave members a chance to practice what they had learned.

Science Fiction Club, which has just completed its first year at LT, is devoted to acquainting its members with some of the better works of science fiction and to exploring science fiction topics through group discussions. At the frequent meetings members compared notes on their favorite literary styles, read selections from the club's library, and often wrote original stories. Highlights of the year's activities included a number of informal discussions on various topics of interest to members. Future plans of the group, which is sponsored by Mr. Clevenger and led by president Harry Squires, include expanding the organization's already extensive library and sponsoring trips to see science fiction movies.

Encouragement of "Ham" radio activity was the main objective of Radio Club, which put special emphasis on helping its members obtain their "Ham" licenses. Under the leadership of president Bob Benda and with the sponsorship of Mr. Warning, members discussed the construction and maintenance of a station, as well as basic techniques to be used in broadcasting. The operators co-operated in sending and receiving messages throughout the country over W9MTJ, the official station of the club.

LT, community receive benefits from activities

Through many beneficial projects, the Junior Red Cross Council strived to help others. The group, guided by sponsor Miss Ripley, completed a very successful year. One of their first projects was making nut cups as tray favors at Thanksgiving. At Christmastime, president Janice Robertson supervised the activity of filling stockings and distributing them to children at nearby hospitals. Two annual projects, the selling of shamrocks on Saint Patrick's Day and the Red Cross Drive, rounded out their year's activities.

The many services performed by the Aides during their study hall time contribute greatly to the efficiency of the school. Office aides not only carry messages, but also help with secretarial work. In their respective fields of duty, nurses and library aides help keep necessary records. Audio-visual aides help run the projection equipment, while door guards keep students in the building during the lunch hour. In the spring, a dinner was held in honor of the aides, recognizing their hours of service to LT.

The aim of the Girls' Athletic Association is to provide its members with a chance to develop proficiency in various sports and skills. Although leadership training is an important facet of the program, teamwork and competition were equally stressed. The year began with the annual fall picnic, which featured a preview of coming GAA activities. Other highlights of the year included Dad and Daughter Night, the GAA dance, the annual awards banquet, and the construction of a second-place Homecoming float, "LT Harbors Victory." A new feature, the Modern Dance Concert, gave opportunities for participation to the best dance groups from each gym class. The regular sports program featured such activities as archery, speed-away, bowling, apparatus, modern dance, and volleyball. GAA's generally well-planned schedule provided opportunities for recreation as well as for the improvement of athletic skills.

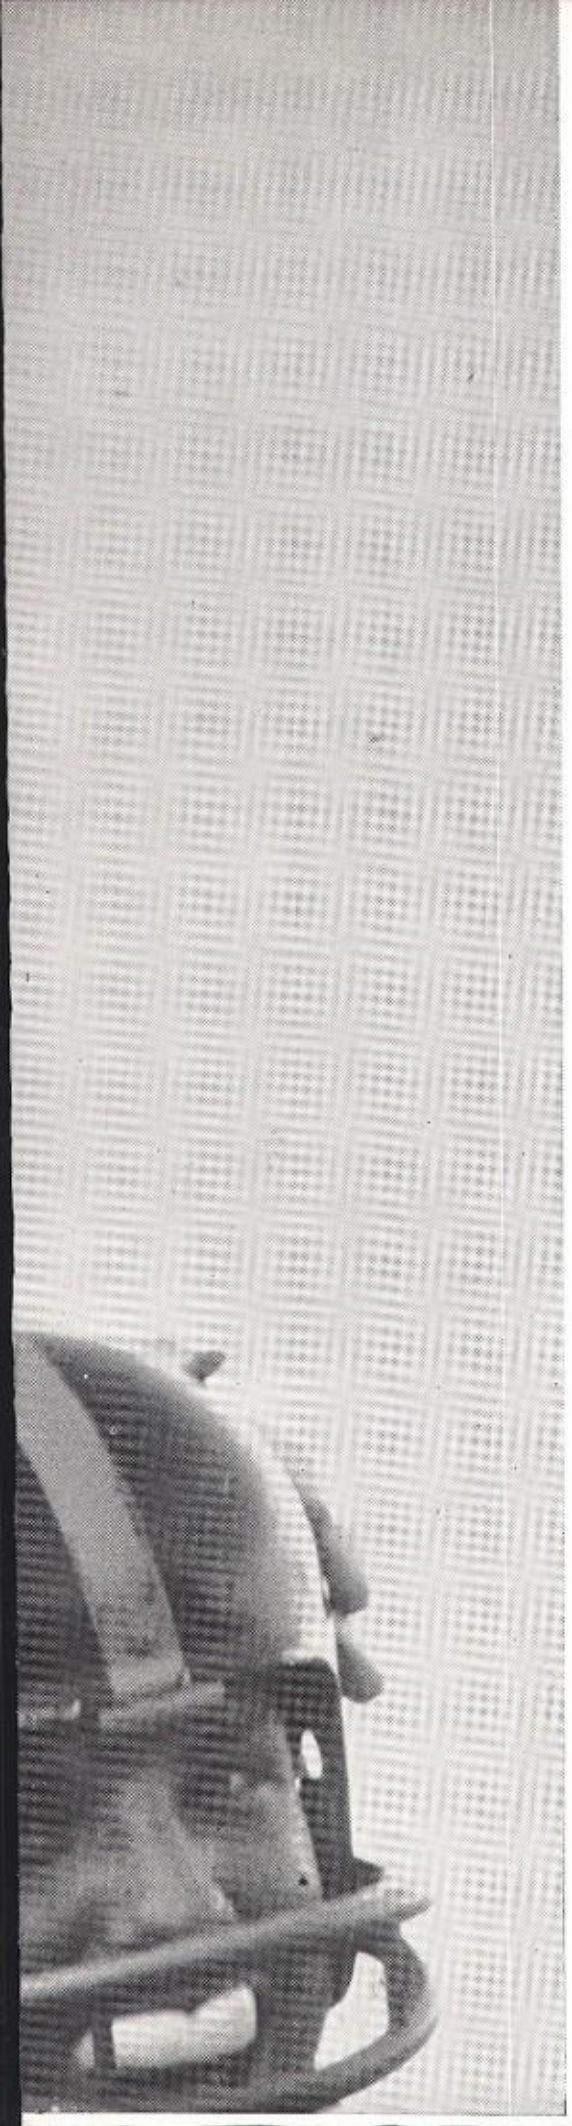
ATHLETICS



The hoarseness of cheers
High in the bleachers;
The loss of a ball
In a huddle of bodies;
The strain of two faces
Alone on the mat;
The breath-holding seconds
While the game-winning shot
Rolls on the rim. . .

Athletics—
Individual efforts
Comprising a team.
As we catch the thrill
Of being a part
Of one centered mass,
We search
For releasing excitement,
A spiritful loyalty.

Tremendous team spirit, fine coaching, and outstanding players combined to give the 1963 Varsity Football Team the best season in recent LT history. Coach Dick Anderson, in his first and only year as an LT coach, built his undefeated team around a powerful line and an alert pass-intercepting backfield.

After a routine win over Oak Park, the squad upset Hinsdale 14-7, breaking the Devils' 31-game undefeated streak. York, also a highly-rated team, fell next to the Lions 21-0. Glenbard was routed 51-0 to provide a climax to LT's Homecoming weekend. The only smudge on the team's record occurred when they tied Downers Grove 6-6, in a game marked by fumbles and frustrations. RB gave the Lions an unexpected scare late in the season, but a field goal made the difference and the Bulldogs were defeated 3-0. With the final wins over Maine East and Arlington and the selection of six LT players to the all-conference team, the memorable season came to a fitting end.

Despite steady improvement in both the offense and the defense, the Frosh-Soph Football team finished the season with only one win. The season started with a heart-breaking 14-12 loss to Oak Park. From then on the offense failed to live up to Coach Ed Meyer's expectations as they scored no more than one touchdown in each of the next six games. The defense, however, gained an overall good record by holding their opponents to no more than one or two touchdowns in most of these games. The team showed its first signs of improvement in the next-to-last game when they defeated R-B 12-0. The season closed in a hard-fought game between the Cubs and a strong Maine East team.

Coach Jon Knowles' 1963 Frosh-Soph Cross-Country team chalked up a fine 6-1 record in the West Suburban Conference dual meets, highlighted by a thrilling victory over York. Only a disappointing fourth in the conference meet held the squad to a third in the overall WSC standings. Next year's team should place among the conference leaders when several promising freshman runners return to form the nucleus for the squad.

A fifth place finish in an 18-team district meet by a team composed largely of juniors and sophomores highlighted an otherwise disappointing season for the Varsity Cross-Country team. Although the team won only one of its seven conference meets, the year of experience gained by a large number of underclassmen should form a backbone for outstanding future teams.

Skilled juniors compris

With help from the juniors from last year's championship frosh-soph team, the '64 Varsity Basketball squad was expected to finish high in the standings. The accent was put on speed and a fast break, but even this was not enough to overcome their opponents in many cases. Despite periodic brillantly-played games, the Lions wound up the season in sixth place with a record of four wins and ten losses in the conference. Fans were treated to a variety of lineups and strategies during the season as Coach Art Sandusky tried to find a winning combination. Several times during the year LT came very close to upsetting the conference leaders, Maine East, Riverside-Brookfield, and York. The team lacked height, however, and the bigger teams out-jumped and out-rebounded the shorter Lions. Looking ahead to next year, a large number of returning juniors should be enough to allow next year's team to complete a successful schedule.

Jim Vopat gets the advantage on the fast-break as he goes in for a well-earned layup against his Arlington opponent.

Two Downers Grove players try vainly to keep Tom Cisar from snaring a rebound in the early moments of a game.

Coming from behind to share the conference crown, the Frosh-Soph Basketball team finished the season in a tie with Downers Grove. Mr. Roger Johnson completed his second consecutive year as coach of a first-place team. The squad worked as a tight unit, utilizing a freely passing offense and a highly effective break. Exceptional jumping ability helped to capture many stray rebounds for the Cubs. Since the starting team often gained an early lead, many of the reserve players had a chance to gain valuable experience on the court. A look at this year's freshman record indicates a good season for next year's frosh-soph team, as well as for the varsity team to which the present sophomores will be adding their strength.

winter competition

The 63-64 Varsity Swimming Team completed its season with a 4-7 record, making it one of the strongest LT swimming teams the school has yet entered. With the advantage of a well-balanced squad, the varsity swimmers broke all team records except one. Led by Coach Peryon, the team swamped Lockport, Aurora, and Argo, along with a victory over Reavis. This year's varsity team was also represented in the state meet at the close of the season. It is expected that the upcoming juniors and sophomores will make even a better team next year.

This year's Frosh-Soph Swimming Team closed the year with a record of 7-4. They had one of the best teams since LT began competing in the sport, and even had several swimmers on the varsity squad. After a very good season, Coach Lumb predicted that they will finish next year's season with an even better record.

The Varsity Wrestling team surpassed even the predictions of their coach, Mr. Kraus, by compiling a fine 15-3 dual meet record which included a 6-1 record for second place in the WSC. Balance and team effort rather than the performance of individuals produced the team's successes in dual meets, although five squad members made the all-conference team. The season's highlight came when LT defeated Waukegan, state champs last year and destined to repeat, breaking that school's fifty-seven meet winning streak. Next year should be a good one for the varsity grapplers, as many juniors will be returning with first-string experience.

The loss of many close meets and an unusually large number of injuries prevented the Frosh-Soph Wrestling team from reaching its full potential. In addition, many members of the team were wrestling for their first season, and were handicapped by inexperience. Although the squad was at full strength for only the winning effort against Thornton, the grapplers managed a sixth place finish in the tough West Suburban Conference and a 4-11 record overall, including a convincing victory over Arlington near the end of the season. Many members of this year's squad showed great improvement as the season progressed, and should bolster next year's varsity team.

Individual abilities stressed in track meets,

Firsts in the Palatine relays, Maine relays, and the WSC meet were the high points of a successful season for the 1963 Varsity Track team. Led by their state championship 880-yard relay team and several other outstanding squad members, LT's varsity cindermen upheld their school's tradition of track supremacy. Although many lettermen have been lost, particularly in the field events, Coach Max Armer is optimistic about this year's team, expecting the returning juniors' strength in the sprints and hurdles to make up for the weakness in the field events.

A second place finish in the conference meet climaxed a satisfying season for the 1963 Frosh-Soph Track team. Although routed by a strong York team, the Cubs kept fighting to defeat all other conference representatives. Several team members and two relay teams set school records in their events. An impressive array of returning freshmen should help Coach Jon Knowles's 1964 team shows an even greater improvement over last year's squad.

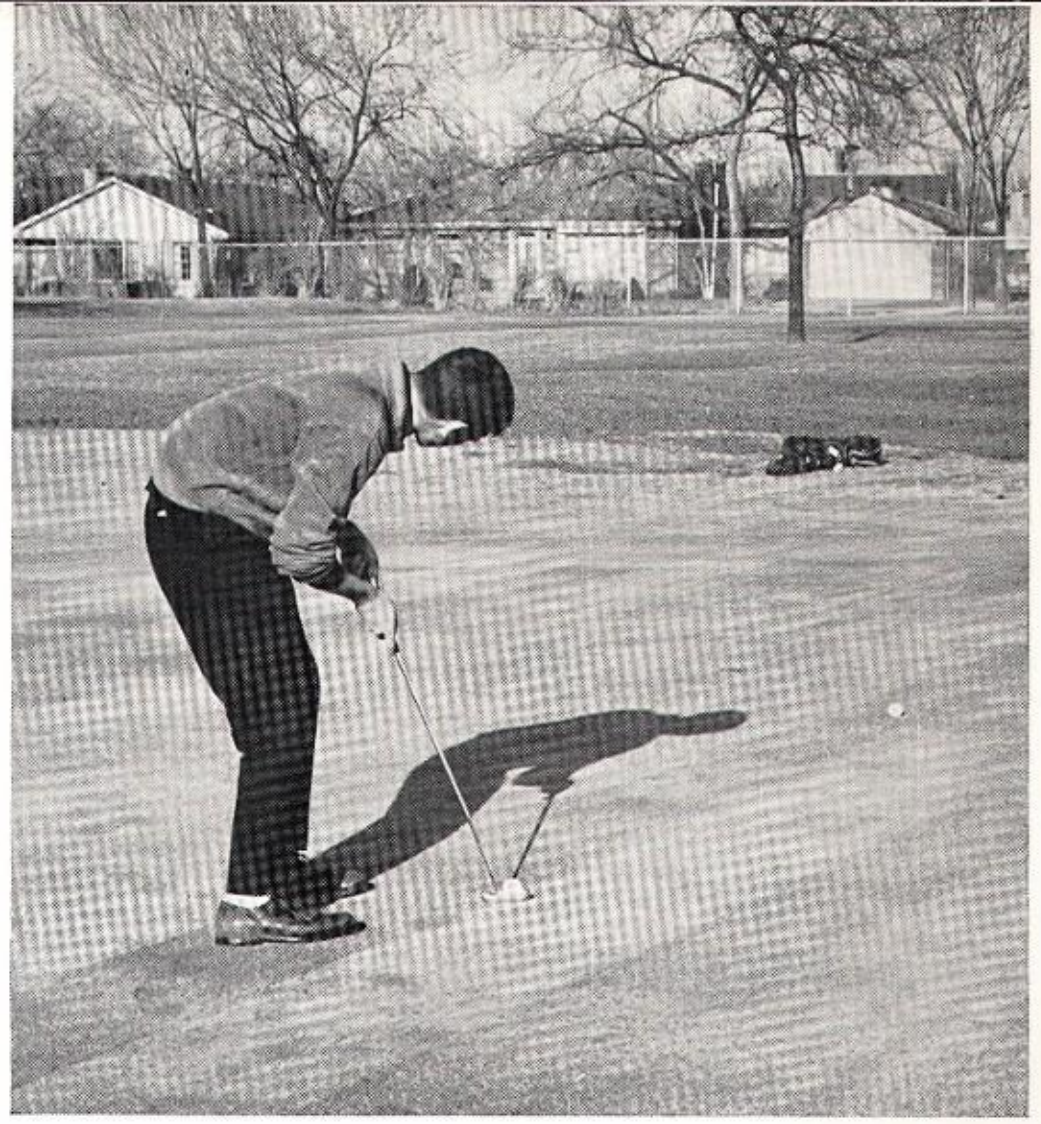
Members of the 1963 Varsity Golf squad ended their season in the West Suburban Conference with a fifth-place finish. This was accomplished with a final record of three wins and four losses. Coach Payne ended his long record as an effective coach with his retirement last spring. Mr. Bert Kraus took over as coach and expressed hopes of having a winning team this season, when he will have several returning lettermen as well as juniors from last year's frosh-soph team.

Doing their share in LT's fight for the President's Cup, the 1963 Frosh-Soph Golf teams turned in an excellent performance with the capture of second place in the conference, while compiling a record of five wins and two defeats. Coach Gary Carpenter will have the core of a good team back for this year's competition because a large part of the '63 squad was composed of freshmen. The '64 South Campus golfers should have a good start toward an even more successful season.



After carefully lining up his putt, sophomore Tom Reavis prepares to stroke in the shot.

Since the 1964 spring sports schedules had only begun as we reached our final deadline, we chose to review LT's 1963 spring sports results and give the reader a look at this year's prospects. By doing this, we hoped to present as complete a picture as possible.

Baseball games, tennis matches offer moment

Coach Leiber piloted a strong, well-balanced Varsity Baseball team through the rough '63 season, finishing the year in fourth place with a record of eight wins and six defeats. The team's excellence in hitting and fielding helped them win their first three games in tournament action before being defeated by Lockport. Juniors and seniors who played as last year's reserves were expected to help make up a winning '64 team.

Exciting, wide-open games were the rule in Frosh-Soph Baseball during the 1963 season. The Cubs earned well their second place berth in the conference, compiling an impressive 9 and 5 record behind Coach Bob Burson. The South Campus diamondmen showed skill in both hitting and pitching, as they were shut out only once during the 17-game schedule. This year's frosh-soph team has a difficult goal to aim for in improving the excellent record of last year's ballplayers.

A concentrated team effort brought the 1963 Varsity Tennis team a fine 15-4 overall record and a 5-2 WSC slate. Led by Coach Art Rawers, the team captured third place in the WSC and fourteenth in the state, plus capturing first in the district meet, a feat no other LT tennis team has accomplished in seven years. Although this year will probably be one of rebuilding, a large number of returning juniors from last year promise to make it a very interesting season.

Consistent team play brought the 1963 Frosh-Soph Tennis team a 9-6 overall record and a fourth place finish in the West Suburban Conference. However, three matches were lost by close 3-2 scores, indicating that the team was better than the record shows. This season Coach Nemecek expected to depend mainly on the inexperienced but skilled players who were last year's freshmen reserves as all seven of the '63 starters have passed on to the varsity team.

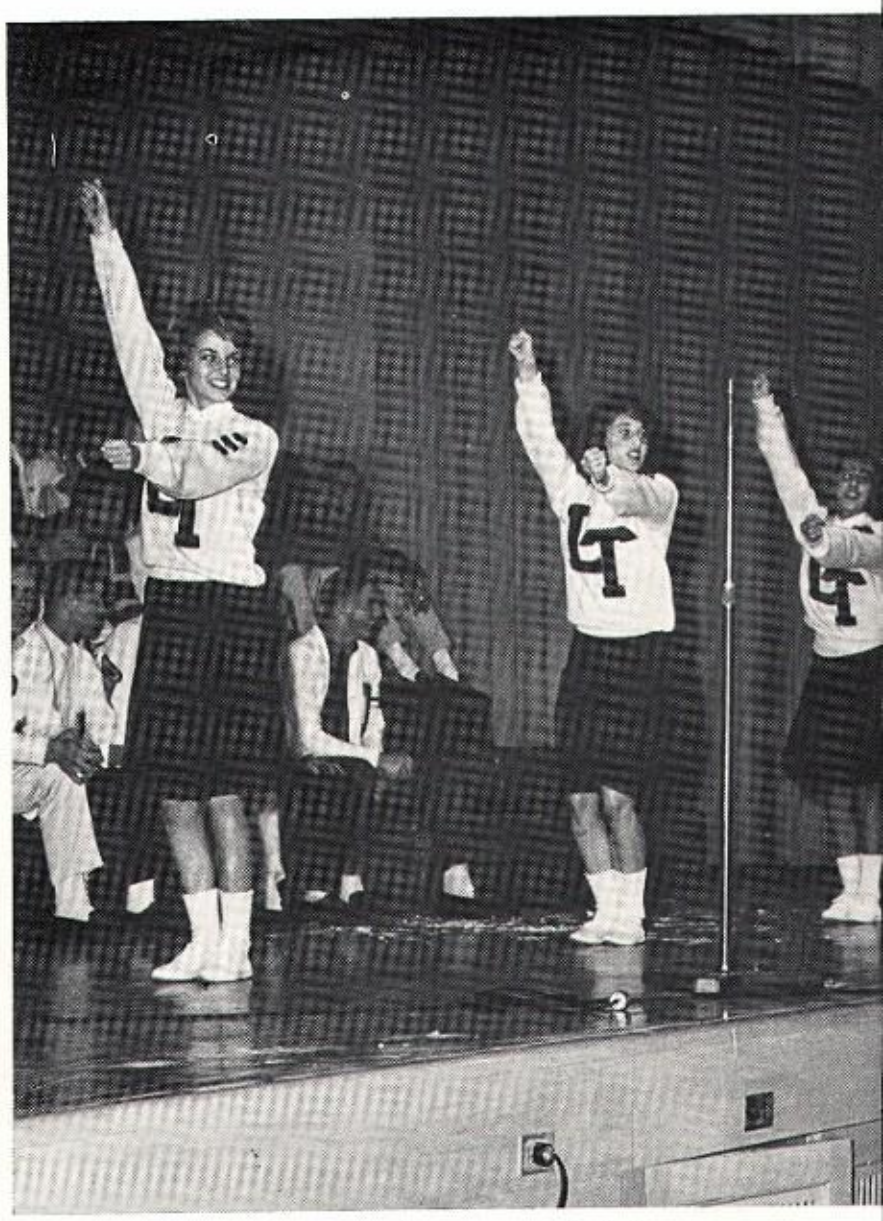
Enthusiastic cheerleaders heighten school spiri

At the pep assembly before the Hinsdale football game, frosh-soph cheerleaders Debby Blum and Peggy Miller exemplify LT's high spirit as they lead the fans in a cheer.



The varsity cheerleaders take the stage to introduce a new cheer to the crowd.

To spark enthusiasm and to add variety to the games, this year's Cheerleaders began the football and basketball seasons by introducing several new cheers. Although their main duty is keeping school spirit high, these active girls found time to sell Homecoming buttons, to perform at pep assemblies, and to visit with other squads in the conference. Hours spent not only in hard practice but in teaching the new members of the Frosh-Soph squad the routines paid off in well co-ordinated cheers. At all games the girls joined with the band and student body in the school song, a tradition that succeeds in raising everyone's spirits. By adding color and energetic shouts of encouragement, the cheerleaders served to make the games more enjoyable.

...with lively routines

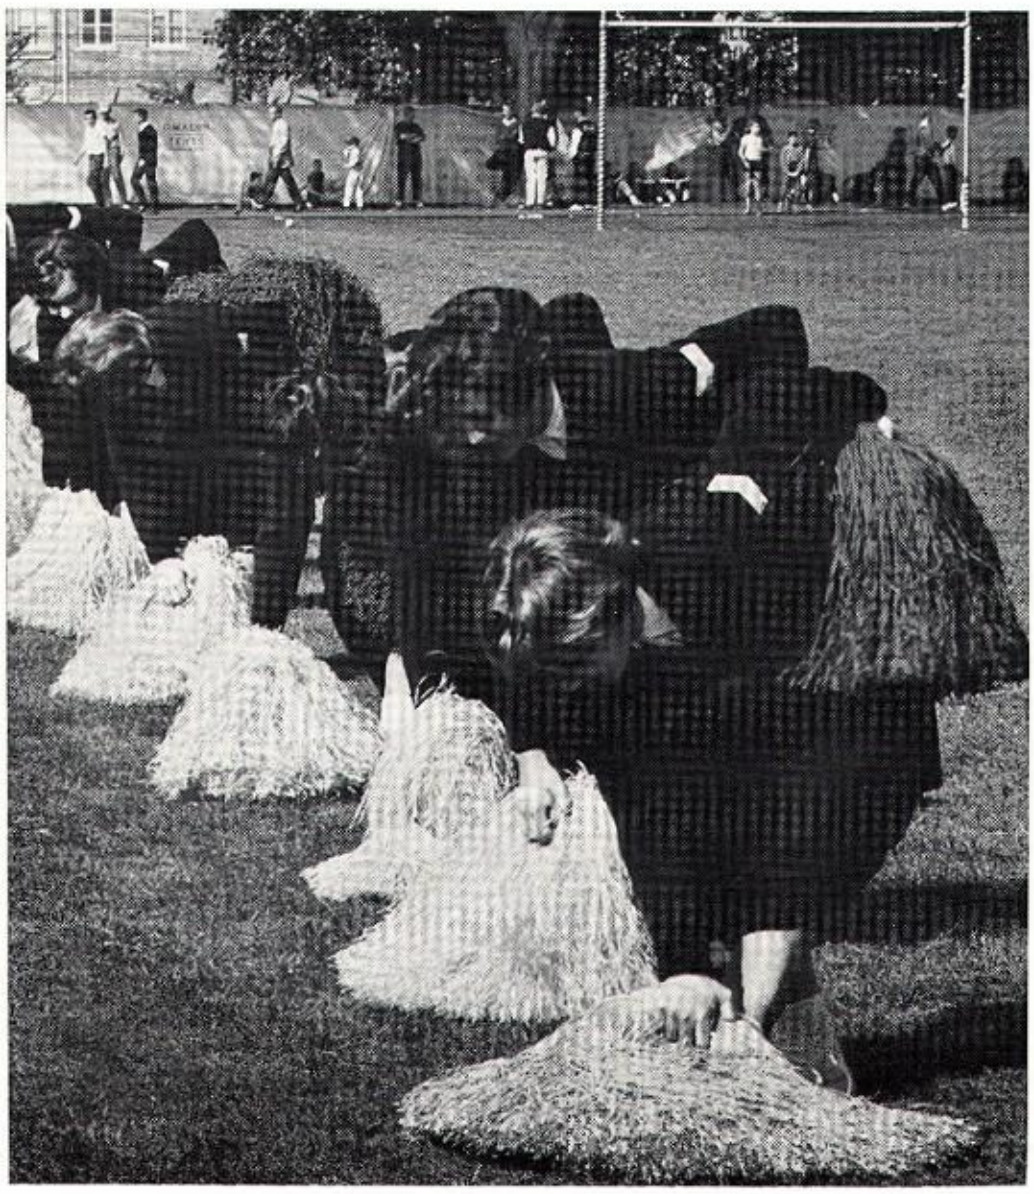
Waving pom pons, twirling batons add color,



Color and zest were added to this year's pep assemblies and half-times by the spirited Pom-Pon Squad. The twenty-four members, led by captains Sue Loesch and Barb Gerbosi, spent long hours perfecting the routines which they created themselves to the tunes of school and popular songs. Besides practicing and performing, the squad, sponsored by Miss Pittman and Mrs. Gordon, also sold pom-pons to finance new uniforms, and marched in the State Street Christmas Parade.

The Pom-Pon squad's spirited performance ends in a traditional flourish and bow.

Adding color and entertainment to the half time programs of this year's football and basketball games was the job of the LTHS Twirlers. Led by Elaine Culen and sponsored by Mr. Hilgendorf, the six girls also made appearances at many concerts and parades. Frequent rehearsals after school and with the band not only gave the girls a chance to create new routines, but also improved their precision in marching and twirling. This practice proved to be beneficial as they placed high in several district and state twirling contests.

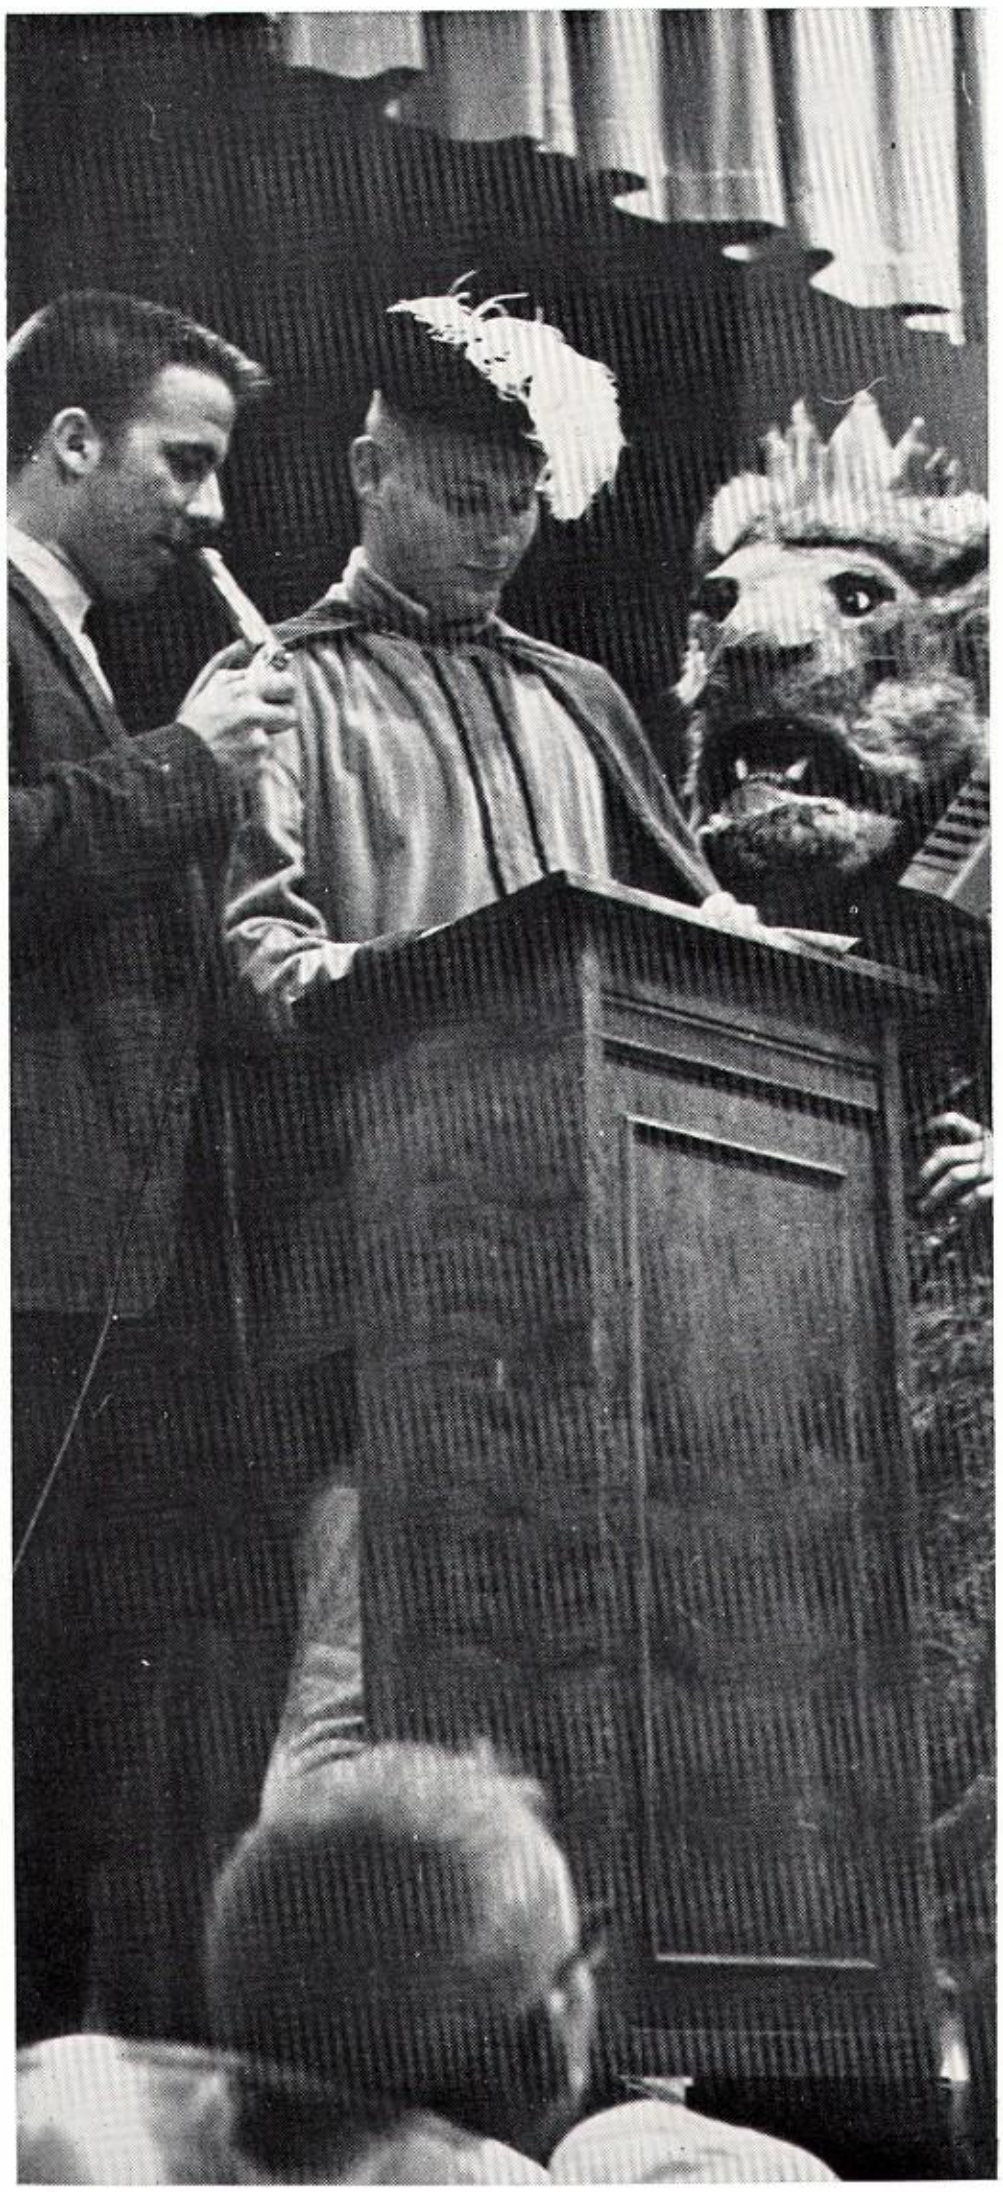
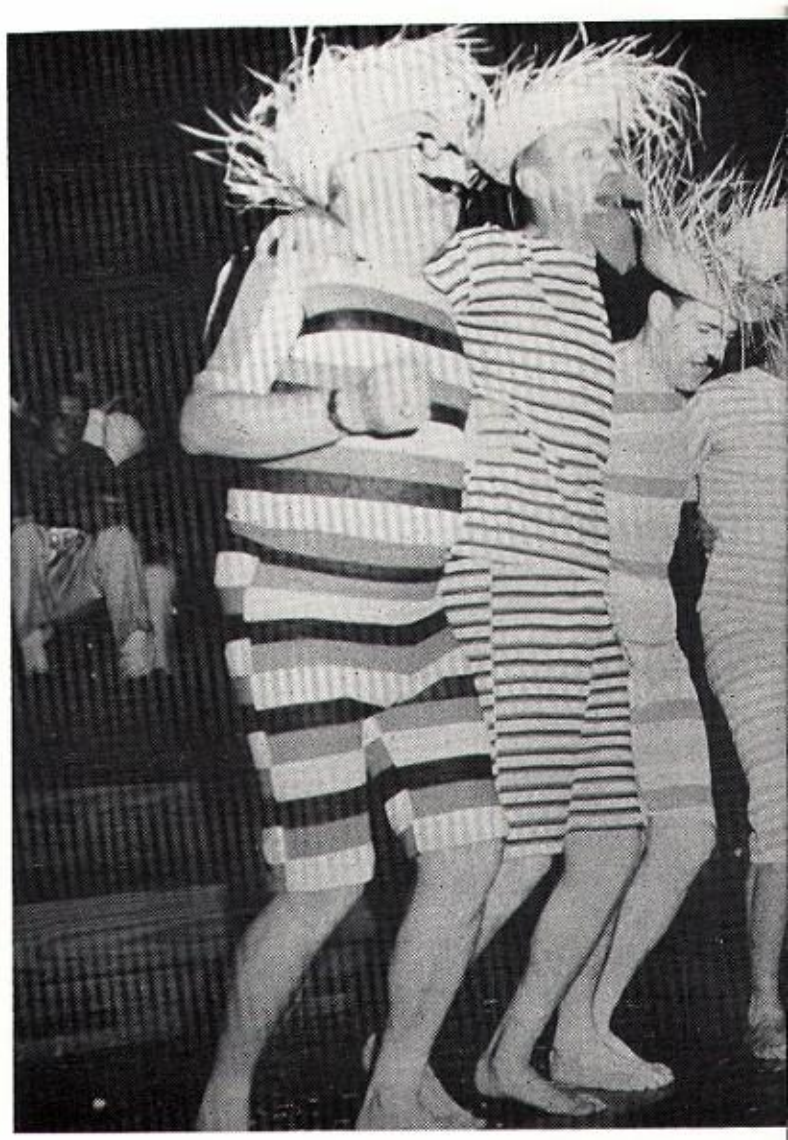
Weeks of careful planning, preparation result



Bill Margeson, Mike Farney, and Noil do their best to heighten the suspense before the queen is named.

Preparations for the 1963 Homecoming began with the time-consuming task of locating alumni of the class of '39, accomplished by a student council committee. Many more hours were spent planning and constructing the multitude of floats. Friday night's Pep Assembly, "Stop the World," officially began the weekend's activities. After the announcement of the homecoming queen, Connie Fouts, and her court, Linda Catching, Jean Henning, Janeen Jewell, and Sue Loesch, students participated in the traditional snake dance to the Corral and later added the finishing touches to their floats. An easy victory over Glenbard, 51-0, followed the colorful Saturday morning parade. The weekend culminated for students with the dance, "The Crowning Touch," while the alumni completed their festivities with a reunion dinner at the Spinning Wheel.



At the Homecoming Pep Assembly, gaily-clad members of the Class of '39 recall "the good old days" to the amusement of LT's present student body.

Hilarious mixups and subtle humor made this year's Fall Play, "The Importance of Being Earnest," sponsored by the Junior Class, a delightful experience for the audiences. The plot centers around the romantic entanglements of Algernon Moncrieff and John Worthing. John has told Angie's cousin Gwendolyn that his name is Ernest. Since she has such faith in the name, she falls in love with him and they make plans to marry. Lady Bracknell, Gwendolyn's mother, will not consent to the marriage, however, because John's parents are unknown — he was found in the cloakroom of a railroad station. Meanwhile, Algernon has discovered that John has a ward, Cecily. Posing as John's fictitious brother Ernest, Algernon meets Cecily and proposes. Complications arise, however, when Gwendolyn and Cecily meet and begin to compare notes. The two girls discover that "Ernest" Worthing has proposed to both of them. They meet Algy and John, and a wild scene ensues until the lovers figure out who each one really is. The play ends happily when it is discovered that John and Algy really are brothers. Lady Bracknell finally gives her consent, and a double wedding is imminent.

Having discovered that they are engaged to the same man, Emily Wade and Kathie Smith pointedly ignore each other.

The uproarious adventures of "Auntie Mame" were the subject of the spring play, directed by Miss Mellen.

Patrick Dennis, Auntie Mame's newly orphaned nephew, finds life with his guardian a little overwhelming at first. His unmarried aunt, vigorously unconventional, attempts to open new doors of experience for him, in spite of the objections of Mr. Babcock, executor of the will, who insists that Patrick be sent to a standard school. Patrick just happens to attend Mr. Babcock's alma maters.

When Auntie Mame loses her fortune in stocks during the Great Depression, she becomes unsuccessfully employed in a variety of jobs. However, her incompetency enables her to meet Beauregarde, a wealthy Texan, who marries her and takes her on an extended world tour.

More than ten years later, Beauregarde falls off the Matterhorn and the still vivacious widow returns home to find Patrick a grown man with a fiancee. Patrick wants to shield his Gloria from the more radical side of his aunt and from the impetuous poet and unsophisticated secretary who are "helping" her write her memoirs. Auntie Mame realizes that Gloria's family are superficial snobs, so she deliberately antagonizes them.

Patrick finally perceives Gloria's shallowness and marries Auntie Mame's straight-forward interior decorator instead. A few years later, Auntie Mame promises to open new doors for her grand-nephew.

Before deciding finally on a new wife, widower Scott Brower discusses his girl friends with son Dave Dolan.

The problems of a young boy and his widowed father form the basis of "The Courtship of Eddie's Father," this year's well-attended South Campus Play, directed by Mrs. Bair.

Eddie, only child of the widowed Tom Corbett, wants a mother and is convinced that his young father, apparently indifferent to a new marriage, needs a wife. Because he has definite ideas about the ideal woman, Eddie passes judgement on all of his father's dates. He eventually decides on Elizabeth, a nurse. Fearing that Tom will marry the play-girl Rita instead, Eddie runs away from summer camp. By the time Eddie is found, Tom realizes that he actually does love Elizabeth, and he consents to his son's suggestion of a practice proposal. When Tom tenderly asks Eddie to marry him, Elizabeth, who has been standing on the doorstep, accepts. Of course, Eddie is overjoyed with the outcome of his schemes.

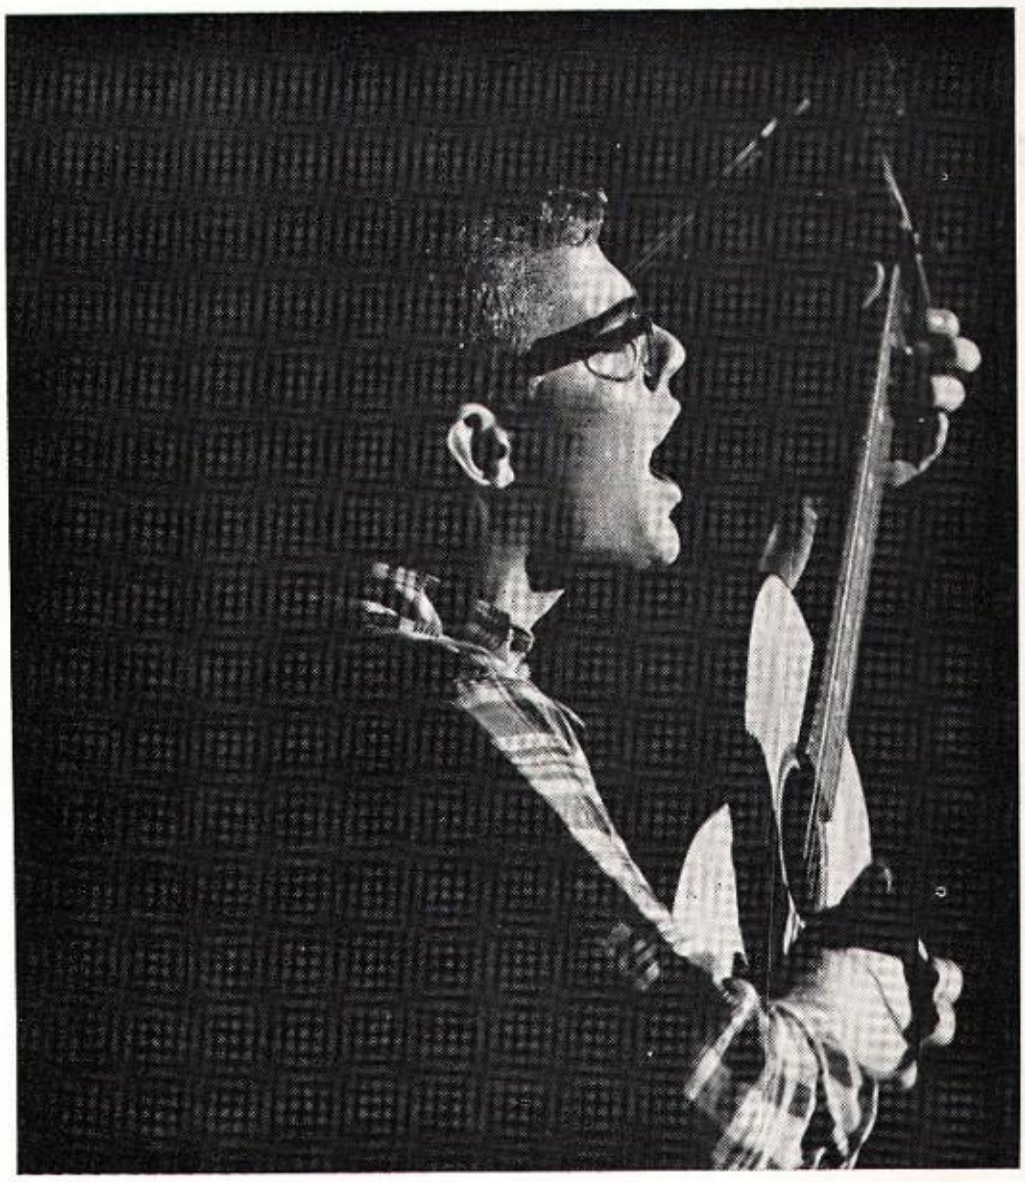
Play, Obirin Show

The 1964 Obirin Show, "How to Succeed in School Without Ever Really Trying, Hardly, Almost, Kinda . . ." proved to be highly amusing after-school entertainment. Pam Fischer and Gary Delong provided continuity for the show through a skit enabling them to introduce the ten different performances which had been chosen from the original fifty acts trying out. Folk-singing groups and the conventional chorus lines proved to be most popular. Profits from the show, well above the anticipated quota, were used for the support of school activities at Obirin-Gakuen, LT's sister school in Japan.



His features accentuated by the glare of the spotlights, Bruce Bitting strums his own guitar accompaniment to a folk song selection at the Obirin Show.

By doing their act for the Obirin Show, a sophomore girls' chorus line gains valuable experience for their appearance in the Corral Show later in the year.

Choruses, choir practice vocal techniques,

The Choruses, one of the most popular of LT's extra-curricular activities, provided opportunities for many students to increase their musical appreciation and ability. The various groups performed at the class open houses and the Christmas and Spring Festivals while special ensembles sang at state music contests.

Selected juniors and seniors compose the Choir, which, in addition to participating in major musical events, also sang at the Pops Concert, the Christmas Vespers, the All-Arts Festival, and the West Suburban Music Festival, in which many schools participated. The major project, however, was the operetta, "Guys and Dolls." A successful year ended with the group's performance at the Baccalaureate services and with the annual picnic.

A few days before the Spring Festival, members of the choir strive to perfect a difficult passage in one of their songs.

Small-time gambler Nathan Detroit, lacking the one thousand dollars necessary to rent the only suitable site for his floating crap game, bets the reckless gambler Sky Masterson that Sky can't take Sarah Brown, a pretty mission worker, to Havana for the weekend. Nathan's problems are further complicated by Adelaide, his fiancee of fourteen years, who insists upon getting married although she is opposed to his shooting dice.

Meanwhile, Sky, realizing that the General of the mission-workers wants to close the unsuccessful site, bargains with Sarah for a date. He promises to bring a dozen souls to the next meeting of the mission; and she, concerned for its success, reluctantly agrees to go to Havana.

In order to fulfill his promise to Sarah, with whom he has fallen in love, Sky attends Nathan's crap game, finally located in a sewer, and bets each gambler one thousand dollars against one night's attendance at the mission house. Sky's luck holds, and the large turn-out at the revival so impresses General Matilda Cartwright, that she permits the mission to remain open. Sky then marries Sarah and joins the mission band, while Nathan grudgingly consents to marry Adelaide.

of Band, Orchestra

Perfection through practice was again the guiding principle for both the North and South Campus Bands this year. Northwestern University's Band Day, at which band members performed in company with over one thousand other high school music enthusiasts, proved to be the highpoint of this year's schedule. The Honor Band, composed of members showing exceptional talent, successfully competed at a spring contest hosted by Waukegan High School. Besides participating in these activities, band members also put on the traditional fall and spring concerts as well as lively entertainment for home football and basketball games.

The popular Pops Concert, with its night-club setting, began a year of performances for this year's Orchestra. Hours of practice, including weekly Thursday night rehearsals under the direction of Mr. Miller, culminated in the operetta, the Christmas and Spring Festivals, and the Spring Concert, which featured only classical music. The excellence of this musical group was evidenced by an invitation to perform for a state student council convention. A new tradition began when graduate members were invited for the first time to a Christmas sightreading party.

Against the gala background of Pops Concert decorations, the first violin section responds to Mr. Miller's gesture for more tone.

Special activities highlight Corral program

One of the largest youth organizations in the nation, the Corral spent another active and successful year serving both the student body and the community. The thirty-member student board, led by president Dave McGreer and adult director Mr. Kraus, scheduled combos and surprise guests for the regular Friday and Saturday night activities. Dances, held approximately every month, and other special events, such as Four Star Nite, the Olympics, and the Summer Carnival added to the range of entertainment and accented the year. All members were invited to serve on committees, decorate for dances, and participate in the annual August clean-up. In addition, many members helped to build the prizewinning Homecoming float and to make the Corral Show, "Hook, Line, and Tinker," a financial and entertaining success.

Interested members take time out from the Corral's Friday night entertainment to vote on the issue of a new addition for the building.

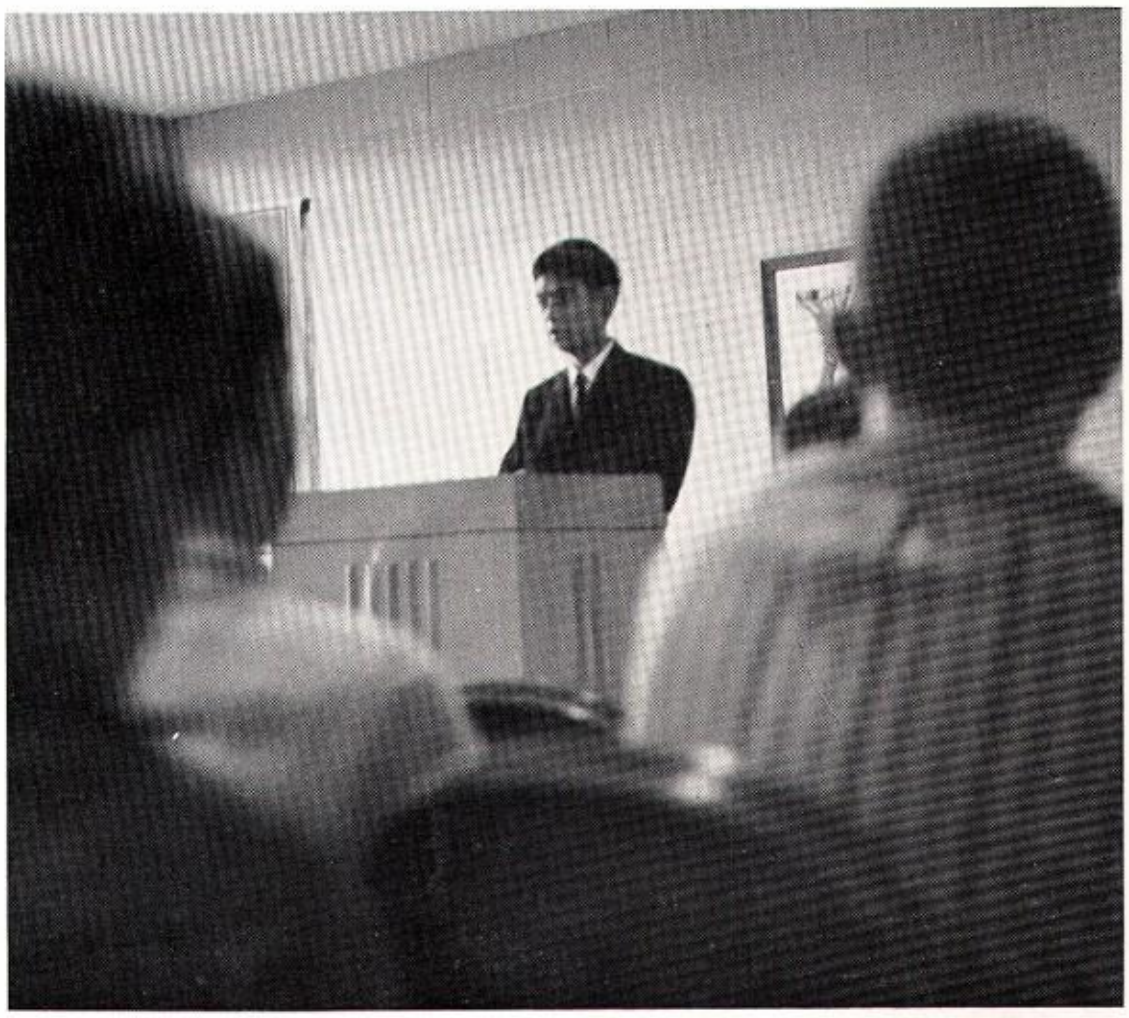
Foreign Student Korey Kitamura and LT share

Before his busy life as a LT student begins, Korey pauses outside the Eiserman house, his new American home.

As Korey converses with his American parents, his new brother, Rob Eiserman, representing the senior welcoming committee, waits to present him with a '64 button.

As Korey Kitamura, LT's foreign student, left the plane which had carried him to his temporary home in the United States, a happy delegation of LT students introduced him quickly to LT tradition by presenting him with a '64 button. After this unofficial initiation into the senior class Korey, already a graduate of Seijo Gakuen High in Tokyo, settled down to a busy year before returning to Japan for university study. While his hosts, the Eisermans, provided typical American home life, his fellow students introduced him to various school activities, which included an honorary membership in the Student Council. Through such courses as American history and literature, he was able to develop a more complete understanding of American life. In spite of numerous speaking engagements, Korey continued pursuing his interests in photography, tennis, and writing, a field in which he hopes to make his career.

in reciprocal exchange of culture and amity



Korey thoughtfully answers one of the many questions posed by interested students at a South Campus foreign student discussion.

Annette Hall smilingly pours a cup of punch for Korey as other members of the Student Council Foreign Relations Committee wait their turn at the Christmas Tea held in honor of foreign students of the area.

Guidance, class board are formal expressions

Members of the Freshman Class began their first year at LT by entering immediately into the activity and excitement which will be so important in their next three years of high school. The class board, led by president John Wagner and guided by sponsors Mr. Lund and Miss Lemme, planned many activities for the class, including the class party, "Freshman Fall Fling," at which the freshmen had their first chance to gather socially. They experienced great pleasure and pride when long hours of work on their Homecoming float, "World-Wide Winner," resulted in a first place in the gold division. For a project of value to the community as well as to their class, the freshmen decided to donate a substantial sum of money from their treasury to a local charity drive and also considered supporting foster children. By taking advantage of all the facilities offered to them at LT, this year's freshmen prepared to become next year's South Campus leaders.

Sophomore class encounters more privileges,

Recognition as leader of South Campus was the main goal of this year's Sophomore Class. With the aid of their sponsors, Mr. Hammerlund and Mrs. Huegli, and the leadership of Mike Snyder, their class president, the members of the class of '66 worked together in a number of successful projects. Their Homecoming float, "Victory Bound," the first of these projects, won second place in the gold division. Later in the year, sophomores proudly wore their newly acquired black and turquoise '66 buttons to their class party, "Black and Blue Bloop."

Although they were the upperclassmen at South, the sophomores emulated the juniors and seniors in preparation for their own two years at North. At the same time, they helped steer the freshmen through their first year by acting as big sisters and informal guides. The sophomore year taught the class as a whole the duties and pride that are part of leadership.

Although newcomers to North Campus, members of the Junior Class soon became accustomed to its confusing maze as they strove to surpass the seniors in all phases of upperclass life. While the junior-sponsored fall play, "The Importance of Being Earnest," expanded their treasury, the class, competing for the first time in the blue division, also won an honorable mention for their Homecoming float, "Shot Heard 'Round the World." The juniors not only developed their class spirit through the sale of pink and purple LXV buttons, the traditional rings, and the adoption of a class fight song, but they also showed their community spirit through Project 65. Frequent visits and donations of food to some of the underprivileged families in the area constituted part of the project, as did caroling at Christmas. After their own class party in February, juniors assisted at the Senior Salute, their last duty before assuming the role of seniors themselves.

SENIORS

The proud unity
In orange and white sweatshirts;
The strange newness and sadness
Of black caps and gowns;
The wild preparations
For a final good time
Leading up to the prom;
The sudden awareness
That our high school days
Are almost over. . .

Senior status—
The climactic end
Of four long years.
With a frightening new sense
Of increased independence,
We search
For a future way of life
And a year to remember.

Senior Class Board plans active final year

We freshmen who struggled through the confusing ceremonies of registration for the first time in the late summer of 1960 have now completed the last ceremony of our high school days. The intervening four years were full of changes in the world, in the school, and, perhaps most importantly, in ourselves.

Mutual problems of learning names and balancing books on lunch trays began to unify us early in our freshman year. Our class party, "November's Essence," was our first chance to gather as a separate group, and work on our Homecoming float gave evidence of our growing unity. Next fall, when we returned as sophomores, our experience made up for our usurped position as LT's largest class. The Homecoming float, "A Tale of Two Schools," was a prize winner. Our developing spirit showed itself in other ways: large attendance at the class party, "Midas Touch," and our introduction of yo-yos with all phases of school life.

Our inventive spirit first became evident when, as juniors, we introduced the ideas of class buttons and colors through the celebration of J-Day, the 64th day of school. Group projects such as the mural created at our party, "Splotch," helped to unify us even more.

Homecoming for us as seniors was especially memorable. Our orange and white senior sweatshirts arrived just in time for the pep assembly; and our float, "Rrroar Us to Victory," won a first place. The orange and black senior stickers made their first appearance, although they were to be seen throughout the rest of the year. The profits of the sale of thousands of Christmas cards financed the events of senior week — the distribution of huge colored plastic keys; the chaotic class breakfast; the before-school sock hop; the class party, "Key to Paradise" — and our most important high school social event, the Prom.

As our senior year neared its end and college acceptances, job opportunities, and Prom dates made us realize how close graduation really was, we began to realize that, although we would no longer be the unified, spirited "Class of '64," we would take with us part of LT and leave part of ourselves behind.

Members of the National Honor Society were selected on the basis of academic excellence and outstanding citizenship. Approximately one third of the members were chosen last spring when each junior in the top third of the class compiled a list of all his activities. These lists, along with personality appraisals by teachers and leadership ratings by the sponsors of activities, were carefully considered by a faculty committee who made the final selection of five per cent of the class membership. The process was repeated after the seventh semester when another ten per cent of the class was honored.

HOLYOKE HIGH SCHOOL

Alma Mater Song

I.

I know a vale where peace abides
  Where lights and shadows play,
And hills where beauty dreams and smiles,
  Throughout the summer day.
'Tis there our Alma Mater stands,
  With arms outstretched to Youth,
A faithful friend, a trusted guide,
  A champion of truth.

II.

If yesterday you left her halls,
  To follow pathways new,
Or if today you bid farewell,
  To her who nurtured you,
Remember when tomorrow brings
  Reward for well-spent days,
That Alma Mater's voice will be Among the first to praise.

CHORUS.

Oh, Holyoke High! Our Holyoke High!
  With pride we sound thy name,
Though all else 'round about may change,
  To us thou art the same.
Our Alma Mater, tried and true,
  With heart and voice we raise
A song of never-ending love,
  Of never-ending praise.

—Helen Emerson, '05.
—Warner Van Valkenburg, '05.

THE FACULTY
HOLYOKE HIGH SCHOOL, 1924

To the Faculty

TO each and every one of the Faculty, we of the Class of Nineteen Twenty-Four wish to extend our most sincere and heartfelt gratitude for the inspiring and helpful guidance they have cheerfully and uncomplainingly given to us during our high school course. It is they who have lovingly helped us along over the hard places and kept us from falling. It is they who have fitted us to go out into the world, to become good citizens, and, perhaps, to do some great, helpful work such as they themselves are now unfailingly and tirelessly doing. We have come to the realization that they are our most sincere friends.

CLASS MOTTO:

Ad astra per aspera

To the Graduates

To the Class of 1924:

YOUR task is just 'round the corner. It isn't in your direct path. You must step out of the way—but not far. No job really worth doing falls into your lap. Preparations for real things are not gratuities. On the other hand climbing mountain peaks, penetrating forest jungles, navigating perilous seas or roaming desert waste may lead you far astray, destroy your energy, dull your talents and dim your purposes. Your own home, your school, your city are the best. If you cannot gain success here you will surely fail elsewhere. I do not mean by this that you should all do your future work in Holyoke. This would not make for the broadest citizenship. Other places need Holyoke's educated young men and women, and we, to avoid provincialism, need the educated youth of other cities. You must have in your mind the power and in your heart the desire to seek and to perform. If you have ideals and sincerely and earnestly work for their realization, they will be yours. It is an old saying, "There is no royal road to knowledge", and it applies to any worthy thing. Look around the corner, not all over the world. There lies your duty, your task and your success.

Evelyn Abinger

"Ev" is always in gay spirits and can "drive away the blues" from the most forlorn of us. She has an unusual, rather high-pitched voice, and the droll way she has of rolling her eyes is captivating. "Ev" does not put on airs, but is so bubbling over with gaiety that it shows in her eyes, her expression, and even in her way of walking through the halls.

"Happy am I; from care I'm free!
Why aren't they all content like me?"

—Noyes.

Mildred Allen

Q.

A pleasanter or more agreeable girl than "Millie" it is indeed hard to find. Although she is modest, shy, and quiet, she has a decidedly sunny nature which radiates, not only on those who know her well, but on all who come in contact with her. Rarely ever do you see her when she is not smiling. Indeed her smile seems really to be a part of her.

"Smiling always with a never-fading serenity of countenance."—Addison.

Lucy Bacon

Art, Q.

We next come to Lucy Bacon. Lucy is one of those rare girls who can do several things exceedingly well. Did you ever hear her play the piano, see her draw, or hear her speak? You are most unfortunate if you have not. Much praise is due "Lu" Bacon. She is one of those quiet, unassuming girls that a class cannot do without.

"'Tis human actions paint the chart of time."

—Montgomery.

Frances Bailey

A. A., Q.

"She has her own way of saying it." Immediately we all think of "Frannie" and her keen wit. How we all do enjoy talking to her! We can just see her chin go up as she prepares to say something clever. Her sunny nature has won her everlasting friendship everywhere. For this reason we think that she would make a fine business woman.

"Thou who hast the fatal gift of beauty."

—Byron.

Mary Barnett

Who is that girl? Why she is Mary Barnett. Don't you know her? Everybody knows our Mary. '24 was quite overcome with fear when Mary left school and the rumor went around that she would not return. But one day, soon after, Mary again occupied her accustomed place in "53."

"Thinking of thee, still thee, till thought grew pain."—Moore.

Marjie Barrett

Marjie is one of the least conspicuous members of the class. But we do not mean by that that she is one of those least to be admired. Indeed, her modesty and tranquillity are qualities much to be esteemed. Not every one has the ability to go through the hustle and bustle of active school life with the calmness and cool-headedness that Marjie possesses. Her work is always faithfully done. You can always depend on her word.

"Thy modesty's a candle to thy merit."
—Fielding.

Elsa Bartlett

A. A., Q.

Here is Elsa Bartlett. We regret to say that Elsa did not join us until our Senior year. But Elsa is a girl whom one can easily become acquainted with. She has made many friends in her short time here, and we feel very fortunate in having a girl like her in the class. We all like you, Elsa, and wish you well for the future.

"None knew thee but to love thee, nor named thee but to praise."—Halleck.

Nellie Batastini

A. A., Q.

Another girl whose face always wears a sunny smile is Nellie. With that flash of cheer, she has won for herself many lasting friends. Nellie is generous, kind, and true. What more could any of us hope for? The one who can boast of Nellie as a friend can be assured that she is indeed, a true friend, always ready to help in any way, no matter how self-sacrificing.

"A generous friendship no cold medium knows."
—Pope.

Naomi Bates

Q.

We pause. Of course you know why. Yes, it's Naomi Bates. Isn't she pretty? Naomi is one of the best looking girls in the class. She is a member of our ever famous "Q" Club and has been a faithful supporter of all our school activities. Naomi is quite a devotee of the equestrian art.

"A lovely girl is above all rank."—Charles Buxton.

Celia Baume

A. A., Q.

Celia Baume comes next on our roll. Few of us are fortunate enough to be intimate friends of Celia. She has a rather indifferent nature which has perhaps been misinterpreted by many of her classmates. Her own clique, however term her a "peach," and they know. Celia is "out" for a good time and she seems to be having it.

"Of all mankind each loves himself the best."
—Terence.

Hattie Belle Beauchamp

A. A., Q.

Did you ever see Hattie without her smile? NO! is the unanimous answer from all. She always has it with her. Hattie is one of our star rooters at our games and can generally be found at most of the dances, too. Though Hattie is small she makes up for this misfortune by being cheerful and friendly to everyone.

"I feel in every smile a chain."—Wolcott.

Harriet Benson

A. A., Art, Q.

Although Harriet is of the quiet type, we have appreciated having had her in the class of 1924. Harriet is very clever, along artistic lines, and the fact can be realized by seeing the many posters and designs she has made. She is one of the valuable members of the Art Club. We all wish her the best of luck!

"Art is Power."—Longfellow.

Evelyn Bey

Dramatic, A. A., Q.

Where shall we begin? There is so much to say about "Ev" Bey that we wonder how we can get it all in. "Ev" is one of the girls whom the class simply could not do without. She was one of those few talented individuals who succeeded in making the Dramatic Club. Yes, "Ev" can act in the most bewitching manner.

"The part was aptly fitted and naturally performed."—Shakespeare.

Mildred Bey

A. A., Q.

"Cute"—did you say? You're not the only one who thinks that. Oh, no! Wee, petite, and pretty, "Millie" Bey has become popular because of her own dainty ways and loving nature. Perhaps the secret of her popularity is her desire to be pleasant to all. Did you ever see her when she wasn't laughing or joking? No. "Millie" is a staunch supporter of all activities.

"A loving heart is the truest wisdom."
—Dickens.

Sophia Bloom

Q.

This is Sophie, one of Mr. Baldwin's old-time prodigies. Sophie's merits have been brought out more than once, at school and outside. They have reached as far as to be honored at the Eastern States Expositions. Whenever Sophie had anything to say, she said it, no matter whether to teacher or classmate. It is by such girls as Sophie that our dull times are brightened. '24 is glad to have had her in it's ranks.

"One can not know everything."—Horace.

Joyce Borlen

Joyce Borlen is a girl really worth knowing. It would be hard to find Joyce in a crowd as she is a tiny individual. But you could not help but notice Joyce as she is quite different from the rest of us mortals. She never has an unkind word for anybody. We really do appreciate you, Joyce, and wish we could show it in a more material way than just by saying so.

"The sunshine of the mind."—Bulwer Lytton.

Grace Bower

A. A., French, Q.

Who is that girl with the rosy cheeks? Why, that's Grace Bower. Oh, of course you know her—everybody knows "Handsome." What greater honor could a girl have than to be elected vice-president of her class in her Freshman year? This is a proof of Grace's popularity. She is also a member of our star basketball team.

"It is well to think well, it is divine to act well."—Horace Mann.

Christine Brassil

A. A., Q.

"I don't care—I had a good time." Can't you just hear Christine saying it. Good old "Chris"! A write-up for her seems so unnecessary. She can count more real friends than probably any one else in "53." But why shouldn't she?

"She's pretty to walk with,
And witty to talk with,
And pleasant too, to think on."
—Suckling.

Gussie Broudy

A. A., Q.

Quiet girls like Gussie are absolutely essential to any class. Gussie is so willing to work hard, whether the object of her work be athletics, clubs, or her studies. Although the movies are Gussie's side-line, she never neglects her school activities. Her school spirit has made her a faithful supporter of all our athletic teams.

"It often happens that those of whom we speak least on earth are best known in heaven."—Coussin.

Pearl Brougham

Pearl is full of fun and always ready for a jolly good time. She not only appreciates a good joke, but also is herself full of them. Almost every one of her remarks is flavored with the spice of humor. During study hours, Pearl is often the one who furnishes amusement for those who are sick of the dullness of studying.

"Some that smile have in their hearts, I fear, millions of mischiefs."—Shakespeare.

Alice Brown

A. A., Q.

Alice is one of those quiet, dependable girls without whom '24 would amount to nothing. Everyone who knows "Al" Brown is just "crazy" about her. "Al" entered the class in her Sophomore year, being a student in the Junior High School. During her High School days she has made many, many friends. '24 is proud to boast of girls like Alice Brown.

"We cannot all do all things."—Virgil.

Ruth Brown

A. A., Q.

Well, whom have we here? None other than Ruth Brown. You would certainly know it, once you heard her low, musical voice. There is only one Ruth Brown in the class. Ruth is the kind of girl who can win her way into the heart of anybody. She is such a friendly, witty girl that she couldn't help but become popular.

"Cheerfulness is an offshoot of goodness and of wisdom."—Bovee.

Frances Brown

Q.

Here comes the shark of the commercial department! She can unravel those hieroglyphics in shorthand in no time. Her typewriting speed is also beyond the limit. And that isn't all. Frances can play anything on the violin, and play it well, too.

"And still they gazed and still their wonder grew,
That one small head could carry all she knew."
—Goldsmith.

Marjorie Burnett

Q.

"Marjie" is not particularly distinguished but she has her place in all of the different phases of school life. In the first place, she has succeeded in keeping her name on the Second Honor Roll. Then, too, over in the "gym", "Marjie" upholds her name, excelling many in broad-jumping, high jumping, and in apparatus work.

"Be good, sweet maid, and let who will be clever."—Kingsley.

Hazel Burgess

This is another of our tiny little "baby" girls. Hazel doesn't look like a senior with her hair still down her back and with her short dresses. But she is one, and a very necessary one. She may not be particularly distinguished, but one does not need to be distinguished to be enjoyable. Hazel is enjoyable. She is like the daisy, not obtrusive nor proud, but living its life quietly.

—Pope.

Louise Butler

Q., A. A., French, Math., Classical, Art.

Here is another of our bright pupils! Louise is not perhaps noted as a "shark," but she is, as one of her teachers says, "a good, wide-awake student," who knows her lessons thoroughly. Louise also possesses common sense, which often comes to the aid of her more frivolous friends.

"The highest degree of earthly happiness is quiet."—Thoreau.

Guerdline Cady

A. A., Q.

We can't possibly picture "Gert" Cady, our motor enthusiast, without her grin and its usual vocal accompaniment "Ha! Ha!" Guerdline must have a white elephant tagging after her someplace. You see she can get into the worst scrapes so easily and get out of them more easily. Few in the class have realized that Guerdline is an accomplished musician. She plays the violin and piano, and she has a charming voice also.

"Laugh and be fat, sir."—Ben Jonson.

Pauline Carleton

A. A., Q.

Behold! Pauline graces this page with her happy countenance. Such girls as Pauline need no "write-up" to proclaim their character, because all who are acquainted with them know their loyal and loving nature. Pauline has never pushed herself into things but gets there just the same. Her strong arguments are good to listen to in some dull class room.

"To be gentle is the test of a lady."—Feltham.

Rhena Chabot

A. A., Q.

Not all of '24's girls have the desire to display particular talent. Nevertheless, girls like Rhena Chabot do not pass unnoticed in our class. For steady, earnest, and sincere work, "Rhen" is a gem—a regular jewel. "Rhen" is one of the few remaining girls who have not, as yet, had their silken tresses cut off.

"Sincerity is the most compendious wisdom."
—Chesterfield.

Rachel Chambers

Well—whom have we here? Yes, this is Rachel Chambers. You knew it of course, but still we must tell you a good many things you would like to know. Cheerful? We'll say so. Rachel is small, but that does not prevent her from being clever. It was a sad day when "Rhen" had her lovely curls cut off. But we like her just as well with a "bob."

"Happiness seems made to be shared."
—Corneille.

Barbara Chase

Classical, Q.

Three cheers for the brightest girl in the class! "Bab" is one of the few girls whose name has never failed to appear on the first honor roll. In all of her classes she is at the head. When teachers are about ready to give up in despair at the stupidity of the class, they turn with a relieved expression to Barbara.

"Sweet food of sweetly uttered knowledge."

—Sydney.

Rachel Childs

A. A., French, Q.

It is practically impossible to say all that should be said about "Ray." A class officer for two years in H. H. S., secretary of the "Q" Club, and one of the associate editors of the "Annual" are a few of her honors. "Ray" is equally at home on the gym floor or on the stage. She enters everything with vim and often succeeds where others fail.

"Push on,—keep moving."—Morton.

Ruth Clarenbach

A. A., Q.

It is hard to know what to say about Ruth. She is a nice, friendly girl, whom everyone who knows her likes. Because she is modest and rather shy that does not mean that she is not an active participant in all good times. She does her part in a quiet, unassuming way.

"For never anything can be amiss,
When simpleness and duty tender it."

—Shakespeare.

Edith Coe

French, Art, Q., Spanish.

Edith is one who belongs to our list of jolly girls. No one can ever remember seeing her cross or upset, always the same happy-go-lucky "gal." As for laughing—you'd have to "go some" to outclass Edith. The giggles were forthcoming at all times, especially during drawing periods in Room 80, in fact at any time she should be working.

"Sweet intercourse of looks and smiles; for smiles from reason flow."—Milton.

Kathleen Connolly

Q., A. A., French.

You don't need three guesses! Of course it is "Kay" Connolly. "Kay" is one of the most popular girls of '24. Not only is "Kay" known by the Seniors but by all other classes as well. "Kay" is everybody's friend, ready and willing to help at all times.

"That action which appears most conducive to the happiness and virtue of mankind."

—Francis Hutcheson.

Mildred Crosier

A. A., Q.

We welcome Mildred Crosier to these pages most gladly. For "Milly" is just the kind of a girl we like to have around. She may be quiet, but well, so was Abraham Lincoln. So are all truly great people. "Milly" is a girl really worth knowing. In our ordinary, happy-go-lucky, rather egotistical way of mixing with each other, we oftentimes overlook real genuine value.

"It is tranquil people who accomplish much."
—Thoreau.

Lucelia Davis

A. A., Q.

Here is a jolly, good-natured girl, who is always saying clever things in clever ways. Even an ordinary statement sounds better from her because of the way in which she says it. It is not what she says chiefly, but the way in which she says it that is clever. "Celie's" extremely optimistic view of life is one thing that deserves credit.

"They laugh that win."—Shakespeare.

Mildred Davis

A. A., French, Q.

When we mention "Buster" Davis you immediately think of "Pigtail Day," when Mildred displayed her long, naturally curly, hair. We also think of peaches and cream complexion (also natural). "Buster" is ever laughing and smiling.

"A face with gladness overspread!
Soft smiles, by human kindness bred!"
—Wordsworth.

Nera Davis

Q., A. A.

Popular? We'll say so. The fact that she is president of the "Q" Club proves this. The "Q" Club girls have been very proud of Nera this year, as she presided so gracefully at all our meetings. She might give one the impression of being shy, but we know that her shyness is only skin deep. We are sure Nera's friendship comes straight from her heart.

"Music is well said to be the speech of angels."
—Carlyle.

Ethel Dean

Ethel is a quiet girl who loves quiet talk and quiet manners. Everything she does is inconspicuous, even though it is something that others would regard as a thing to be proud of. Ethel is always anxious to please everyone. If everyone else is not satisfied, Ethel is not satisfied. Of course, it is impossible to please everyone.

"Studious to please, yet not ashamed to fail."
—Johnson.

Catherine Delaney

A. A., Math., Classical, French, Q., Dramatic.

And now we come to our popular vice-president! How wise we were in choosing "Kay" as our leader. She is such a cheery person we all like to have her around. She is an ideal all-around girl, but her strong point is her dramatic ability. No one of us will forget her as "Dulcy."

"The first in glory as the first in place."

—Pope.

Anna Doerpholz

A. A., Q.

Anna's golden bob is her crowning glory. It is a bright spot among the darker heads of her classmates. Such a crown for such a merry face is certainly a combination that makes you want to "take a second look." Although Anna is not the kind that likes to study very hard, she can be bright when she wants, and she is interested in her school and school activities.

"The bright consummate flower."

—Milton.

Hilda Donahue

A. A., French, Math., Classical, Q., S. C.

Fling wide the portals! For Hilda comes, the happy, brilliant Hilda whom to know is to love. Hilda's popularity ranks far and wide throughout the school. The class made a wise choice when they chose her as best all-around girl and most to be admired.

"The king himself has followed her;
When she has walked before."

—Goldsmith.

Leona Drapeau

Here is another quiet and studious girl. Leona's report cards are the envy of all seniors. In fact her reputation for wisdom and knowledge is so great in "53" that she was elected an associate student-councillor by senior girls. While connected with the Council Leona did her traffic duty faithfully each day.

"I take all knowledge to be my province."

—Bacon.

Josephine Dubiel

A. A., Art.

Get out your glasses because here comes "Joe." Is she small? Yes, but mum's the word. Joe is the kind that everyone likes to have around. She is very good-natured and has made many friends here at school. Josephine is also talented in drawing, and has made many of the posters that graced the walls of our beloved school.

"Art is more godlike than science, Science discovers; art creates."

—Opie.

Jean Epstein

A. A., Q.

Jean is a real dignified senior. We always admired her dignified gait. She never hurries, yet she is never late. She has played the "big sister" part after a fashion, never bothering with our petty troubles, but sincere and earnest in her work. As a friend, Jean cannot be beaten.

"Dignity of manner always conveys a sense of reserved force."—Olcott.

Ruth Fiske

A. A.

Hail to the queen of merry-makers! When you hear Ruth laughing, be on the watch for some new prank. During senior year she became famous as a messenger between fictitious H. H. S. Apollos and S. H. H. S. maidens. We must say she made a successful messenger. We think Ruth should publish a series of books telling high school pupils how to write notes that will please the sterner sex.

"Thoughtless of beauty, she was beauty's self."
—Thomson.

Mary Fitzgerald

French.

We couldn't call her anything but "May," and we think her sobriquet is very appropriate, for "May" is small and quiet, and she blushes so prettily. Who would ever think that "May" could play the cornet and write French plays? She can—wonderfully. Although "May" is faithful to her studies, she believes in fun.

"A blush is the glow of the angel in woman."
—Mrs. Balfour.

Marjorie Freeland

A. A.

Marjie's nickname of "Grandma" must be, we think, a mistake, or surely a misfit. In the first place, her "bob" belies the nickname. Then, too, its owner is surely a lively school supporter. Marjorie is best known as an athlete. There are only a "chosen few" who can excel her in the gymnasium. Her classmates stand in awe of her accomplishments there.

"Variety's the very spice of life."—Cowper.

Thora Freeman

A. A., French, Math., Classical, Q.

"Happy am I—from care I'm free,
Why aren't they all contented like me?"

This is "Teddy's" attitude toward life. Perhaps you didn't know that "Teddy" knew all the latest dance steps, from a reel to a "trot."

"I like the laugh that opens the lips and the heart—that shows at the same time pearls and the soul."—Hugo.

Rachel Gamzue

Q.

"Rae" always seems to be in a hurry, yet she has a smile and word for everyone. She is a good sport and does what the crowd does, provided there is some fun in store. We must make an exception for music period, however. She does not follow the crowd then. She is one of the few real, earnest seniors, who really sing because they like to.

"Give me the ready hand rather than the ready tongue."—Garibaldi.

Sarah Garber

Sarah is another little girl with an abundance of other things to make up for her lack of taking up room. Sarah's prime virtue is patience. She seems willing to wait, while others would be in haste. She does not jump to conclusions, but lets "fate have her way." Unlike most of us, she is not always a-flutter wondering what is going to happen next. She is not curious or meddling.

"Her habits are peace and patience."

—Walton.

Henrietta Gingras

A dainty, pretty little maid with dark, curly hair, dark, sparkling eyes, and a smile for everyone, is Henrietta. She is, besides being light-hearted, also light of foot. Her figure is slight and very graceful. Henrietta studies a little, plays a little, and works a little. She believes that "all work and no play make Jack a dull boy," and it is a good motto.

"The sweetest garland to the sweetest maid."

—Tickell.

Doris Glesman

A. A., Q.

Doris is surely an angel in disguise. A girl who can smile and continue to smile in spite of all the difficulties she meets, certainly is a worthwhile friend. Doris is not the noisy kind. She has gained her popularity by being such a true-blue friend. We never heard Doris say anything unpleasant about anyone—hence a large number of friends in "53."

"As pure in thought as angels are; to know her was to love her."—Rogers.

Mildred Gerhhardt

"Millie" is the kind of a girl that is not easy to forget. She is either a staunch friend or a bitter enemy. There is nothing "lukewarm" about "Mil"; she is either hot or cold. Her opinions are always decidedly for or against, never halfway. She is a good worker and student, too; and in classes, often brings up discussions that serve either for the amusement or for the enlightenment of the duller class.

"Courage never to submit or yield."

—Milton.

Helen Goehring

A. A., Q.

We welcome Helen to these pages gladly. Helen is very famous as an expert driver. Her frequent parties have been the topic of much discussion, too. Helen is one of the stable members of our class—the kind of girl upon whom we can always depend.

"Good sense and good nature are never separated."—Dryden.

Mabel Gold

A. A., Q.

Look at that smile! Isn't it just like her? Mabel's smile is known throughout the school. The Class of '24 cannot claim a more cheerful girl than Mabel Gold. She is one of our studious girls, too, history being her strong point. Mabel's wish is that there were more history courses in the school.

"A smile recures the wounding of a frown."

—Shakespeare.

Lillian Gouin

"Oh, Lil, won't you play for us?" And Lil proceeds to play the latest "hits" of the season. The girls would be lost without "Lil" Gouin to play the piano for them to dance. We surely do enjoy having her around. This is not the only way in which "Lil" is clever. She is a fine scholar, and averages high in all her studies. We heartily appreciate what "Lil" has done for us."

"A tender heart, a will inflexible."

—Longfellow.

Alice Goy

A. A., Q.

Behold—our wittiest girl! Yes, "Dick" has a sense of humor all her own. The things she says possess an originality that most of us envy. Is she not one of our class prophets? And who is there in the class better able to hold this honor than "Al" Goy? Some of our "Q" Club meetings could not have come to a successful close without the aid of "Dick" and her violin.

"Those who object to wit are envious of it."

—Hazlitt.

Emily Gruzdis

A. A.

Emily does not believe in making herself conspicuous in any way. She is one about whom we hear little. When you know her, however, you find in her a friend worth while, who will stand up for you to the end. Emily has ability, too, even though we do not hear much about it.

"Her single talent well employ'd."

—Johnson.

Mary Guimond

Mary chatters and chatters, but we all like to listen to her. There is no need for a quiet moment when she is around. She insists on being the life of the party, and she always is. But Mary is not all fun. She believes in tending to her studies before she sees what mischief she can do. Mary has a winning personality, and has gained many lasting friends during her high school course.

"Generous, guiltless, and a free disposition."

—Shakespeare.

Claire Harrington

Claire is one of our girls who does not make a noise about what she does. She is quiet and good-natured and has a sweet disposition. She has always been willing to put time and effort into her school work, that she might learn something from it. She has always passed her subjects with ease. It has been a great privilege to have Claire as a member of our class, and we are glad to have had the chance to know her.

"The mildest manner and the gentlest heart."

—Homer.

Mary Harrington

A. A., Math.

Mary is our "classiest" girl! She is up to the minute in styles, and, in fact, has often been called a "walking style-book." She has all the latest fads and fancies in manners as well as in dress. Then, too, Mary can flirt! She has such an innocent, pleading way of looking at you. We cannot deny that she can captivate a young man with her charming ways.

"Blest with that charm, that certainty to please."

—Rogers.

Vivian Healey

A. A., Q.

Here is our future Anna Pavlowa. Nineteen hundred and twenty-four has the greatest hopes and expectations for "Viv" Healey. She can dance way up on her tiptoes. 'Tis the "Q" Club girls who have enjoyed her dancing most. But aside from this, "Viv," with her generous spirit and friendly disposition, has made many lasting friends among the members of '24.

"Come and trip it as you go,
On the light fantastic toe."

—Milton.

Julia Hickey

We welcome Julia Hickey to these pages most gladly. Julia has never appeared very much before the eye of the public, but in spite of this fact nearly everybody in the school knows her. Julia is a girl who can mix in anywhere and be friendly. Any gathering is certainly lucky to have Julia in its midst. Julia's sweet disposition has gained many friends for her in '24.

"The way to gain a friend is to be one."

—Mickelet.

Rose Hollup

Q.

Rose is one of our "domestic science" girls. Though the general opinion is that girls interested in these housewifely duties are quiet and demure, Rose immediately shatters any such thought. Her greatest joy and pleasure is to whisper and plan some mischief during classes. Many times she has proven how contagious her laughter is by making the entire class where she is follow her lead.

"Splitting the air with noise."—Shakespeare.

Elizabeth Horrigan

A. A., Q.

Elizabeth Horrigan is one of our quiet girls. But we don't mind that, for she is one of the stable members of our class—the kind of girl upon whom we can always depend. She isn't one of the pushing kind—perhaps that's why we all like her so well—but she always stands ready to help in any way she can.

"There is no one subsists by himself alone."

—Feltham.

Lillian Hynd

Lillian is a sweet, little girl, full of life and happiness. She is an earnest, thoughtful, hard worker when she wants to work; although her nature, always so full of spirit, does not allow her to work very much of the time. When she does do anything, however, she puts her whole heart and soul into it. Some of her themes and original stories show promising literary ability, if only she cared to develop it.

"Freedom has a thousand charms to show."

—Cowper.

Alice Johnston

Q.

Alice is one of our jolly, good-natured girls who has faithfully served us at the lunch counter during the past year. We all know that one must be endowed with a great deal of patience to be able to keep her temper at such a post. Alice has always been a very good student and has been attentive in her classes.

"As prone to mischief as able to perform it."

—Anon.

Miriam Jones

A. A., Q, Dramatic.

Our class secretary needs no introduction. We all know her to be a determined girl, willing to work faithfully for her class. Her fame as an athlete has made us very proud of her, but "Mim" has also been active in other circles of school life. She has successfully "made" dramatics, and has also been prominent in our class plays.

"Purpose is what gives life a meaning."

—Pankhurst.

Lena Kalicka

And here we have that very studious little person, Lena Kalicka. Lena has a winning smile and manner that no person can resist. Her dark eyes are ever sparkling with intelligence and friendship. Just look at her picture and judge for yourself about her being pretty. She certainly is one of the most charming girls in the class, always "a friend in need" and assuredly "a friend, indeed"!

"Whose every little ringlet thrilled, as if with soul and passion filled!"—Moore.

Mary Kane

A. A., French, Math., Q.

Mary is a quiet, subdued girl. But this lack of noise is more than made up by her abundance of other qualities. Mary is always "kindness itself." She would never have the heart to refuse anyone any request whatsoever. It isn't in her to see a friend in distress and pass her by. It is this readiness to help and this generosity that make us all glad and proud to have Mary for a friend.

"With malice towards none, with charity for all."—A. Lincoln.

Francis Keeler

Q.

Isn't she a darling? Everybody just simply adores "Fran" Keeler. Little Frances has gained much popularity with her dainty manner. "Fran" may be small in person but it's another case of "Good things come in—" oh, well, you know that quotation too well to repeat it. "Fran" doesn't say much or do much, but just the same, all '24 knows her and loves her.

"A true friend is forever a friend."

—G. MacDonald.

Gertrude Kelly

A. A., French, Math., Classical, Q, S. C.

"Gert" or "Gertie" is one of our "baby" girls. She is a cute, irresistible, little darling, and nobody can help loving her. But she is not only cute but bright. In Virgil class she shows herself an apt student and can translate as well as any of the "sharks." In History, who can outshine her?

"Sweeter also than honey and the honeycomb."

—Old Testament.

Mary Louise Kinne

A. A., Math., French, Classical, Q, S. C.

One of our prime favorites, "May" Kinne! In "May" we have one of '24's best all-around girls, popular, bright, efficient, good-natured, witty, and pretty. We made her secretary of the Mathematics Club because she is clever. We made her a charter member of the Student Council because she has sound wisdom. We made her a prophet because she has wit.

"Almost to all things could she turn her hand."

—Shakespeare.

Eleanor Kohler

A. A., Math., Classical, Q, Spanish.

"El" or "Peanut" is small, as far as stature goes, but is by no means "in the background" of school affairs. She is the kind of pupil who is interested in everything that is going on around her. She is so observant that nothing escapes her keen notice.

Eleanor has a remarkably strong voice and has spoken several times before the school.

"Infinite riches in little room."—Marlowe.

Louise Kostenbader

French.

Louise has moved among us, tall and stately. She is one of our valuable members, always ready to help out in an emergency. Louise is so calm and well-poised we all feel like little children when she is around. We can't stay this way very long, however.

"Her very frowns are fairer far
Than those of other maidens are."
—Coleridge.

Hyacinth La France

Q.

Hyacinth is one whom, though we all don't know her well, we all appreciate. She is a very demure girl and goes her own way, helping where she thinks best, and rejoicing in the pleasures and successes of her friends. Not only is she willing and ready to fall in with any plan suggested, but she complies without a word of complaint.

"Content to follow when we lead the way."
—Homer.

Anna Leary

A. A., Q.

While we're searching for the "good-lookers"—what about Anna Leary? She is so bright and pretty that she just naturally stands out from the others. "Nan" is one of the best known girls in the class. And this is due, perhaps, to her sunshiny nature. "Nan" is classy. Please pardon the word, but it expresses her exactly. She is a prime favorite, not only with the girls but with the boys as well. We all admire Anna.

"Her step is music and her voice is song."
—Bailey.

Margaret Lenigan

Art, Q.

Peggy's approach is always heralded—by herself. That cheery voice coming from the other side of the corridor could be none other than "Peg's". Can she dance? Can she sing? Can she do a million and one other things?—and that one other thing is flirt. For who hasn't felt the effect of her wiles? Both boys and girls alike are her victims.

"Wit in women is a jewel."—Colton.

Anna Mahoney

Q.

Curls! Whenever we think of Anna, we think of curls, smooth, long, dark curls! In these days, when bobbed hair is prevalent, it is quite a pleasant novelty to be able to feast your eyes on long hair, especially when it's curly. In spite of being the proud possessor of such an attraction, it is plain that Anna does not let it detract from her studies, for she has always been on the second honor roll.

"See, what a grace was seated on this brow; Hyperion's curls."—Shakespeare.

Nina Manseau

Q.

Nina is the type of girl who is naturally quiet, but what would we do without these quiet people? Nina is one of the few who have won a senior life-saving emblem in swimming contests. Whenever we think of our school and the class of 1924, we shall be pleased to recall our tiny Nina.

"Silence sweeter is than speech."—Mullock.

Viola Masse

Q.

"Vi" is one of our prettiest little seniors, with her dark, curled bob, her dancing eyes, and rosebud lips. In classes Viola is rather inclined to pay more attention to the admiring young men sitting near her than to her studies. "Vi" has one quality of which all of those who know her think much.

"Beautiful as sweet, and young as beautiful."
—Young.

Beatrice Mathieson

Q.

There is that irrepressible giggle! Yes, it is "Bea", of course; good-natured "Bea", who always carries her giggle with her. Indeed, without it, "Bea" would not be "Bea." Because of this, friends flock around her. She is well-liked, for who could resist sympathizing with her optimistic point of view!

"It fortifies my soul to know
I have such a good friend as thou."
—Clough.

Jane Mendreh

A. A., Q.

It is so easy to say nice things about Jane. Although she belongs to the quiet class, we all know her to be a cheery, modest individual, trying to be a friend of everyone and an enemy of none. She treats all alike, in such a friendly manner that we all admire and esteem her. Jane's alluring dimples have entitled her to be called one of our pretty girls.

"Thy modesty's a candle to thy merit."

Melodie Messier

Q, A. A., French.

"Melo" ranks amongst our jolly members, and there are, indeed, many in this class. "Melo" is a good rooter for all the teams, and rarely misses a game. She has a ready laugh at all times, both in class and out. She is always ready for a good time, but knows when to settle down to business.

"Joys too exquisite to last,
And yet more exquisite when past."

—Montgomery.

Bessie Miller

Q.

Bessie is one of our fair scholars, and can always be depended upon, even to having her home-work. Her appearance in the school orchestra for several years has set her down as a good musician. Bessie's pleasantness and cheery smile have won her many friends. Such girls as Bessie help to make our class the best ever.

"The present eye praises the present object."

—Shakespeare.

Stella Mireault

A. A.

Here is another of the fortunate few on the first honor roll! In all of her classes Stella is at the head. She was, too, a deserving candidate for the "brightest girl." She is not only smart herself, but is willing to help a struggler along over difficulties that are not difficulties at all for her. In popular language, Stella is a "shark."

"In youth and beauty, wisdom is but rare."

—Pope.

Margaret Mitchell

A. A., Math., Q.

"Halloooo!" Can't you hear her? It's "Migs" Mitchell, of course, always up to something. "Migs" is full of life and added a good bit of zest to "Q" Club when she joined it in '23. The fact that "Peg" is our most mischievous girl is a proof of her popularity. "Migs" possesses that happy-go-lucky disposition which all of us wish we had. She always makes a pleasant impression and is everywhere gladly received.

"Man is no match for woman where mischief reigns."—Balzac.

Julia More

A. A., Q.

Julia has preferred having a few real friends and devoting her time to them rather than having a large circle and knowing each slightly. Although "Judy" has stayed out of the limelight, in her own circle she is quite a leader and capable of surprising many of us. Julia believes in enjoying life and making others enjoy it with her.

"Every individual nature has its own beauty."

—Emerson.

Lillian Muskat

A. A., Math., Classical, Q.

"Lil" must be a Red or a Bolshevist, she is such a wonder in simplifying radicals. We all did envy her that "A" in "Math." Lillian shines in her other subjects, also, making us all the more envious. "Lil" has another record to be proud of. She has never missed one home basketball game.

"Prefer diligence before idleness, unless you esteem rust above brightness."—Plato.

Martha Nevins

A. A., Q, Spanish.

"Nevie" is the kind of girl that would rather play than work, as almost all would do. It is in English class where she shows her ability more than in others. Even if Martha may not have the genius of some, she is always well prepared; and this ever-readiness makes her themes or oral talks all the more pleasing and interesting.

"Music's golden tongue doth all her other arts conceal."—Keats.

Mildred Nye

"Mil" is another of our cute girls, who has won for herself a place in the hearts of all of her classmates. She is smart, of course, but that is not why we like her so well. She is kind and generous, and always ready to lend a helping hand. "Mil" is happiest when out-of-doors. Her chief delight is to tramp over the fields, with book and pillow under her arm, to some favorite nook of hers where she spends many happy hours.

"He is a genius, indeed, who has the genius to be loved."—Elizabeth Browning.

Adelaide McKeefe

A. A., Math., Q.

Adelaide is a dear, pretty girl who doesn't know how dear and pretty she is. She has a wealth of hair that would make anyone else carry her head high. She is not the popular "loud" type, but is more quiet and reserved, though very friendly. Perhaps this way she wins more worth-while friends, even if they are fewer, than those who are not so modest.

"Fair and softly goes far."—Cervantes.

Mildred O'Connor

A. A., French, Math., Classical.

Here is a girl who believes in saying what she means and then sticking to it. Mildred is usually right, too. She is one of the "sharks" of '24, although, because of her own modesty, the reputation for her brightness has not spread as far as that of others.

"Thou living ray of intellectual Fire."

—Falconer.

Marion Odabashion

Would that we all had such a quiet, peaceful disposition as Marion. She has such a pleasant nature it is impossible to argue with her. An argument would never cross her mind. But who would try to argue with a sweet girl like Marion? No one who knows Marion Odabashion can fail to recognize in her all that makes a splendid friend as well as a good student.

"Peace is the fairest form of happiness."

Margaret O'Neill

A. A., Q.

"Peggy" is one of the happy-go-lucky girls in our class. Even though she herself is not so very large, her laugh is, and it certainly is hard to be gloomy when she is around. Of course, she isn't all fun, though. "Peg" studies, too, and is really very industrious for such a jolly, little girl.

"A little nonsense now and then Is relished by the best of men."

—Hargrove.

Alice Osborne

A. A.

Alice is one of '24's most valuable members—one of the quiet kind, yet always ready to help out in anything. Alice is the kind of girl we like to have around. "Al" shines in all our different societies, and is a splendid student, also. To all her friends "Al" is a real pal. She has always made the most of her high school years.

"Exhausting thought, and living wisdom with each studious year."—Byron.

Ruth Osborne

A. A., Q.

Ruth is cute—there is no denying of that very evident fact. But she is always witty and good-natured. These two characteristics rather than her pretty face and hair and clothes make her lovable. Ruth seems sometimes to want her own way, but the minute she finds that she is wrong she is willing to acknowledge her mistake.

"Friendship is Love without his wings."

—Byron.

Sylvia Pariseau

A. A., Q.

With a hop, skip, and a jump Sylvia Pariseau enters the line. But this is not unusual, for "Syl" is one of our best athletes. Sylvia's display of apparatus work at the Gymnasium Exhibition was beyond criticism. The audience marveled at the wonderful stunts she performed.

"Action, so to speak, is the genius of nature."

—Blair.

Jean Pattison

We shall always remember Jean for two things, her curly locks and her laugh. Her laugh is about the most contagious thing we know. She starts with a gurgle, and then—we just cannot describe the rest of it. Jean is the combination of a charming laugh, a charming disposition, and a charming personality. She is also an accomplished mischief-maker; so when you hear that gurgling laugh of hers you may be sure some new prank is in the process of development.

"Is there anything in life as lovely as the laugh of a young girl?"—Richter.

Rose Persky

A. A., Q.

Rose is one of our leading class suffragettes. She certainly stands up to her beliefs and generally comes out on top. If she doesn't it's not her fault; she tries hard enough. Rose has a pleasant disposition and her many friends claim her to be a good sport. Her company is a pleasure. We shall always remember Rose.

"Do you not know I am a woman? What I think I must speak."—Shakespeare.

Ethola Phillips

Q.

"Thola" is the sort of girl that we all should aim to be like. Perhaps the most marked thing about her is that she is able to adapt herself to almost anyone she is with. She is impartial and undiscriminating. Her aim seems to be to please everyone, and, indeed, she is never said to offend.

"It is a very hard undertaking to seek to please everybody."—Syrus.

Mildred Picard

A. A., Q.

Everyone knows "Milly Picky" as a star performer in the water. She has won her popularity in the school largely because of being one of the five best swimmers of our school chosen to represent us at a meet in Boston.

"Milly" is a rollicking, jolly girl, just full of fun.

"A merry heart doeth good like a medicine."
—Old Testament.

Irene Pinney

A. A., Q.

Irene is our class beauty, the prettiest of our many pretty girls. We might say, in describing Irene, "the sweetest garland to the sweetest maid," for Irene is sweet, both in disposition and looks. She has always been prominent in all our social affairs, being popular with all her classmates.

"For her own person it beggared all description."—Shakespeare.

Arletta Polson

A. A., Q.

"Letta" is tall, thin, and athletic. Her slender, supple body simply swings into all sorts of graceful movements enviously, easily, and smoothly, without any apparent effort at all. She runs swiftly as a deer and jumps lightly as a hare. Then, too, Arletta can swim all manner of strokes, and can do all the fanciest strokes.

"Good health and good sense are two of life's greatest blessings."—Syrus.

Helen Popkiewicz

Q.

Here comes Helen, rushing, of course. There is nothing slow about Helen. She believes in making life snappy. You should see her running through her apparatus exercises at gym. She certainly is a cyclone. We hardly blame Helen for smiling all the time.

"Good nature is worth more than knowledge, more than money, to those who possess it."

—Beecher.

Evelyn Powers

A. A., Q.

Enter "Eve" at 8.19! "Eve" arrived at school one morning at 7.15 a. m.! She made up for it the next morning, however, by coming at—well, we won't say when. Evelyn's happy-go-lucky nature has made her popular with her classmates. She is willing to do a good turn for everyone, and her friends say that it is impossible to quarrel with her. It just isn't in her "make-up."

"Better late than never."—Jusser.

Phyllis Pratt

French, Q.

Phyllis is a girl really worth knowing. In our ordinary way of mixing with each other we sometimes overlook real, genuine value. Phyllis is interested in everyone and everything. She is always the same happy and pleasing person. Phyllis is a hard worker, and she has received her reward —a reward which everybody would like to receive —the hearty admiration of hosts of friends.

—Shakespeare.

Annie Price

Q.

Smiling, cheerful and true, and many kind things she will do. Annie is the kind of a girl who would do anybody a favor; it is just her nature. She has many friends who think there is no one quite like her. She is one of our few shy but really worth while girls, who have made school a pleasure, and knowing her a treat.

"A shy face is better than a forward heart."

—Cervantes.

Sylvia Radner

No, you can't pass Sylvia because there is always a "hello" and a grin waiting for you. Sylvia is a good pianist and also quite a singer. Her ability as a singer was brought to light when Sylvia sang in the famous operetta, "The Nautical Knot." That was when Sylvia was only a wee sophomore.

"Thy voice is a celestial melody."

—Longfellow.

Luella Rainville

A. A., Q

The spirit of happiness predominates over Luella continually. Her giggles and smiles are proof of this, and she has a ready answer for every statement made. Luella is a good student and also appears at many of the games and dances. Then, too, Luella is the kind of a girl we call "classy." A pleasant manner, a happy smile, and her neat appearance are the factors which have made Luella the very interesting person she is.

"Splitting the air with noise."—Shakespeare.

Elizabeth Ramsden

A. A., French, Spanish.

Elizabeth reminds us of one of those lacy, old-fashioned bouquets. She is so demure and so quiet. We can't imagine her shrieking and tearing through the halls as many of our supposedly dignified senior girls do. Wherever she goes she makes new friends. In H. H. S. she has always been in the good graces of all her teachers.

"There's nothing ill can dwell in such a temple."

—Shakespeare.

Madonna Rayner

Q.

"Oh, isn't that dress darling?" Ah, there's Madonna, the girl who loves clothes! You can always count on Madonna's noticing every new dress or every new pair of shoes. Nothing in the line of pretty things to wear escapes Madonna's appreciative but critical eye. She certainly shows this love of clothes and also her fine taste in her own clothes.

"I laugh, for hope hath place with me."

—Channing.

Lillian Riley

A. A., Q.

Who is that "classy" girl? Need you ask? That is "Lil" Riley. "Lil" is a regular fashion plate. Many girls have sighed and gazed with envy when "Lil" has strolled into "53". She simply doesn't believe in wearing the same dress twice. But we wouldn't, either, if we had as many dresses as "Lil" has. "Lil" has been a faithful worker and a good student.

"He is only fantastical that is not in fashion."

—Burton.

Marion Riley

A. A.

Marion is as jolly as "Old King Cole" himself. She never seems sad, but always glad; never discouraged, but always hopeful; never glum, but always jolly; never offended, but always ready to forgive and forget. Marion will persevere to the end if any trouble, no matter how great, looms up. She faces unflinchingly life's ups and downs,

"It is hopeful perseverance that wins the goal."

—Shakespeare.

Lauretta Roch

A. A., Q.

"Who is willing to help make candy?" Up goes Lauretta's hand among the first. Of course, she will do anything to help someone, especially when it is making candy. Yes, Lauretta loves candy, and if she can't get enough of it she makes all she wants. Lauretta has a keen sense of humor, and laughs heartily at the least joke.

"Her spirit is ever willing to serve."

—Emerson.

Rose Saltman

Q.

Rose has worked quietly during her course in H. H. S., applying herself earnestly to her work and endearing herself to many. She believes that silence is golden, but a perfect recitation is platinum, hence she has made a good record for herself. She is so sensible and quiet she often makes us regret our lack of good, sound wisdom.

"'Tisn't what we say, but what we don't say that helps."—Kipling.

Marjorie Smith

A. A., French, Q.

Giggling, giggling, ever giggling! And that ever famous giggle belongs to "Marg" Smith. You don't have to see her to know it is she. But "Marg" is one of the friendliest girls any class ever had. Girls like her make "53" the pleasant section that it is. "Marg" throws a happy spirit over any gathering, and people are always seeking her friendship. "Marg" is quite a little actress.

"I am tipsy with laughing."—Congreve.

Marjorie Snyder

A. A., Math., Q.

"Margie" needs no introduction. She is known throughout the school and liked by all who know her. "Marg" is a very clever girl and has always come out ahead in her studies. In fact, she excels in almost everything she undertakes. Her pleasant disposition and charming manner have been the cause of her many friends in H. H. S.

"A lady, a scholar, and a sincere friend."

Naomi Spies

A. A., Q.

Naomi is one of our silver-tongued orators. We may be wrong, but we think that Naomi would argue with anybody about anything. Moreover, she is usually right. "Spizy" certainly knows how to talk. We have often wondered how she manages to keep silent on those long canters she enjoys so much. Naomi's love for horses is well known by all her classmates.

"I'll not budge an inch."—Shakespeare.

Hattie Spring

A. A., Q.

One of the cutest little girls in our class is Hattie Belle. Perhaps the fact that she is short is one reason for this, but it is by no means the main reason. Her big brown eyes have something in them so pleading that it is hard for even the strictest teacher to resist them. Her smile is so sweet and her laugh so delightful that you simply must love her.

"Ah, youth! forever dear, forever kind."

—Pope.

Bessie Stewart

Bessie is naturally quiet, but not so quiet that she is unknown. Her smile has reached many and still continues to do so. Bessie has followed her commercial course to a "T". The business world will step aside when Bessie enters. Good luck for the future!

"A woman's strength is more potent when robed in gentleness."—Lamartine.

Marion Stott

A. A., Q.

"Be yourself" is Marion's favorite saying. Only a girl with Marion's loving nature could say this. We love Marion for her own true self and many of us would like to possess her ability for making friends. Marion is the "darling" of the class, and we shall feel keenly our separation from her. Marion has never failed to be a "friend in need," and could be depended upon to sympathize with any sorrowing soul.

"But fate ordains that dearest friends must part."—Young.

Gladys Strong

A. A., Q.

You all know Gladys Strong. It is a pleasure to see her walking serenely along the corridor. But then Gladys can well defy the world. Perhaps we should if we were in her place. Gladys is not failing in friends in the school. You don't have to ask her twice to go to a basketball game.

"It is a friendly heart that has plenty of friends."—Thackeray.

Stella Sullivan

A. A.

To overlook Stella would be unpardonable. This book would be lacking in something if Stella's name were not somewhere between its pages. Stella can act just as quickly as she can talk. If you have ever heard "Stel" talk you can realize how speedy her actions are. Her motto is, "Follow me and thou shalt not lack amusement."

"There was no one like her, though there were many imitations."—Kipling.

Mildred Taft

A. A., Q.

Was there ever a girl like "Milly"? She may be quiet, but that is nothing against her. She has made many friends in H. H. S. friends who will never forget her. She has taken an active part in "Q" Club entertainments and has always been ready to help whenever her services were requested.

"The cheerful live longest in life, and after it, in our regards."—Bovee.

Jeanette Thomson

A. A., Q.

Jeanette is a fine girl, who studies diligently and never shirks. Although it may seem that she is just ordinary, surely if you know her you find out that it is no ordinary person who can concentrate on her duties and carry her through, the way Jeanette can do and does. More are needed like her who can work with a will.

"The world knows nothing of its greatest men."
—Taylor.

Marguerite Tifft

A. A., Q.

Happy-go-lucky and in for fun, she always gets there, but—on the run. That's "Peg". Even the 8.20 bell cannot disturb her. "Peg" came to us in her sophomore year, making us wish all the more that she had been with us for her four years. She has distinguished herself in athletics, her favorite amusement being jumping the "buck."

"Enthusiasm is the genius of sincerity."
—Patcher.

Delia Utley

Q.

Bang! That must be Delia! Delia is one of the liveliest and jolliest of all our senior girls, and as much so as any of the boys. She runs in, slams her books down, and runs out again before you can wink. Like a streak of lightning she has come and gone. Then you hear a loud laugh, and turn around to see Delia back of you, laughing at your bewilderment.

"Like a fast-flitting meteor, a fast-flying cloud."
—Knox.

Myrtle Warner

Art, Q.

Myrtle has journeyed from the Falls every morning to come to this school. Quite an honor for both the girl and the school! Myrtle has always been a quiet and faithful worker in all subjects. She has also been a faithful helper in the clubs to which she belongs. Myrtle fairly radiates friendliness and has worked her way into the hearts of us all.

"Infinite riches in little room."—Marlowe.

Pauline Warner

Q.

We gladly welcome "Paul" Warner to these pages. A girl like her would never pass unnoticed. Many girls would like to be as clever as "Paul". Her stunning clothes are the envy of every fair maid. And we hear that she makes most of them herself.

"I have enjoyed earthly happiness,
I have lived and loved."

—Schiller.

Mildred Wasserman

Math., Classical, Q.

Mildred is a quiet girl and very shy. She can make friends much more easily than she can make enemies. The very fact that she is modest and retiring makes it practically impossible to do anything but like her. She is an exceptionally bright student, and is always ready to help out a friend who finds lessons hard.

"'Tisn't what we say, but what we don't say, that helps."—Kipling.

Marion Webber

A. A., Math., Classical, Q.

Marion is another of the girls on the first honor roll. She certainly deserves the honor if anyone does. There are few who are as faithful in doing their home-work. Marion never pleads excuses. Unlike many, she is systematic in her plans, and orderly in all her ways. She is an associate member of the Student Council, and does her work quietly but efficiently.

—Thoreau.

Lillian Weinberg

French.

"Libby" is endowed with one especial gift. This is her remarkable talent in music. She was appointed as the one to take charge of auditorium music this year. Nothing delights us more than to know that Lillian is going to play for us in auditorium some morning.

"Music in my heart I bore."—Wordsworth.

Enid Whitmore

Q, Math., Classical, A. A.

Three cheers for our class poet, Enid Whitmore! You don't very often meet a girl who excels in poetry and mathematics also. Enid does. In fact, Enid shines in all her studies, and is a high honor student. The social side of H. H. S. has also attracted Enid. She wouldn't dream of missing a club meeting or a club dance. Enid is also an editor of this book, and any cleverness you may find here may be traced back to her.

"Was ever poet so trusted before."—Johnson.

Irene Williams

French, Q.

Yes, she is just a wee bit conscious of her newly-acquired "bob", but never mind, Irene, it is becoming. Our attention is taken from the bob by Irene's delightful laugh. No one has a more ripply, happy, tinkly little laugh than she. It carries you far away from school and studies into realms of happiness. That is why everyone loves Irene's company.

Laughs like the ripples on a lake were thrilled."

—Pope.

Viola Wolcott

Q.

"Vi" generally arrives at school between 8.19 and 8.20. She is always in a hurry, but seems to succeed in getting where she wants to go. That is one of "Vi's" characteristics, and it has been shown in her school work that, though she may seem to be behind, she always gets there on time.

"Let your haste commend your duty."

—Shakespeare.

Ruth Woods

Q.

Who is that charming girl? Why that is Ruth Woods. Will you ever forget her on Pigtail Day with her pigtails and many colored ribbons? Wasn't she the most bewitching little girl you ever saw? We all adore Ruth Woods, for she just naturally creeps into the hearts of everybody. Ruth is always on hand for every social affair and never misses a dance. And Ruth certainly can dance.

"How goodness heightens beauty!"

—Hanah More.

Arnold Agambar

Math., Phi Alpha, A. A.

Arnold is very sociable. He fits in with any crowd and at any time. He is ready for fun; he is ready for study. In short, he is one of '24's best members. He is never in a hurry and his persistency and patience always gain him what he wants. He is willing to follow a suggestion of the crowd, and makes it his way to give himself and others a good time.

"Faithfulness and sincerity first of all."

—Confucius.

Robert Allison

A. A., French, Math., Phi Alpha.

When "Bob" holds a watch near his ear, the time is a long way off. "Bob" is the "lanky" center on the basketball team. In fact, he is known throughout the valley as the tallest high school pivot man. "Bob" always had considerable trouble trying to get his feet under the desk when he sat down, but he never had any trouble giving his classmates a good smile whenever he met them.

"Wise sayings often fall on barren ground; but a kind word is never thrown away."—Helps.

Frederick Allyn

Phi Alpha.

Who's that passing out music? Oh, Fred Allyn, of course. Fred's good-natured ways have won for him his popularity with everyone. Fred is an ardent worker and was on the Costume Party Committee; therefore its success. Fred is a good worker and sticks to a thing until he accomplishes it. He will succeed anywhere with all his good qualities, his friendliness and his popularity. The best of luck from '24, Fred.

"A wise man and a serious."—Shakespeare.

Leonard Baldwin

A. A., French, Phi Alpha, Spanish, S. C.

"Ski" is one of our jolly fellows. He never passes anyone without a grin and a cheery "Hello." He doesn't delight in any one thing; he likes everything and will fall in with any suggestion, provided it is within reason.

"There is no difference between one person and another more characteristic and noticeable than the faculty of being happy."

Isadore Barowsky

Phi Alpha.

"Izzy" has livened many of our dreary days by his genial spirit and extraordinary good nature. Although his motto is "business first," "Izzy" is "there" when it comes to any excitement. "Izzy" lives on excitement. He has enjoyed his classes and his friends, and all of us who know him have, in return, enjoyed his jovial disposition.

"Hard workers are usually honest."—Bovée.

Robert Batchelor

A. A., Phi Alpha.

With a hearty laugh "Bob" Batchelor enters the list. Yes, "Bob" is a happy individual. Anyone in his company cannot but feel the effects of his happy, cheerful disposition. He has been a liberal supporter of Phi Alpha, and has always been on hand for all school activities. He seems to have a disposition which belies all worry.

"Be thou of good cheer."—Bible.

Robert Bates

A. A., French, Math., Phi Alpha.

Though "Bob" entered our class in his Senior year he has become one of our best-known and most popular classmates. We knew when he came, if only by the set of his chin, that he would be one of our most determined fellows. When "Bob" sets out to do a thing, he does it, no matter how long it takes.

"He only is a well-made man who has a good determination."—Emerson.

Francis Bennett

A. A., Phi Alpha.

"Fran" is one of those poetic fellows. His flowing locks and the many votes received for Class Poet prove that. He is rather slow of speech, but he always says something worth listening to. His jolly good nature insures his having a host of friends after he leaves Holyoke High as he did while he was here.

"Many individuals have, like uncut diamonds, shining qualities beneath a rough exterior."

—Juvenal.

Harold Bialkowsky

A. A., French, Math., Phi Alpha.

Here is our "math" shark! We admit he is small, but all Mathematic Club members will agree that he knows "a whole lot." When Harold makes a statement he sticks to it. But why shouldn't he? He is always right. An argument with Harold means your Waterloo.

"Look on the boy;
And let his manly face, which promiseth
Successful fortune, steel thy melting heart."

—Shakespeare.

Otto Bilz

A. A., Phi Alpha.

"Bilzie" is one of our firm supporters of all athletic contests, and can be heard if not seen. Otto, however, never had the ability of fixing up excuses for gym classes, but, in spite of that, he traveled the road of success very well. Otto's friends have always found him ready to help in everything, work or play. We are all proud to boast that Otto was a member of our class.

"A schoolboy's tale, the wonder of an hour."

—Byron.

William Bosworth

Phi Alpha, A. A.

"Billie" is one of the few "red heads" in the class. But that signifies nothing, for he is one of our jolliest. "Billie" is always ready for fun, and many mischievous pranks may be traced back to him. He does not get out of humor easily. He takes jokes on himself the way he wants his mischief to be taken, that is, in a friendly way. "Billie" does everything in that same spirit.

"In every deed of mischief he had a heart to resolve, a head to contrive, and a hand to execute."

—Gibbon.

John Boys

Phi Alpha.

"Johnnie" is the kind of boy who can do almost everything and always does his best. He loves the out-of-doors and knows all there is to know about camping. Then, he has a radio and spends much time with that. His school work never seems to trouble him, for he is apt in all his studies. He is another one of the unselfish, agreeable boys who are always ready and always willing.

"Example is more efficacious than precept."

—Johnson.

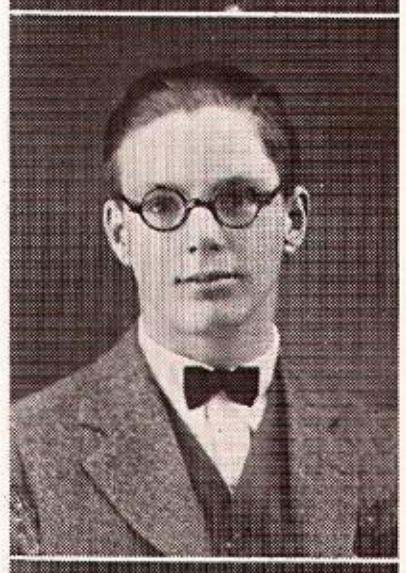
George Bresnahan

Phi Alpha.

Our class has many merrymakers, but George is at the top of them all. George's love for fun was displayed in class and in "53" many a time. You've heard of the "Big 3"? George is one of that famous trio. George has made many friends because of his happy-go-lucky ways. We'll always associate George with a good time.

"A bold, bad man."



Eliot Brooks

A. A., French, Math., Classical, Phi Alpha.

A quiet lad? No, not exactly; just an unassuming chap. He is one of the brightest boys in the class. Some people think that this is due to the fact that he has always been faithful and earnest in his school studies. But we all agree that it's an honor to be proud of. Then, he is a member of the swimming and tennis teams and has proven himself worthy of that membership.

"There is no substitute for thorough-going, ardent and sincere earnestness."—Dickens.

Robert Campbell

French, Math., Phi Alpha.

"Soup" acquired the name of "Senator" during the last semester. He unfailingly won any argument you cared to introduce, and will probably continue to do so. He could always be relied upon and was a staunch supporter of all school activities. When did he miss a dance or a school game?

"Strong reasons make strong actions."

—Shakespeare.

Robert Carroll

A. A., Math., Phi Alpha, Dramatic, S. C.

A few meagre words cannot express our appreciation for "Bob" Carroll. He deserves more praise than we are capable of giving him. During his high school years "Bob" has proved to us that he has ambition. He has made his "letters" in athletics for football and basketball. This year he was captain of our famous basketball team.

"To excel is to live."—Beranger.

Alexander Cathro

Phi Alpha.

See that streak flashing by? That's Alec going to class. He dashes through the halls as though he were being chased for skipping periods. Such is not the case, however, for "Alec" is stern and steadfast. Individuals such as "Alec the Crate" are never forgotten by their hosts of friends.

"Come and trip it as you go."—Milton.

Kenneth Chalmers

A. A., Math., Phi Alpha.

"Ken," perhaps, is not quite as well known as some of the others in the class. But he is just as friendly and just as good-natured as any. "Ken" never misses a social function, whether it is a club meeting or a dance. We all envy him his calmness and his even temper, and wish that we could be as contented as he.

"I would rather obey than work miracles."

—Luther.

Newman Clapp

A. A., Math., Phi Alpha.

Newman has gained the name of being a mathematical shark, and well does he deserve it. As president of the Mathematics Club he made that organization a great success this year. Newman doesn't say much and doesn't seem too boisterous. But Newman thinks and knows much, and the friends he has know that he has the qualities that make the best and dearest of friends.

"Great thoughts, like great deeds, need no trumpet."—Bailey.

Phi Alpha.

Warren loves to smile! It must be this that has gained him his many friends in H. H. S. He is always happy, always agreeable, always ready to follow another's lead. He likes his school and he likes his fun.

"You hear that boy laughing? You think he's all fun;
But the angels laugh, too, at the good he has done."

—Holmes.

Isadore Cohen

Phi Alpha, Spanish.

Here is the distinguished tackle of our football team! Football isn't the only activity "Izzy" enthuses over. He is a star member of the Spanish Club. He has also distinguished himself in another line. He is the only real "woman-hater" in the class of 2024. Will-power—we'll say!

"Men of few words are the best men!"

—Shakespeare.

James Crean

Phi Alpha.

"Icca" is our class president, a boy capable of holding the office if there ever was one capable. We elected "Icca" because he was bright, because he was a leader, and because he could set a good example. And he has fulfilled our expectations. The entire student body has found his decisions wise, his ever-noticeable influence good, his example worthy of being followed.

"The salutary influence of example."

—Johnson.

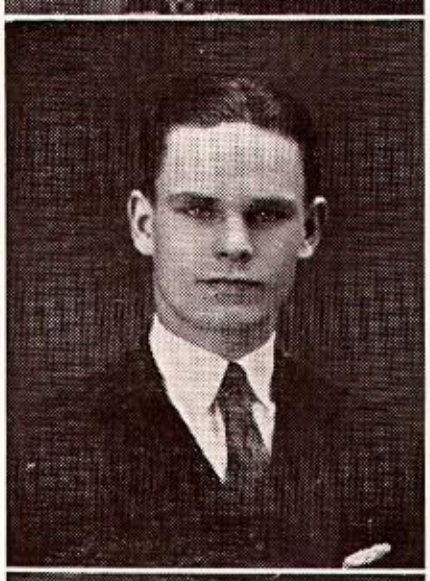
Ralph Day

Math., Phi Alpha.

Ralph doesn't believe in doing any more work than he has to. Though studies were always a bore to him, nevertheless he kept them up as best he could. But Ralph is a good sport. He is always ready to do his best to help others, as well as himself to have a good time. If he wants to do a thing, he will spend time and effort on it, until he finally has just what he wants.

"Why should life all labor be?"



Eugene Davis

A. A., Math., Phi Alpha, Dramatic.

It seems to be a hobby of "Gene's" to be in the center of things. He was center on our football team, and whenever you wanted him, you would usually find him in the center of an admiring group of girls. "Gene" is quite at home on the stage. He took part in the Dramatic Club play, which speaks well for his ability in that line, but we will never forget him as Orlando in "As You Like It."

"As good be out of the world as out of fashion."

—Cibber.

Paul Diliberto

Phi Alpha.

Paul is a quiet and studious chap who makes friends easily and keeps them more easily. The library was always his favorite haunt. This accounts for his great love for reading and his greater love for talking. Paul makes an interesting companion, for he always has the latest news to talk over.

"To those who know thee not, no words can paint!"—More.

Edward Doyle

Phi Alpha.

"Doylie" is one of those good-natured fellows everyone enjoys having around. True to the saying, his smile has gone a long, long way. "Doylie" is a man of few words, but many thoughts. His friends all respect the sterling qualities he possesses. You can't think of "Eddie" without realizing what a splendid chap he is.

"Can we ever have too much of a good thing?"
—Cervantes.

John E. Driscoll

A. A., French, Math., Phi Alpha.

Behold in John Driscoll one of the greatest orators of Holyoke High School. He is a speaker of note. He can defend himself in an argument or can play a Shakespearean rôle. He is also one of that illustrious club which delves into the mysteries of photography. Nothing remains a mystery to John, however.

"This was the noblest Roman of them all!"
—Shakespeare.

John Dwyer

A. A., Phi Alpha.

John has hustled so through his High School years that he has not given us enough time or opportunity to take good note of him. We know, however, that John was never forced to worry when those report cards came out. John is a safe and sure fellow who can find time for everything. He firmly believes that all great men must relax and play, consequently John's recreation hours are strictly observed.

"Too busy with the crowded hour to fear to live or die."—Emerson.

Alvah Eaton

A. A., Phi Alpha.

Alvah is a quiet sort of chap, but at times he is far from the state of calmness. His ready laugh and good-natured ways have secured many friends for him. Alvah has brightened up more than one tedious period, and our best wishes for the future are his.

"Better a good friend than silver or gold."
—Ges.

George Ellert

A. A., Phi Alpha.

Another one of our football men, George Ellert! George has been a great asset to the team. Yes, to the class. When George Ellert entered the class we knew he was a man to be depended upon and we regarded him as an asset. In truth, we have not been disappointed. He has lived up to all our expectations.

"We have an intuitive sense of our duty."
—Swift.

Oscar Felsentreger

A. A., Math., Phi Alpha.

The class of '24 will lose an all-around good fellow when "Osca" graduates. He is our class treasurer, and a good one at that. Not only is "Osca" a good financier, but he was on both the basketball and football teams. When Oscar is asked to do a thing, he does it quickly, and he does it well.

"A villain with a smiling cheek."

—Shakespeare.

William Fleming

A. A., Phi Alpha.

And now we come to "Bill" Fleming! "Bill" is noted for his splendid achievements on the swimming team. His presence on the team has been a great help in the victories which it has enjoyed. "Bill" is a jolly, good fellow, and we all admire him. His policy is to tend to his own affairs and to allow others to say what they will.

"What comes from this corner set it down as so much gain."—Terence.

Daniel Fogarty

A. A., Phi Alpha.

You all know "Dan" Fogarty. He is a very famous person. "Dan" was one of our football men, and also played on the basketball and baseball teams. "Dan" is not noisy, but he is well-known and well-liked by all '24. He has done much to make '24 the famous class that it is, and we appreciate his spirit in being ever-ready and anxious to participate in anything for which he is called upon.

"There's something more in this than meets the eye."—Shaw.

Felix Fournier

A. A., French, Classical, Phi Alpha.

Here is one of the best-natured, humorous boys, who is well-liked in our class He is full of life and very enthusiastic about all school affairs. The humorous side of his nature was shown at one of the last French Club meetings. Here he read some humorous poems in a very entertaining and amusing way. We all were surprised when we heard his clever imitation of the French dialect.

"Humor is the spice of kings' courts."

—Mandeville.

Paul Gallo

Phi Alpha.

Paul is a genuine good fellow, and always appreciates a good joke, no matter whom it is about. Paul can generally be found asking about English homework that F. B. hands out so nicely. Paul follows up all the games and gets inside the door, somehow or other. Paul has always been loyal to every school activity, and we feel sure he will be loyal to whatever profession he enters.

"His bark is worse than his bite."—Herbert.

Kenneth Gennett

A. A., Math., Phi Alpha.

"Kennie" knows more about varia couplers, etc., than any other fellow in the school. In spite of his great interest in this well-known hobby "Kennie" finds time to go to games and club entertainments. "Kennie" is a good sport and is well-liked by all his friends and associates.

"One science only will one genius fit,
So vast is art, so narrow human wit."
—Pope.

Meyer Glassman

Classical, French, Phi Alpha.

Let the "Harold Lloyd" boy be introduced. Although Meyer may not have "Harold's" pep, he can outshine him any day when it comes to a real grin. Meyer is apt to grin at everything. He grins at his studies; he even grins at his report cards. That's courage! Meyer has no enemies that we know of, for his grin is the best asset he has, when it comes to the friend-making business.

"Whistling and grinning, bear up your courage."
—Green.

Edmund Gloksin

Math, Phi Alpha.

"Ed" is one of Mr. Moriarty's "math sharks." Just watch him do a difficult problem in advanced algebra, if you don't believe it. "Ed" seems to be a quiet fellow, but, if you know him, you find him a true friend. He is a very sensible fellow and is interested in no one but himself. He is one of the few who realize the value of time, and "Ed" certainly makes the best of his opportunities.

"The master looks sharpest to his own business."

Harold Gold

A. A., French, Math., Phi Alpha.

Harold surely has ability in the scientific line. We expect that he will take the place of Steinmetz some day. Harold's favorite subject is radio, though once in a while he will discuss some great phenomena. Harold makes a good friend when you get to know him, and is ready to help you any time.

"Solitude is sometimes best society."
—Milton.

Maurice Gordon

A. A., French, Math., Phi Alpha.

Here's a chap who is full of fun and many strange antics. "Mosey" is very amusing and clever, but terribly "girl-shy." "Mosey" is a faithful student, and knows more than can be contained in a vest-pocket dictionary. Maurice is well-liked by all his classmates and can be called a true-blue friend.

"To make three guineas do the work of five."
—Burns.

Samuel Gordon

Math., Phi Alpha.

Sam is a great thinker and loves to discuss current problems or to explain some new inventions in science. But "Sam" is not all study. He believes in sport, too. He is a member of our track team—and a good one at that. So "Sam" upholds well both phases of school life.

"Knowledge advances by steps, and not by leaps."—Macaulay.

Gardner Gould

A. A., Phi Alpha.

"Gouldie" is a quiet and modest youth, but remember the old adage that "Still water runs deep." "Gouldie" is known to be a shark accountant under the supervision of "E. J." If he continues so successfully he will surely make a mark for himself in the business world. "Gouldie" has supported school activities, and possesses the ability of a scholar, and the character of a good fellow.

"His only fault is that he has no fault."

—Pliny.

Rosamond Grandchamp

A. A., Classical, Phi Alpha.

"Green" has always amused us by reciting stories or poetry in Canadian dialect. But that isn't the only thing he excels in. He is a star track man, winning his letter in that sport. It seems as if nothing could be complete without "Green" in it. He was one of our prophets, but he is better known to the school in the rôle of cheer leader.

"Enthusiasm is the intoxication of earnestness."

—La Martine.

Paul Hafey

A. A., French, Math., Classical, Phi Alpha.

We present one of the most popular and most admired fellows in our class. Paul has been on the Herald Board several years, and this year he was the business manager. Paul is also president of the French Club and has filled that position as well as all others he has tackled. Besides serving on dance committees and being a good scholar, Paul was the manager of our star football team last season.

"Never have I known a Senior of equal attainments."—Macaulay.

Leonard Hall

A. A., Math., Dramatics, Phi Alpha, S. C.

Who does not know "Lennie"? He is one of '24's best fellows. "Lennie" has been a leader in school activities throughout his famous career here. He was president of the Assembly during his Sophomore year, president of the Phi Alpha his Senior year, and also held sway over the Student Council.

"Almost to everything he could turn his hand."

—Shakespeare.

Abner Hertzmark

A. A., French, Math., Phi Alpha.

"Abby" is always pleasant and has a kind word for everyone. He believes in having fun, but he believes in work, too. When "Abby" is in class he settles down to business, and he does his work thoroughly. When he is driving his car, his thoughts are miles away from the classroom. He is always in a hurry, and has been called one of the class hustlers.

"Though I am always in haste, I am never in a hurry."—Wesley.

Carl Holmes

A. A., Phi Alpha.

Carl is another one of our accountants, but certainly has time to take part in games and dances. He is quite a boy amongst the fair sex, and the "combo" of Carl and the old Ford can't be beaten. Carl's greatest pleasures are riding and being the leading man in plays. We shall not worry, for Carl can take care of himself.

"A lion among ladies is a dreadful thing."

—Shakespeare.

Homer Hotin

Phi Alpha.

Homer is not a "sheik," but, whoopee—he's a good scout. That's what all his friends say, and he has many. Business is business with Homer, but he never fails to be on deck for a good time. Homer's spare hours are not given over to any young lady, but spent in the woods hunting and fishing like a regular old-timer.

"He is the very pineapple of politeness."

—Sheridan.

Everett Howes

A. A., Phi Alpha.

"Evvy" is one of these slow-moving kind. He takes pains with all his work, and his very speech makes one think that he has weighed his words before uttering them. "Evvy" is a very determined young man and generally gets what he wants.

"Silence is deep as eternity; speech is shallow as time."—Carlyle.

William Hutchins

A. A., Math., Phi Alpha.

"Hutchy" is one of the few who, although small, have great minds. He has always been persistent in his studies or in anything else he tries to do. He will stop any time to joke and be jolly, because a good nature is one of his likeable traits. As a baseball, football and basketball fan "Hutchy" cannot be beaten.

"It is a friendly heart that has plenty of friends."—Thackeray.

Ralph Hynes

Math., Phi Alpha.

Added to the ranks of our loyal members is Ralph Hynes. His excellent interpretation of the banished Duke in "As You Like It" proved that he possesses extraordinary ability in this line, which we had not recognized before. Ralph is a great favorite among his classmates. He has that personality that tends to attract people and any gathering is happy to have Ralph.

"Nothing great was achieved without enthusiasm."—Emerson.

Robert Ironside

Phi Alpha.

"Copper" is one of our midget members. He may be small in length and width, but he surely has a keen mind. There is no question about it, "Copper" is witty. That's why he was elected one of our prophets. We can't recall a time when "Copper" was grouchy. He came to school with a cheery "Hello," and retained his good nature throughout the day.

"Genuine and innocent wit is surely the very flavor of the mind."—Harvey.

Paul Jed

A. A., French, Phi Alpha.

Paul is another one who is interested only in his own work. He is very industrious and is always looking to find out something new. But Paul is not the kind who is content with just finding out something; he wants the full particulars. That is what makes Paul such a good scholar. What he learns, he learns well.

"Look what a little vain dust we are!"

—Addison.

Nathan Kaplinsky

A. A., Phi Alpha.

"Kap" cannot be considered as one of our boisterous chaps, but he is well-liked by his many friends. He tends strictly to business, but usually finds time to attend the games. We were proud to have you in our overflowing ranks, "Kap," and the class of 1924 wishes you the best of luck when you launch forth into the business world.

"My thoughts are my companions."

—Longfellow.

Dwight Keeney

A. A., Math., Phi Alpha.

Our cornetist! Anything about cornets and music interests Dwight. He is in our school orchestra and can play anything from classical music to the latest jazz. He's not satisfied with blowing around school, but at camp in the summer he put the fellows to sleep with the melody of his cornet, and then wakes them up with it.

"Of all the arts, music is the art
To raise the soul above all heavenly storms."

—Leland.

Francis King

A. A., French, Math., Phi Alpha.

"Frank" has made himself famous for many things during his course in H. H. S. Not only was he chairman of the committee which conducted the most successful dance Le Cercle Francais has ever run, but he has also shown himself to have no mean intellect regarding the sciences. "Frank" has the best personality of any boy we know.

"Frank by name, and frank by nature."

—Anon.

William Kisiel

A. A., Math., Phi Alpha.

Although "Bill" is not the most prominent member of the class, yet he unknowingly contributes much to it. His patience, persistence and faithfulness have often guided others to better work. The fellows have found him a good friend and a willing sharer in their joys. He appreciates good fun as much as the rest of them, although, perhaps, he does not show it so much.

"Whatever is worth doing at all is worth doing well."—Chesterfield.

Franklin Knight

French, Math., Classical, Phi Alpha.

We all expect Franklin to be hailed in the near future as the greatest violinist of the day. The few occasions when Franklin has played in auditorium have convinced us of his wonderful talent. We know that Franklin did not apply himself to his studies with the same zeal he showed toward his music, but then, he is a very successful survivor.

"Cunning in music."—Shakespeare.

Edward Lenz

A. A., Phi Alpha.

Who doesn't know "Eddie" Lenz? If you don't know him you've at least heard of him. "Eddie" entered the "Hall of Fame" this year by pitching a no-hit, no-run game against Chicopee. Besides being a star pitcher, "Eddie" is a good all-round fellow.

"Here is one who entered the Hall of Fame
By pitching a no-hit, no-run game."

—Donahue.

Robert LePoer

A. A., French, Math., Phi Alpha.

"Bob" might be small, but no one was big enough to keep him off the football team. "Bob" surely did win fame as a halfback on that squad. His athletic ability isn't his only good quality, for he is one of our best-natured boys. No one ever saw him without being impressed by his continued cheerfulness. Then, too, "Bob" has graciously entertained our clubs by rendering solos and imitating birds and animals.

"Earnestness and sport are often neighbors."

Thomas LePoer

A. A., French, Phi Alpha.

Unless you know "Tommy" you think that he is quiet. But not so! "Tommy" is always ready for a joke and is quite capable himself of expressing choice bits of wittiness. As a member of the soccer team, he showed how he could stand loyal to H. H. S.

"It is a good thing to be rich and a good thing to be strong, but it is better to be beloved of many friends."

Reuben Lipschitz

A. A., French, Math., Phi Alpha.

Reuben is one of the fellows who don't care what others think about them. In fact, Reuben doesn't seem to have any worries or troubles. He is always smiling and enjoying himself to the utmost. He is very persevering and does his very best in all his work. Whatever the class does Reuben does, and he always makes himself agreeable and is well-liked by all the class.

"The sunshine of life is made of very little beams that are bright all the time."—Aiken.

Elmer Lussier

Elmer is noted throughout the school for his ability as a pianist. He has been very liberal with his playing, and has favored us in class, club and assembly exercises. His playing is the envy of many. Elmer's light hair, his nationality and his height are the only things that make him differ from the well-known Polish pianist, Paderewski.

"The perfection of art is to conceal art."

—Quintilian.

Arthur Lynch

A. A., French, Math., Phi Alpha.

Arthur is not a piper—though his nickname implies him as such. A lot of credit is due "Piper" in that he was manager of the only team that didn't face defeat this season—the soccer team. They say that redheads are blessed with a quick temper, but not so with "Piper." Indeed, it is quite the contrary. "Piper" has countless friends, but not an enemy.

"Never idle a moment, but thrifty and thoughtful of others."—Longfellow.

Donald McIntyre

A. A., Phi Alpha.

"Mac" surely makes his mark with the ladies. Said one in particular: "Did you know that blondes traveled together?" "Mac", however, finds time to devote himself to many school activities. The swimming team has cherished his presence, and the soccer team, also, has been aided by his help. "Mac" has won a host of friends during his school life.

"Continental cheerfulness is a sign of wisdom."

—Anon.

Harold Maggi

A. A., Phi Alpha.

Harold is not a studious fellow, but cares more—cares only—for the gayer pursuits. At every school dance, and at every game, football, basketball and baseball, he is positively sure to be either an interested spectator or a hearty participator. Then, too, Harold is a true collegiate, both in dress and manner. Nothing ever worries him.

"Ah, why should life all labor be?"

—Tennyson.

James Mahoney

A. A., French, Phi Alpha.

Popular? Well, we should say so. Everyone knows "Jimmy" to be our jolliest and best-natured boy. Many a dull, long period has been brightened up by his presence. "Jim" never cared much about studies, but always was Johnny-on-the-spot for a good time. "Jimmy" is one of our best-dressed boys, and, when in his car, he looks—well, rather "keen."

"There's the humor of it."—Shakespeare.

Roland Majeau

A. A., French, Phi Alpha.

Roland is one of our athletically-inclined members. The Track Team has been ably supported by him. If Holyoke High had a tennis team we feel sure that Roland would be one of the best on it. Roland is rather quiet, but who knows? During the winter months Roland displays his remarkable skill on runners on one of the city skating rinks.

"None but himself can be his parallel."

—Theobald.

Max Margolis

Phi Alpha.

Max is known for his strong arguments and equally strong convictions. More than one teacher has agreed with Max's theories. Max has been one of our best soccer men, securing his letter in that sport. He has also supported other school activities equally well. We wish him as much success after June, 1924, as in the preceding years of our association with him.

"He will succeed; for he believes all he says."

—Mirabeau.

Morris Margolis

A. A., French, Phi Alpha.

Morris is a quiet boy, but a very earnest student. He believes strongly in "Duty first, play afterwards," and, as a consequence, always has his homework done and done to the best of his ability. Beneath his calm, quiet, self-possessed exterior, Morris is very active—an active supporter of his school, of his clubs—a participator in every school activity.

"The path of duty was the way to glory."

—Tennyson.

Robert Margolis

Phi Alpha.

"Bob" is one of those slow, easy-going kind that takes life as it comes and says nothing. None of the teachers were ever able to impress "Bob" with their authority. Though he never seems to hurry, he has the faculty of finishing everything he starts.

"Never leave that till tomorrow which you can do today."—Ben Franklin.

Walter Marx

A. A., Math., Phi Alpha.

"Marxie" is one of our all-around fellows. Besides being an athlete, for he made his letter in football, he is quite a master of the pen. His literary work has appeared time and again in "The Herald." It was none other than Walter who walked off with the prize story contest in his Junior year. The best of luck and good wishes go forth with you, Walter.

"The world belongs to the energetic."

—Emerson.

Richard Mason

A. A., French, Math., Phi Alpha.

Look at that grin and form your own opinion of his personality. "Dick's" disposition is just as cheerful as his smile. He is small, to be sure, but wait until you hear his voice. "Dick" sends forth a loud, clear voice, which is really surprising. He has taken part in the prize-speaking contests and has always been able to put his speech "across."

"I'll speak in monstrous little voice."

—Shakespeare.

Edward McGowan

Phi Alpha.

McGowan is one of our real clever classmates and not the "bluff" type either. We all respect and admire his judgment, for what he says is true and to the point. McGowan was a ready contributor to all class arguments. He could argue and discuss the newest scientific discovery or a history topic.

"Talk to him of Jacob's ladder and he would ask the number of steps."—Jerrold.

Robert McGuiness

A. A., Phi Alpha.

Here is good-natured "big Bob" McGuiness! "Bob" is so good-natured we are afraid he will be imposed upon. He believes that life has no serious or sad element in it. We can say this for him—he is one of the few who can almost make us believe this is so. "Bob" is really a dispeller of grief. His sunny good nature has won him many friends.

"Begone, dull care! Thou and I shall never agree!"—Playford.

William Minkley

Phi Alpha.

Bill is one of those cheerful, good-natured chaps we enjoy being with. His smile and wavy hair (didn't cost $25, either) have attracted many. The weaker sex, also! "Bill", in spare hours, gets poetic about his Chandler, but it's worth while, we'll say. As for cutting up sentences for diagraming! He's the leading surgeon! Farewell, "Bill," and good luck from all.

"Man is more then constitutions."—Whittier

Thomas Miner

A. A., French, Math., Phi Alpha.

Although "Tom" is quiet, he is a real friend. He always fits in a crowd and is willing to do whatever he is asked. Many is the time when he has come to the rescue with his little Ford. "Tom's" special delight is math—math in any form, whether it may be algebra, geometry or even trig. He loves to tackle problems no one else can do, and "Tom" generally succeeds in solving them.

"Fortitude is the marshal of thought, the armor of the will and the foot of reason."—Bacon.

Henry Moggio

French, Math., Phi Alpha.

Henry is one of the fastest men in the school, winning his letter in track. But he never takes anything for granted. He wants proof. For this reason he makes a fine mathematician, and always takes part in the meetings of the Mathematics Club. Henry is popular among the fellows.

"Who does the best his circumstances allows, Does well, acts nobly; angels could no more."
—Young.

Philip Mondor

A. A., French, Phi Alpha.

"Phil" is another quiet fellow. He goes around in his quiet way, yet he has a host of friends. He is always ready to be of some help to some fellow, and what he does he does willingly. "Phil" never loses his grin—though many people are cheered by it and take it for their own. Would that we all were as happy as "Phil"!

"A good laugh is sunshine in a house."
—Thackeray.

Thomas Moriarty

Phi Alpha.

"Tom" is one of our most amiable and best-natured boys He is one of our quiet but clever members who says what he means when he means it. By this we mean that "Tom" is frank. He has the strength of his convictions, and they are strong enough to give him firm support. That is why we like "Tom" There is something straight and "honest-to goodness" about him that must be admired.

"Armed so strong in honesty."—Shakespeare.

Thomas Morrison

A. A., French, Phi Alpha.

"Tommy" has too many outstanding qualities to name here. He is known as the champion diver of H. H. S., and anyone who has seen "Tommy" poised for a swan dive knows how strikingly he resembles Apollo. "Tommy's" prowess in tennis made him the captain of that team, and we might add that he was the champion in that sport, also.

"Stand firm, don't flutter."—Franklin.

Stanley Myers

Phi Alpha.

And here we have a very quiet young man. We have not heard much of Stanley Myers during our years at H. H. S. Nevertheless, "Stan" is right with us, and those who know him consider him a good scout. He is very ambitious, and his aim is to "get ahead." We know this to be true by the manner in which he tackled his studies. Nineteen hundred and twenty-four is proud to have members like "Stan" Myers.

"The heart to conceive and the hand to execute."

—Anon.

Bernard Niemiro

A. A., French, Phi Alpha.

Bernard has worked quietly, and has accomplished much in H. H. S. He is one of those boys who can teach us all a lesson. His energy, vitality, patience and perseverance have won him a safe and secure scholastic standing, envied by many. We hear no empty words from Bernard! He doesn't say much, but when he does say anything it is worth listening to.

"Perseverance is more prevailing than violence."

—Plutarch.

Carl Niesner

A. A., Phi Alpha.

This fair-headed youth is none other than Carl, a famous fellow for everything that implies hard work. Problems come and go, and yet Carl remains victor. Don't think that Carl grinds away! No sir, come easy, go easy! Some of his friends have christened him "sheik." Well, you never can tell! Good luck, Carl.

"There's no theme more plentiful to scan
Than is the glorious goodly frame of man."

—DuBartas.

Knowlton Oberlander

Phi Alpha.

"Obbie" is what most people would call a popular young man. He is full of zest and good humor, and certainly enjoys a "good time." But this does not prevent him from being a very studious individual and a good scholar. "Obbie" has always pulled through with fine marks.

"His studious determination gave him strength to win the day."—Clough.

Daniel O'Connell

A. A., Math., Phi Alpha.

Here is one of our football heroes, grinning, of course. Even the lack of a few molars, lost in one of the rushes, cannot prevent that rolling grin from stealing over "Dan's" freckles. School has written no wrinkles on his azure brow. He is a rather happy-go-lucky fellow, in spite of all pleadings to settle down to business.

"A man may smile and smile, and still be a villain."—Shakespeare.

Edwin Osgood

A. A., Phi Alpha.

"Buttry" is one of the fellows in the class whom you always like to see around. He is always neat in his attire and on his face there is a broad grin. Good-naturedness and willingness are something that we all want. "Buttry" has them, and much more besides. He has been active in his various clubs and has been a loyal rooter for all our teams.

"Care to our coffin adds a nail, no doubt,
And every grin so merry draws one out."
—Wolcot.

Armand Paperno

A. A., Phi Alpha.

Here is a sly, little fox, but "Whitey's" disposition has made many friends. His prominence among the "fair ladies" was established in F. B.'s third hour class. It's great to be a sheik, boys! Well, never mind "Whitey," there are many who would gladly exchange places.

"Facts are stubborn things."—LeSage.

Harold Peterson

Phi Alpha.

Harold is small, but his deeds may be called great. He is a member of a champion Achievement Club and is quite proud of the fact. Harold has divided his time between school and his achievement work, and he has made a success of both. He has the qualities which make one successful. He is ambitious, willing, patient, and not afraid of work.

"Far from the maddening crowd's ignoble strife."—Gray.

Edward Pratt

A. A., Phi Alpha.

Mr. Reader, Mr. Pratt! Yes, this is "Eddie," the fellow who likes to have a good time. Any place, anywhere, any time! He acquired much fame as the originator of "Tripp's Accountants." They surely were a credit to him. Never mind, "Ed", better days are coming, and we all wish you luck.

"Hold the fort! I'm coming!"—Sherman.

John Prendergast

A. A., Phi Alpha.

John is our most sober, sedate and serious Senior. He has always assumed his grown-up attitude in school hours, but we doubt if he does at other times. It must be admitted that, at times, he does lose his serious manner. He is just like the rest of us then—ready for anything. John is somewhat of a mystery, however; a difficult one, at that.

"A wise man never loses anything, if he has himself."—Montaigne.

Allan Prentiss

Math., Phi Alpha, Dramatic.

"Al" is one of our cheerful, witty fellows. Did you ever see him without his smile? Though "Al" seems to all of us to be happy-go-lucky, he always succeeds in what he undertakes. But his special hobby is mechanical drawing, and we know from the '24 seal in "53" that "Al" well deserves the name of artist.

"Fie! What a spendthrift he is with his tongue!"—Shakespeare.

Sidney Preston

A. A., Math., Phi Alpha.

Here's one truth about "Sid". You have to look up to him. "Sid" is one of our giants—and a good-natured one, too. His motto is, "Smile and be happy," and he certainly lives up to it. He is very much interested in science and, if you want to know anything in that line, just ask him. He never lacks for friends and is most popular among the fellows.

"A true friend is forever a friend."

—MacDonald.

Howard Pringle

Math., Phi Alpha.

Howard is one of the long, lanky men of the class and hails from the far-off corners of Holyoke. Is he popular? Foolish question number 8,475. Howard has many friends and secures them by two methods. They are, first, Howard Pringle, and, second, his car. Eh, what! No fair telling secrets!

"Society is the master and man the servant."

—Sala.

Kenneth Riley

A. A., Phi Alpha.

"Kenny" is not one of the type of Mr. Stryver. Because he seems so quiet and moves his own gait, paying little attention to anyone, he is sometimes in the background. But "Kenny" is well-liked by all the members of '24, and especially by his close friends. He is one of the few who can take a sarcastic remark good-naturedly, and that's why we like him.

"Behavior is like a mirror in which everyone shows his image."—Goethe.

George Rogow

A. A., Art, Phi Alpha.

Who is that fellow shouting over there? Oh, that's "Yak" Rogow. "Yak" gained his distinction when he took the entire student body and faculty on a trip to Europe to see some of the beautiful paintings of the old masters. We might have gone to Europe, but we didn't leave the auditorium. George is quite an artist.

"Follow your honest convictions and be strong."
—Thackeray.

James Ross

A. A., Phi Alpha.

"Jim" is a quiet individual, not saying much, but just speaking when necessary. He was always efficient in his studies, and he may be considered as a quiet, but not timid individual. Those who know him well know that he loves a good time, and can appreciate a joke as much as the rest. "Jim" takes active part in all of the school clubs, especially in the Phi Alpha.

"Good humor is the clear, blue sky of the soul."
—Saunders.

Harold Roy

A. A., Math., Phi Alpha, Dramatic.

Dance? Did you say dance? Why, that's "Chappie" all over. No dance would be complete without "Chappie's" doing the latest step. Then, too, he is one of our loyal rooters, even acting in the rôle of cheer leader. He's an actor as well, gaining distinction as a member of the Dramatic Club. As business manager of that, he showed himself well capable of making the play successful as far as money went.

"All the world loves a lover."

Walter Ruckdeschel

A. A., Phi Alpha, Spanish.

There is no reason in the world for introducing "Rucky." He is ever welcome in any group, and he certainly can play "jazz" on almost any instrument. "Rucky" is quite clever at acting, too. He has taken part in our class plays, and proved his skill at this art to the enjoyment of all present. "Rucky's" car has also come in handy at many school functions.

"There's the humor of it."—Shakespeare.

Richard Ruppert

A. A., French, Math., Phi Alpha.

"Dick" is one of our midgets. He may be small, but you always know when he is around, because he is always up to some trick or other. "Dick" takes a keen delight in twisting words so that you hardly know what he is talking about. But "Dick" is always pleasant and can entertain anyone at any time.

"He who is good, is happy."—Habbington.

Jonas Saltman

A. A., French, Classical, Phi Alpha.

Here is the star Virgil pupil! There was never a time when Jonas could not reel off lines of the Aeneid or of Ovid. We all envied his ability in mastering the hardest of all languages. And Jonas does not keep what he knows to himself, but he is perfectly willing to impart it to others, if they want it.

"Then on! Then on! where duty leads,
My course be onward still."

—Heber.

Arthur Smith

A. A., Phi Alpha.

Arthur is one of our unassuming classmates. Those who are his friends know what a good friend he is. Once you know him, he will do anything for you and with a graciousness and willingness common to few people. He has been faithful in all his work and when he says he'll do a thing, he does it. In short, "Art" is one of the fellows who says little, but does much.

"Silence is the mother of the truth."

—Beaconsfield.

Clement Sparrow

A. A., Art, Phi Alpha.

Clement is president of the Art Club, and a very efficient one. The clever drawings in this book are Clement's productions. We all appreciate his talent so much we elected him "class artist," which is, indeed, an honor. "Clem" is not the "Bohemian" type, however. He enjoys a joke as well as the rest of us, and can always contribute his share to the general amusement.

"No legacy is as rich as honesty."

—Shakespeare.

Abraham Stein

A. A., Phi Alpha.

"Abe" is a fellow we all like. He always has time to stop for a chat and to joke with his many friends. "Abe" takes his studies just casually, but he always succeeds in passing them. Nothing seems to bother him. He takes things as they come and he claims that that is why he is so good-natured. We are all glad that we can count "Abe" as one of us.

"There is no need of words; believe facts."

—Ovid.

William Walkov

A. A., Phi Alpha, Spanish.

Hurrah for "Willie"! William is our star basketball player, and has helped win for Holyoke so many basketball games this year. Indeed, our quintet could not do without Walkov, who makes more baskets than any of the others. Some athletes put all of their time and strength into athletics, but someone has said, and said wisely,

"He is a second Hercules."—Themistocles.

Sawyer Wallace

A. A., Phi Alpha.

Speaking of "live wires"—here's "Cy" Wallace. "Cy" is one of those "do or die" individuals. Anything that "Cy" undertakes is sure to be a success. He has a pleasant manner, which is lacking in so many people. Much credit is due "Cy" for his willingness to lend a hand wherever his services may be required. He is just the kind of a person that makes a class successful.

"His only fault is that he has no fault."

—Pliny.

Abraham Wiener

Phi Alpha, A. A.

Wherever "Wiener" is there is sure to be some fun. We have the belief that even at a funeral he would have us laughing. "Abe" could always stand up and argue, whether he knew what he was talking about or not. Many a weary period was brightened up by his cheery countenance. We'll all remember him as a jolly fellow, ready for a good time or some mischievous prank.

"Youthful jest and jollity."—Milton.

Karol Zielinski

A. A., Math., Classical, Phi Alpha.

Being on the soccer team wasn't the only kick "Zeke" got at Holyoke High. He has proven himself to be one of the greatest favorites of the class. "Zeke" fits in any place, but he is at his best when gliding over the range during our romantic winter evenings. He is a loyal supporter of all school activities, and has the school spirit which we all admire.

"It is not what he has, nor even what he does which directly expresses the worth of a man, but what he is."—Amiel.

John Daly

Phi Alpha.

We shall now introduce John Daly. Oh, we know that no introduction is needed, as you all know him. Yes, John has been quite popular during his High School career, and his host of friends think him a real sport. He has loyally supported all our teams and our school clubs. He has a sunny disposition and always sees the cheerful side of everything. We need members like John.

"Here's metal more attractive."

—Shakespeare.

Edgar Fleury

A. A., French, Phi Alpha.

Edgar was a quiet chap whom we all liked and appreciated as a friend. His patience and unruffled disposition made him one of our favorites, although a quiet one. We were all sorry that Edgar was obliged to leave us so early in his Senior year, but time has not allowed us to forget him. He made a valuable member of our class, and we all realize his true worth.

"They are never alone who are accompanied with noble thoughts."—Sidney.

Carl Lunn

A. A., Phi Alpha, Spanish.

Here is the captain of our swimming team! 'Tis he who has carried that squad to victory, who has made a name for Holyoke in that sport. He is a fast swimmer and has never failed to win the laurels in the dashes. But that is not all. Carl knows how to make friends and friends that are faithful and true. His jokes and mischief-making only make his friends appreciate his wit and cleverness the more. Carl has always stood high in his studies, and we consider him a good, all-round student.

"The victory of endurance born."—Bryant.

In Memoriam

We, as a class, experienced our first sorrow when Charles Koehler, after having completed his Junior year, passed from our midst. Charles was one of our most loyal and true members, who could be depended upon for service of any sort. His host of friends knew and honored his sterling character. Ever since he has gone, we realize our strong ties of friendship and sincerely mourn his loss.

"In death a hero, as in life a friend."—Pope.

PHI ALPHA

Phi Alpha

GEORGE DEAN, '25.

WHEN the Phi Alpha met for the first time this year, it started with a great desire to equal, if not surpass, the great work done previously by the society. All members showed great enthusiasm and as a result, there were many amusing, instructive, and enjoyable meetings.

The officers of the year were: Leonard Hall, President; George Dean, Secretary. The program committee was composed of Thomas Morrison who acted as chairman, Rosamond Grandchamp, and Casper Ranger.

The programs consisted mainly of talks on school life and debates on important current events. One of our programs was so good that it was presented before the school with decided success.

Many thanks are due to Mr. Arthur J. McDonald, Faculty Director of the Phi Alpha, for the unselfish manner in which he gave his time to the promotion of debates and talks. Under his guidance, the Phi Alpha of 1923-24 has followed in the footsteps of its predecessors and has upheld all that the society stands for. Let us hope that our successors will be as successful as we have been.

ROUND THE TABLE

Round the Table

RUTH JAGGER, '26.

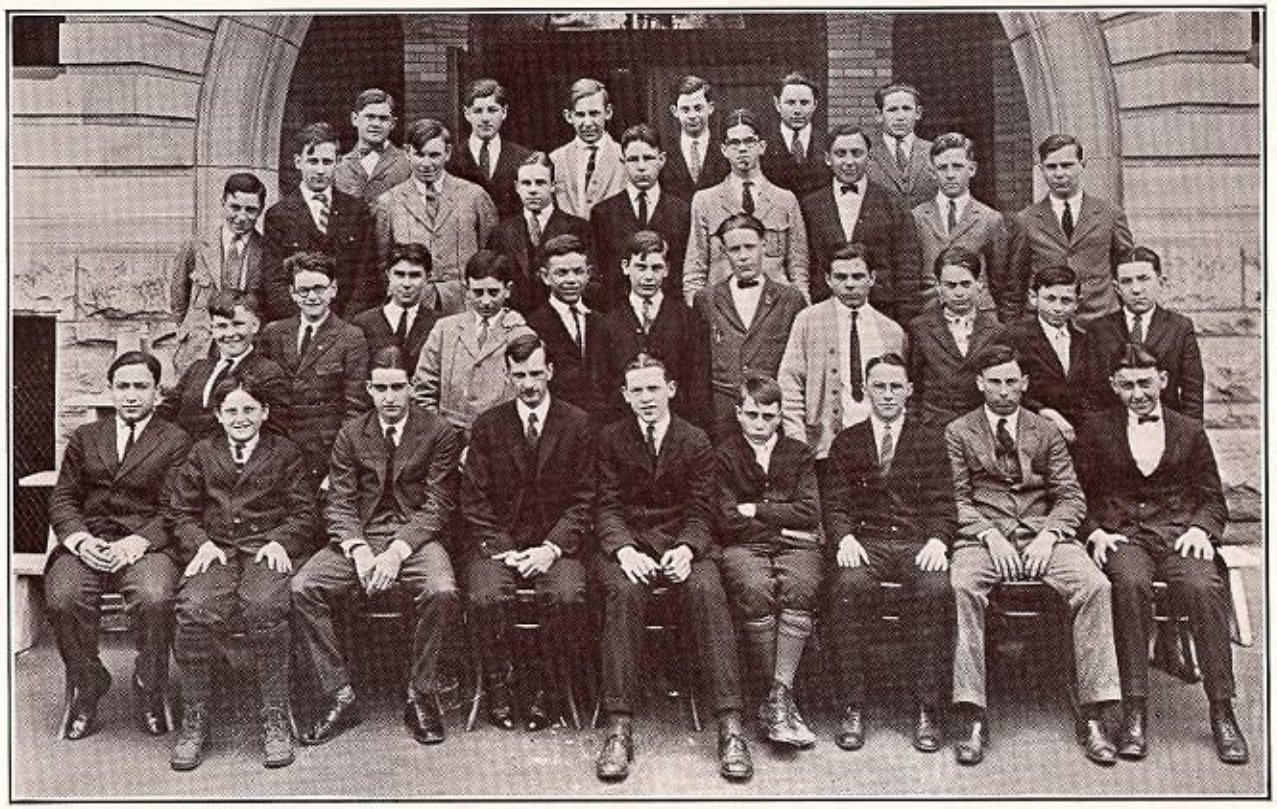
CERTAINLY, this has been a profitable year for the Round the Table Club. As always, the chief aim of the members has been to enjoy good literature in a sociable, informal way. However, the girls have not neglected the call of youth for a really good time.

The programs of the different meetings have been unusually good so that every member has tried to be present lest she miss a real treat. At our first meeting, the Senior girls who had been members of the Round the Table Club during their sophomore year entertained us. At our next meeting, former members of the club, now Juniors, donned the garb of Pilgrims and provided a program adapted to the Thanksgiving season. The members of Miss McGrath's classes next took charge of the meeting and strengthened our interest in Robert Browning with a program devoted entirely to his works. Miss Spencer's girls proved to be worthy vaudeville stars. The girls from Miss Delaney's class directed a fine recital of modern poems. Miss Dunn's girls pleased us especially with their performance of "The Poetry Club", an original play by Sonia Soltz.

The red-letter day came March 28, when the Round the Table Club entertained the entire school with an unusual program. Eleven members contested in the auditorium for two prizes to be given those whom the judges decided read poetry best. The poems delivered were all the works of contemporary writers, and really enjoyable. Hildegarde Newton received the first prize for her able interpretation of Robert Service's "Carry On". Eleanor Whiting took second honors for her scholarly delivery of Vachel Lindsay's "Abraham Lincoln Walks at Midnight". The school seemed well pleased with the entire program and the decision of the judges.

To end the festivities of the year, a gay masquerade was enjoyed on May 20. All girls who have ever been members of the Round the Table Club were invited.

To Miss Delaney, director of the organization, is due our success. We wish to express our appreciation and gratitude for her inspiration and enthusiasm in all the club activities.



THE ASSEMBLY

The Assembly

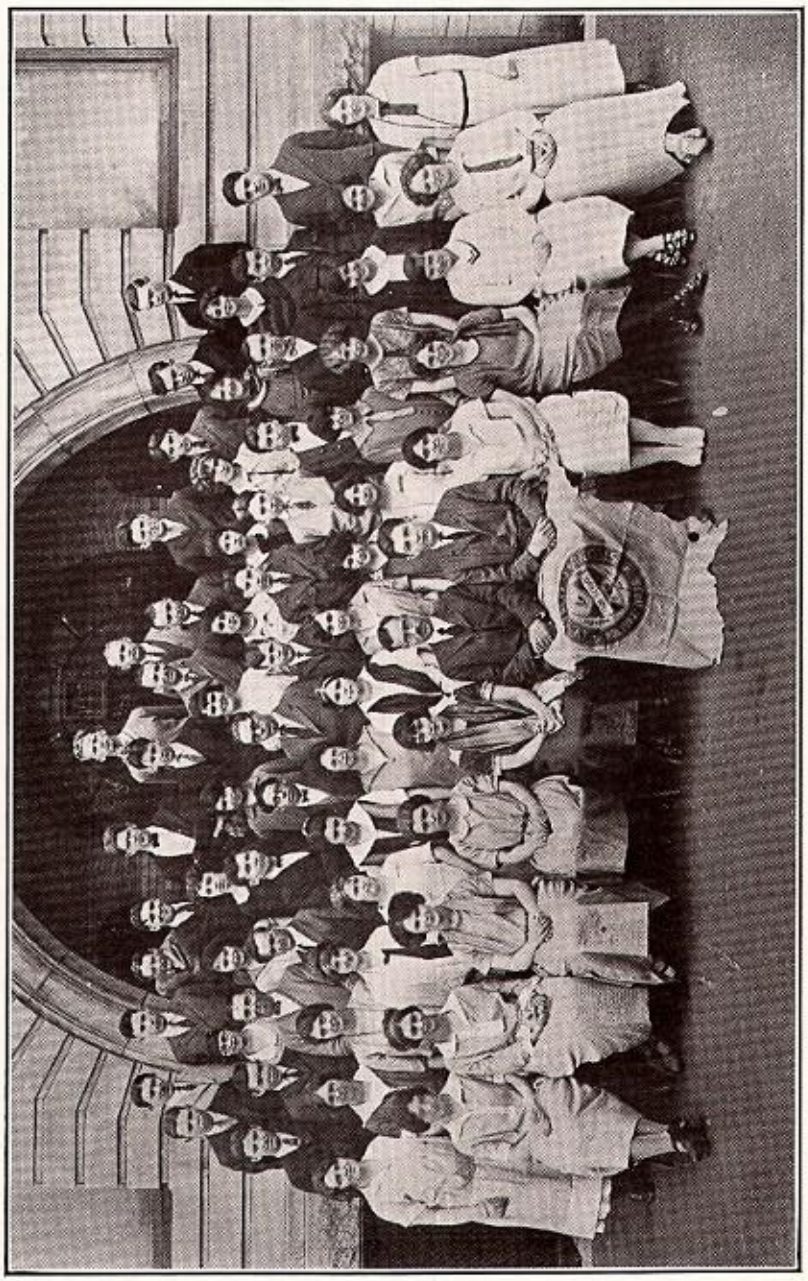
NORMAN DASH.

THE year 1923-1924 may well be called a successful year for the Assembly. Since the membership is limited to fifty, the club has quality rather than quantity.

Much of the success of the Assembly is due to the advisor, Mr. Sanford. He has helped make the plays and debates of the year most interesting.

The officers were: Edward Geran, President; Joseph Shea, Vice-President; Norman Dash, Clerk; Edward Harrington, Assistant Clerk; Stewart Williamson, Treasurer; James Doody, James O'Connor, and James Herlihy, Executive Committee; David Smith, and Henry Ouillette, Doorkeepers.

The meetings have been well attended by the members. The debate which was held before the school was a great success as every person knows who had the pleasure of listening to it. The subject was "Resolved That Holyoke Should Have A Junior College." By this debate it was made clear that the city has need of a Junior College at Holyoke High School.



THE FRENCH CLUB

The French Club

HILDA DONAHUE.

YEARS ago, when it was first organized, Le Cercle Francais was one of the smallest of our school clubs. At the opening of this school year, however, the number of pupils studying French and wishing to be members of the club was so large that the membership was restricted to students of French III and IV. With this selected group of pupils who understood fairly difficult French, many interesting and instructive meetings were conducted during the school year, 1923-1924.

The new custom of allowing each club to present a program in place of the usual Friday morning auditorium exercises gave Le Cercle Francais the opportunity to present before the entire school the French play "Jeanne D'Arc". Claire Bradley as Jeanne D'Arc and William Millane as Charles VII contributed much to the success of the play.

Our regular meetings have been as varied as they were interesting. At one meeting "L'Initiation" a playlet showing the procedure of a typical French Club and the initiation of new members was presented. Other programs have consisted of short French playlets, music, and current events talks.

The success of the club has been due, in large measure, to the inspiration and direction of Mr. Mitchell, our faculty advisor, whose efforts the club has deeply appreciated.

The officers of Le Cercle Francais are:

Paul Hafey, '24, President; Claire Bradley, '25, Vice President; James Mahoney, '24, Treasurer; Hilda C. Donahue, '24, Secretary.

CLASSICAL CLUB

The Classical Club

ENID WHITMORE.

THE Classical Club, although inferior in quantity to other High School Clubs, is by no means inferior in quality. All of its members are loyal Latin or Greek students who join the club to learn more of the stimulating side of the study of the classics.

This year has certainly been as successful and happy a year as the Classical Club has had. All have enjoyed every meeting to the utmost, and we are especially grateful to Miss Allen, who has originated the ideas for our programs. The first meeting, held in September, proved very interesting to each individual member. After the usual solemn rites, the burning of the sacred fire, and the taking of the omens in Latin, Eleanor Kohler read in Latin our fortunes according to an old Roman Horoscope. Besides entertaining us, these fortunes gave us fine ideals to which to live up.

Another very enjoyable program was presented at the December meeting, when we celebrated the "Saturnalia," an old Roman holiday, which came about the time of our Christmas. Several members read sketches of the celebration of the holiday, showing how similar it was to our Christmas. Some of these were humorous as well as instructive. Then Gertrude Kelly, crowned with the laurel wreath, led us in singing "Gaudeamus Igitur," "Adeste Fideles," and other Latin songs. After the meeting, Miss Allen distributed a red candle to each one, which we were to burn on Christmas Eve as in the Roman holiday.

The most important meeting of the whole year, however, was the one given before the school on February 15. Elliott Brooks, who presided, read from the Bible St. Paul's call to Heavenly Armor. The entire student body then sang "America" in Latin. There followed a very entertaining dialogue between a modern school boy and Caesar's ghost; the part being taken by John Dawson and Paul D'Amours of the Caesar class. Elizabeth Judd of the Cicero class, clad in a blue Roman gown, read in a charming manner a comparison of our school building with an old Roman house. Members of the Virgil Class gave the last number. Eleanor Kohler, in Greek costume, read the story of Odysseus, a portion of which was acted afterwards. Eight girls in flowing Greek costumes, danced a graceful Greek dance, and played a game of ball while singing a Latin song. The part of Odysseus, taken by John Chmardis, was well acted. This scene was greeted with great applause from the audience. We are grateful to Miss Allen for zealously preparing the program, to Miss Lynn for tirelessly training the girls in the dance, to Miss Dowd for generously making the costumes and to Miss Powers for fittingly staging the scenes.

This program is indicative of our success all the year; and we hand down to other Classical Clubs the sacred fire with the confidence that it will burn ever bright.

THE HERALD

The Herald

THE antecedent of the "Herald" was a leaflet called by the undignified name of "Our Little Pet" with the motto "Love me, love my Pet." This was first published in 1857, but it was kept up only a few years. For a while there was no school paper, then in 1896 "The Senior" appeared. The next year this paper was taken out of the hands of the Senior Class and given over to a board chosen from the whole school, the name being changed to the "Herald."

The Board in the twenty-ninth season of the "Herald," has tried to keep up to the standard set by those of former years. It has been our aim to make the stories lively, the athletics interesting, the reports accurate, the editorials expressive of the feelings of the school, and the jokes modern, if not always original. We have tried, and have in a measure, the "Herald" believes, succeeded. Since the number of pages was increased from twenty-four to twenty-eight, we have had an unusually large space to fill, and we must admit that the material was not always exactly what we would have liked. We have once or twice had a struggle—nay, a wild scramble to fill up the last page, so that the "Herald" might come out on time.

The student body, though a little reluctant to make voluntary contributions, has been found willing to help when asked. The Board has been very faithful, and Miss Fay, always ready with suggestions on one hand or the blue pencil on the other, has guided us safely over the path of journalism, so strange to us at the beginning of the year.

Publishing the school paper sometimes seems like hard work, we must admit, but the enjoyment out-weighs the trouble. It is really fun to feel that we have a responsibility, to hold Board meetings, to scramble around after material, and to try to find out what the pupils want, and to give it to them. We hope that next year's Board, to whom we now hand over our charge, will enjoy getting out the "Herald" as we have.

"As You Like It"

MARION WEBBER.

THE year, 1924, has been most successful in many ways, but the outstanding event was the presentation of Shakespeare's well-known comedy of "As You Like It" given by the Senior Class in "The History of the Drama" under the able guidance of Mr. Sanford.

May 15, 1924, will long be remembered as a stellar day in the annals of Holyoke High School. Two performances were given. In the afternoon the play was witnessed by a full house, and in the evening it was enjoyed by a packed house. Never before in recent years, has the auditorium of Holyoke High held such an audience. Long before the first strains of the orchestra were heard, people were hunting in vain for seats, and by the time the curtain went up all the doors were crowded with eager spectators.

Enough praise cannot be given for the entire performance. The stage was changed into the Forest of Arden where prettily costumed people, who had stepped right from the pages of the book, met and conversed in the style of the time.

The cast was well chosen and every one put himself into the character he was portraying. Miss Miriam Jones as "Rosalind" was charming as she skillfully drew the different emotions of the changeable Rosalind. "Orlando" was very well played by Mr. Eugene Davis. Miss Eleanor Kohler was one of the outstanding players as the sympathetic "Celia." The comedy parts were ably played by Mr. Richard Mason as "Touchstone," the clown, and by Mr. Elmer Lussier as "William" the foolish country boy. Elmer also played the part of "Adam," the aged servant, equally well. The songs were pleasingly rendered by Messrs. Leonard Hall, Thomas Morrison, and Robert Le Poer. The audience showed from their applause that they wished Shakespeare had included more songs in his play.

Much credit is due Mr. Sanford, who spent many hours in coaching and under whose efforts the class of 1924 has presented a play which will long be remembered.

The Dramatic Club

CATHERINE DELANEY.

ANYONE who is listed as a member of the Dramatic Club is indeed a most fortunate individual, because to belong is not only a pleasure, but an honor of no small degree. "The Dramatic Club presents . . . . " has come to be an announcement received with great interest, and each succeeding year adds more eagerness to the reception of the Club's performances.

Dramatics in High School is no new activity. For many years the annual presentation of a play by the Dramatic Club has been the occasion for the deepest interest not only on the part of the student body and the faculty, but also among the alumni and other friends of our school.

Membership in the Club is limited, and is a reward of merit, as far as the showing of marked dramatic ability is concerned. Only those selected by the coach, Miss Margaret Powers, in competitive try-outs are allowed to have parts in the play. All students are eligible to compete, and judging from the number of candidates, membership in the Dramatic Club is a much coveted honor.

Many of the popular comedies have been presented, and of late years, those chosen have been the Broadway successes of most recent date.

The club owes much of its success to Miss Powers. Without her untiring assistance the club could have accomplished but little, because of her aid, her eagerness, and her earnestness, the Dramatic Club shall ever be a treasured memory to both the members and the people who have witnessed its performances.

The Art Club

CLEMENT SPARROW.

THE Art Club has completed its first successful and interesting year. During this first year, a standard has been set up for future members to live up to.

The Club is grateful to Miss Grace Lynn, both as advisor and originator. It is through her efforts that the Art Club has succeeded.

Meetings were spent very enjoyably and quite often. Sketching was done both in doors and out. The sketching has brought to light many clever artists.

The officers elected for the first year were: Clement Sparrow, President; Lucy Bacon, Vice-President; Edith Coe, Treasurer; Winchester Warnock, Secretary.

To the future members may we say that we leave you the task of carrying on and building up this club and derive as much enjoyment from it as we did.

The Mathematics Club

MARY LOUISE KINNE.

THE Mathematics Club has had many instructive and interesting programs during the year. This has been the first year that the club has been really prominent in school life. The membership was increased twofold, thus requiring either the auditorium or "53" for meetings. The programs have ranged from articles on the lives of famous mathematicians to bed-time stories with geometrical characters. For each meeting, the programs have been so arranged that the members could learn something and be entertained at the same time.

The officers are:

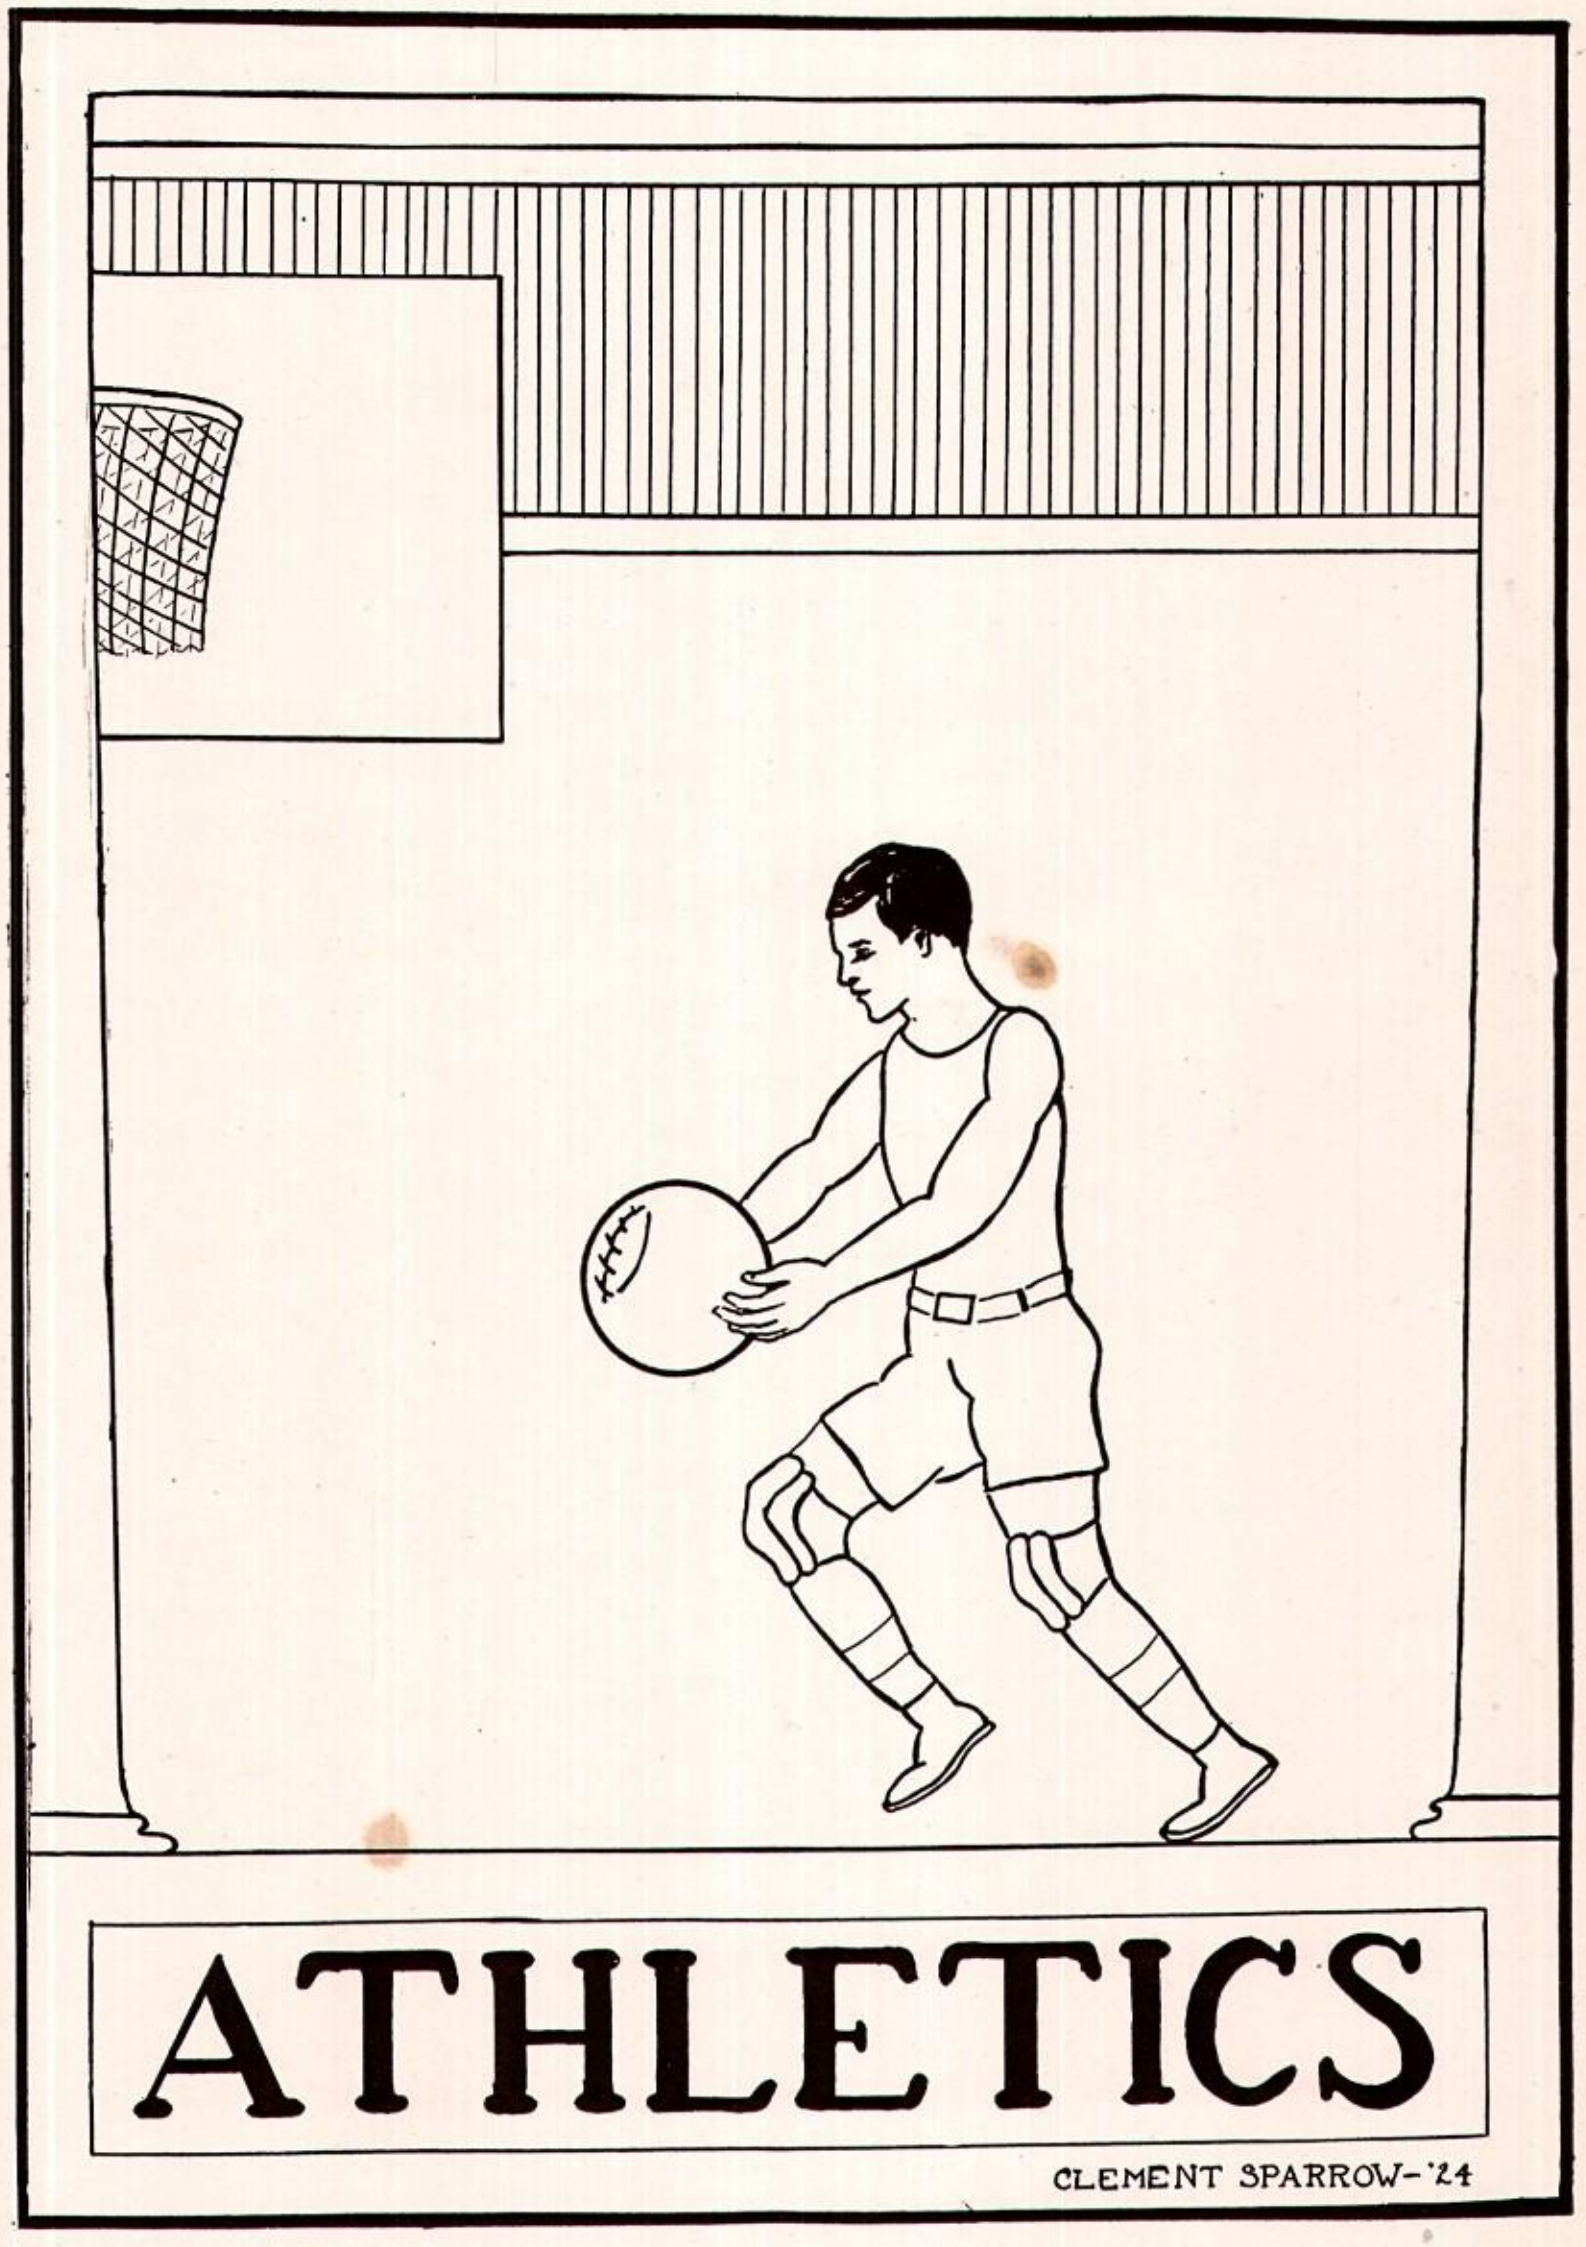
President ..... Newman Clapp
Vice-President ..... Hilda Donahue
Treasurer ..... Robert Campbell
Secretary ..... Mary Louise Kinne
Executive Committee..... Henry Moggio, Thora Freeman, Marion Webber
Faculty Advisor ..... Mr. M. M. S. Moriarty

"El Circulo Espanol"

WALTER RUCKDESCHEL.

"EL CIRCULO ESPANOL" is the only Spanish organization in the Holyoke High School. It was organized in 1920 for the purpose of establishing a firmer knowledge of Spanish in the minds of those studying the subject. The "El Circulo Espanol" holds regular meetings every month in the High School Auditorium. At these meetings, many interesting musical and literary programs are given by the members of the club. The membership of the "El Circulo Espanol" is limited to those pupils taking second year Spanish, or those that have completed the course of two years. This year, the "El Circulo Espanol" was honored by the presence of Mr. Holmes Kingsbury who formerly lived in the Panama Canal Zone. He told something of the natives of Panama, their customs, dress, and manners. The officers of the "El Circulo Espanol" are elected semi-annually by the members of the second year class. The officers for the term ending January 21, were: Valmore Beauvais, President; Martha Nevins, Vice-President; Edith Coe, Secretary.

The present officers of the "El Circulo Espanol" are: Leonard Baldwin, President; Martha Nevins, Vice-President; Walter Ruckdeschel, Secretary.



ATHLETICS

CLEMENT SPARROW-'24

Athletic Association

OSCAR C. FELSENTRAGER.

THE Athletic Association has witnessed one of the most successful years in existence this past term. Under the careful guidance of its officers, advisors and the co-operation of its members, the association has taken forward strides to make itself one of the most successful clubs of the school.

I should not call it club, because the Athletic Association is more than a club. Every day in the school year, the Athletic Association is improving, to a certain extent, the physical condition of students in the school. Were it not for the Athletic Association, we would have no Athletics.

This year cannot be called a great financial success, but when we consider the teams that our capable coach, John P. Whalen, has turned out and the records they have established, there is no doubt in our minds but what this year was a great success.

The students of the school have supported the teams loyally, and credit is due them for this. In victory or defeat, they stood by their teams.

This year our coach turned out a football and basketball team which were the "class" of the valley. The football team made money this season a thing which is very unusual.The basketball team, besides establishing an enviable record, proved a big money making proposition. It must be realized that basketball is usually the only sport on which money is made. The money made here is used to support the other teams, such as Swimming, Track and Baseball.

This year our basketball team had the honor of receiving an invitation from the Authorities of the National Interscholastic Tournament at Chicago. But, on consideration of the proposition by our superintendent, he decided it would be impossible to let us compete.

Mr. John "Dotty" Whalen has again proved that he is an efficient and capable coach. Mr. Whalen, since he has been with us, has turned out wonderful teams in all sports. The students of Holyoke High School admire Mr. Whalen and hope that he will remain with us and continue his fine work.

Our assistant coach, Mr. Daniel Regan, has also had good success with his teams. Mr. Regan has coached swimming and track and has established fine records. Mr. Regan, like Mr. Whalen, is one of the well liked teachers of the school.

Mr. Haskell, as treasurer, has carried on his work with honors. The treasurer holds a responsible office in the Association and when the duties are completed, as Mr. Haskell has completed them, he should be given special credit. It would be hard to find a more capable person than Mr. Haskell for this office.

Mr. Conant, our principal and Athletic Association Director, has worked hard to see an improvement in the association this season and the students are grateful to him for this. His advice has helped the officers in a great many ways.

Student Council

HILDA DONOHUE.

SINCE student government has been successful in many large schools and colleges, the Holyoke High School decided to experiment with it. In November, 1923, elections were held, forming a council of four seniors, two boys and two girls, three juniors, two boys and one girl or vice versa, two sophomores, one boy, one girl, and one freshman, and two faculty members. To assist this council one representative was elected from each section, forming an associate council. The council itself elected its president, two vice-presidents, secretary, and treasurer.

A radical change from faculty to student government was, of course, impossible. Various minor duties, such as traffic work in the halls and lunchroom and ushering at school activities has been the main work of the council. This has been accomplished with varying degrees of success. It has been difficult for the students to realize that they govern themselves in large measure and that their cooperation is necessary to make student government successful. The class of '24 sincerely hopes that future classes will welcome student government and make it a firm and established institution in the Holyoke High School.

FOOTBALL TEAM

Football

PAUL M. HAFEY.

THIS year Holyoke High School enjoyed the most successful football season in many years. With a total of five victories and only one defeat and with a final total of 117 points for Holyoke and only 13 points against, the school could well be proud of its team. Throughout the season, one of the greatest inspirations to the players was the enthusiasm of the students which was shown in all games.

In the first two games of the season very little difficulty was experienced in obtaining victories. Our first game on September 28, against Enfield, Conn., was easily won by a 53-0 score. The second against Westminster Academy of Simsbury, Conn., on October 5, was won after a hard fought battle by a 6-0 score, and served to make the players more confident and experienced.

Technical High School proved to be the only victors over Holyoke. On October 19, in a drizzling rain, Tech beat Holyoke at Springfield, by a 7-0 score. Out-weighed and out-sized, the team put up a fine fight and the greater part of the valor was attributed to Holyoke by everybody.

On October 26, Northampton High proved to be another easy victim. They were beaten by a 26-0 score.

Lee High was the next opponent. On November 2, the team travelled to Lee where it was scored upon for the second and last time of the season. Nevertheless Holyoke made their opponents their fourth victim by a 13-6 score.

The season was appropriately closed by administering a 19-0 defeat to Commerce High of Springfield. On November 12, with the whole student body present, the team showed itself Springfield's superiors and brought again to Holyoke the ever sought victory over our down-river rivals.

As a result of their good playing during the season Robert Carroll, right-end, and Edward Williamson, left half-back, were awarded positions on the All-Valley eleven.

On November 27, the players were tendered a banquet at the home of Coach "Dotty" Whalen. At this meeting James Lyons was unanimously re-elected captain for the next season. He has the best wishes of his former teammates for a successful year.

The team takes this occasion to thank Coaches Whalen and Regan for their work and help in bringing forth such a successful team.

Soccer Team

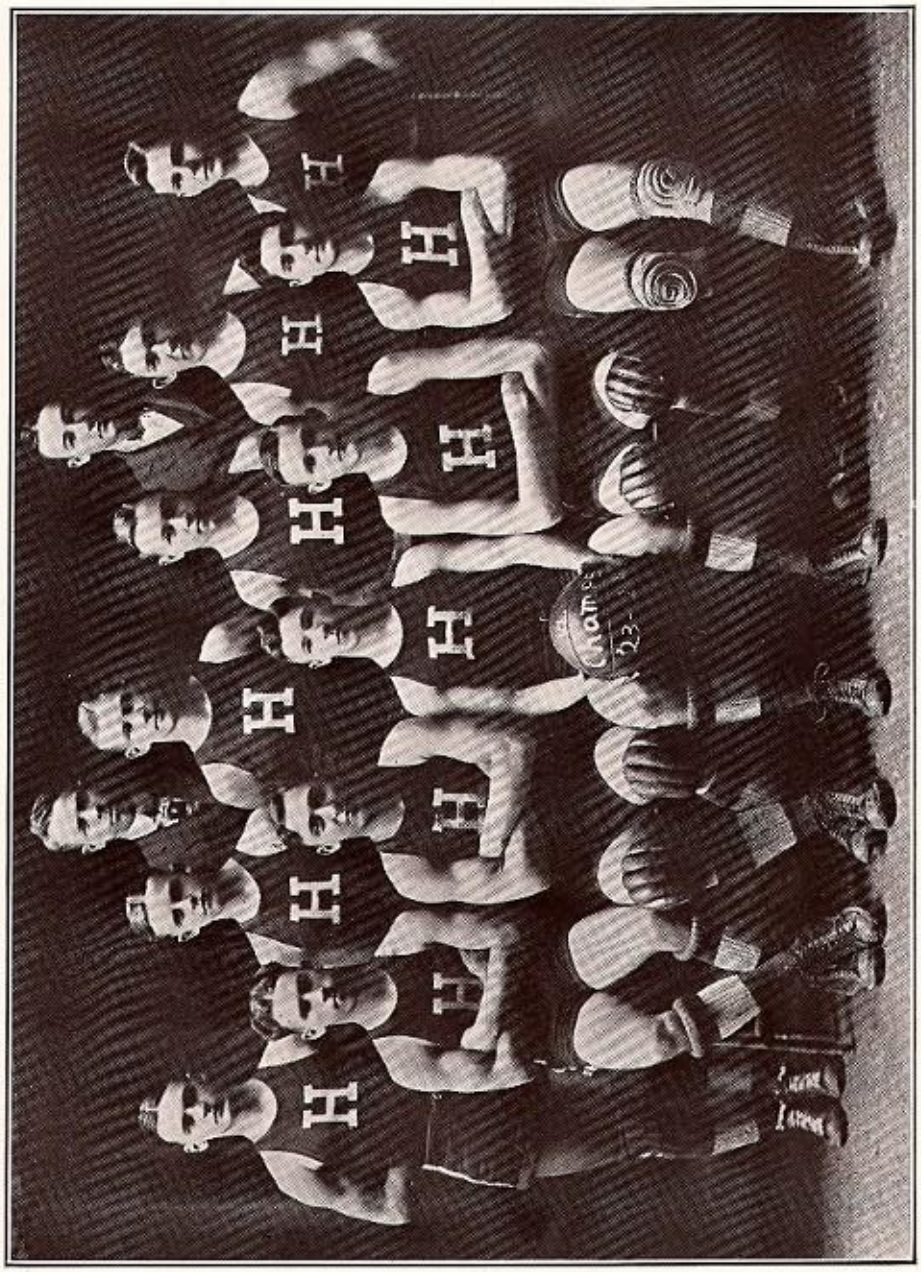
Arthur Lynch, '24.

THE High School Soccer Team had a very successful season this year, winning eleven of the thirteen games. The team was defeated by Worcester Academy and Springfield College "Frosh". Later in the season the Springfield College "Frosh" suffered their first defeat in three years from Holyoke. The team also defeated Williams College "Frosh" at Williamstown.

This spring the Holyoke High booters were entered in the Western New England Junior League series and as this is written we are preparing for the final game with a team picked from the three Springfield High Schools.

Although Soccer has been very poorly supported, the Holyoke High School has turned out teams that have won consistently during the last fourteen or fifteen years.

The team was composed of: Capt. "Pete" Soutiere, "Stewie" Williamson, "Boot" Sullivan, "Sandy" O'Brien, "Tom" Le Poer, John Harrington, "Jake" Solin, "Mose" Gordon, "Scotch" Mathieson, John Zielinski, Carl Zielinski, "Clickie" Clark, "Piper" Lynch, and "Clifty" Smith. "Danny" Regan and "Jimmy" Smith acted as coaches.



Basketball

JAMES LYONS, '25.

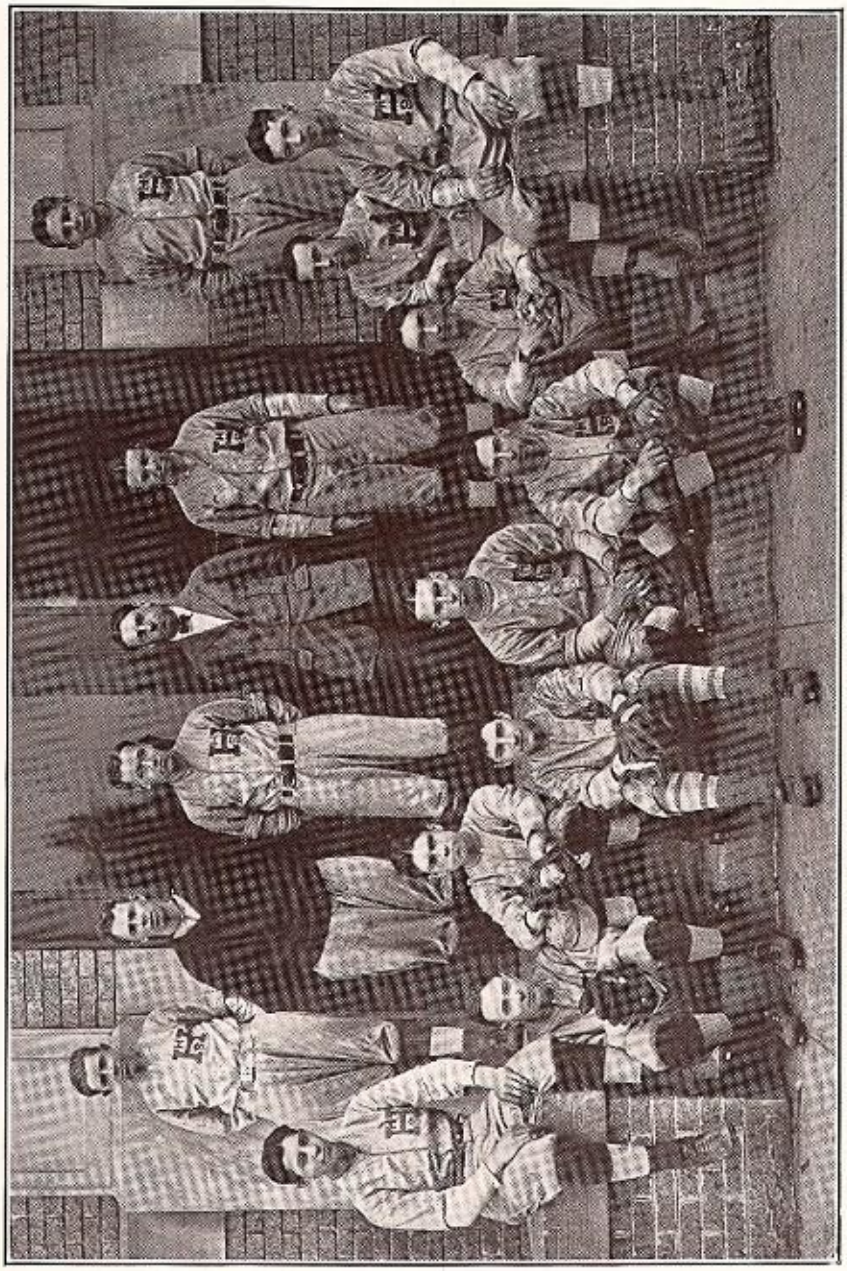
THE basketball team for 1923-24 enjoyed a most successful season. In fact, nc H. H. S. team of recent years has won so much glory. This team ranks with the great team of '17-'18 which was composed of Malcolm, Feldman, Donahue, Merriman and McGuiggan. The team won twenty-two out of twenty-four starts, and brought home to Coach John P. (Dotty) Whalen his first Valley League Pennant.

The team won nineteen straight games before it received its first setback of the season at the hands of Westfield High School. This defeat tied the team for the Valley Title. The team received its second defeat of the season when it was defeated by the New Haven Commercial High School five, Champions of New England. The following week, however, Holyoke, displaying its early season form, defeated Westfield High School for the Valley League Championship on the Springfield College floor.

Holyoke was well represented on the All-Valley Team, Captain Bob Carroll, Bob Allison, and Willie Walkov winning positions on the five.

The lineups and lettermen follow:

FIRST TEAM		SECOND TEAM
Walkov	r. f.	Fogarty	r. f.
Williamson	l. f.	Dean	l. f.
Allison	c.	Marciniak	c.
Carroll	r. b.	Choiniere	r. b.
Ouillette	l. b.	Soutiere	l. b.
Felsentrager		Manager Lyons



Baseball

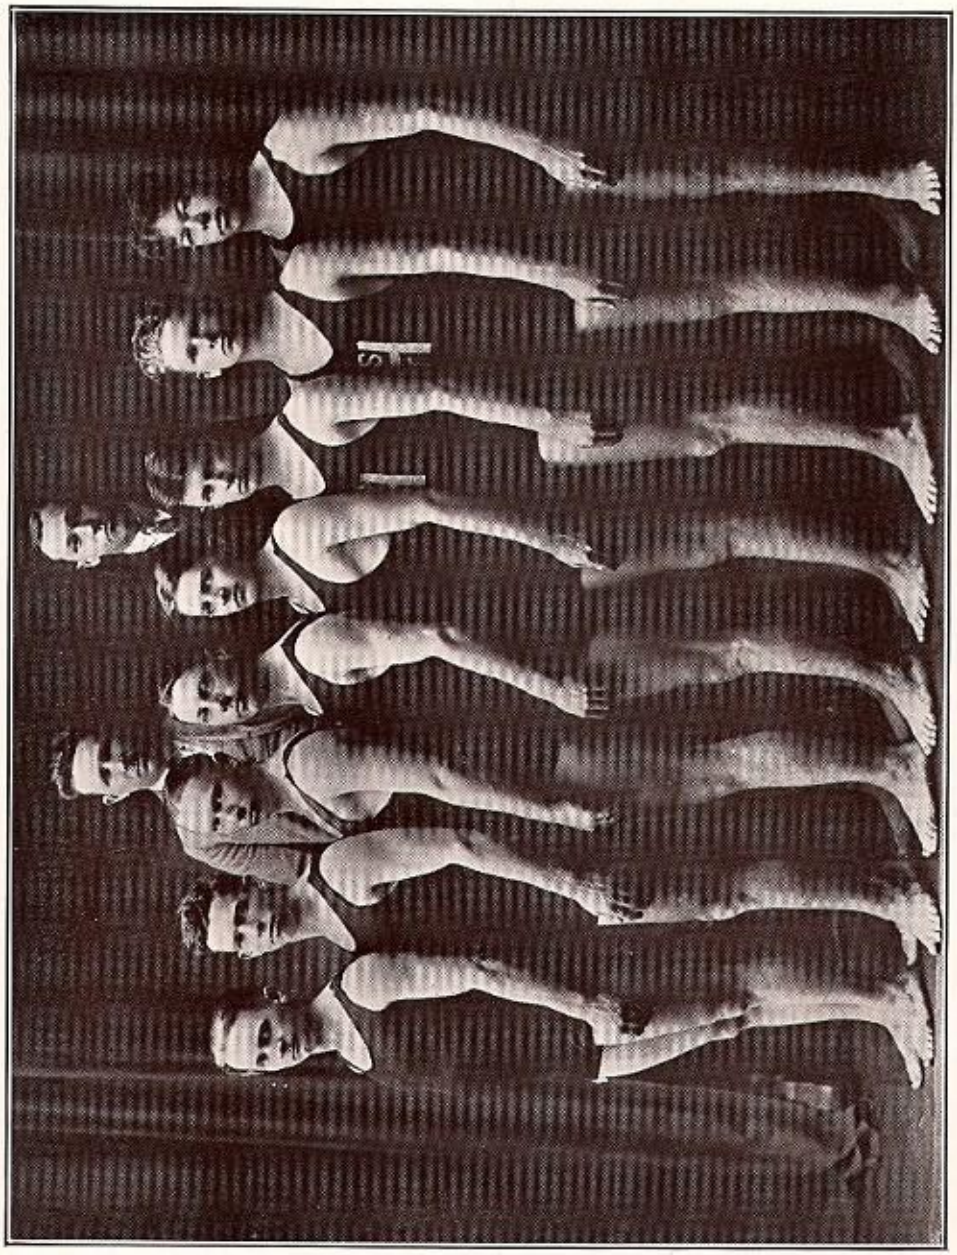
WARREN CLARK.

UNDER the fine leadership of Capt. "Eddie" Williamson, the Holyoke High School Baseball Team is enjoying a very successful season. Beside being a strong contender for the Valley League Championship, we are recognized as one of the best teams in the valley.

About forty candidates reported to Coach Whalen for the initial practice of the season, on April sixteenth, but the squad was rapidly thinned out until only sixteen players remained when the season opened on April twenty-third.

"Ray" Fitzgerald, "Eddie" Lenz, Oscar Felsentrager, "Johnny" Sullivan and "Johnny" Harrington shared the pitching honors. "Pete" Soutiere has been on the receiving end in every game and his timely hitting has been a treat to all of the followers of the sport. The infield consisted of the following players: "Bob" Carroll, first base; Stewart Williamson, second base; "Willie" Wolkov, shortstop; and George Dean, third base. It was one of the best infields that has ever represented Holyoke High on the diamond. The outfield consisted of Capt. "Eddie" Williamson, left field; "Timmy" Sullivan, center field; "Jack" McDowell, right field, with Fogarty, Solin, and Marciniak as substitutes. In Capt. Williamson, Holyoke has a good leader, a fine batter, and an excellent fielder.

We must not forget Coach Whalen, who developed the team to such a high point of efficiency. Through his good coaching the team was able to enjoy a very successful season.



Swimming

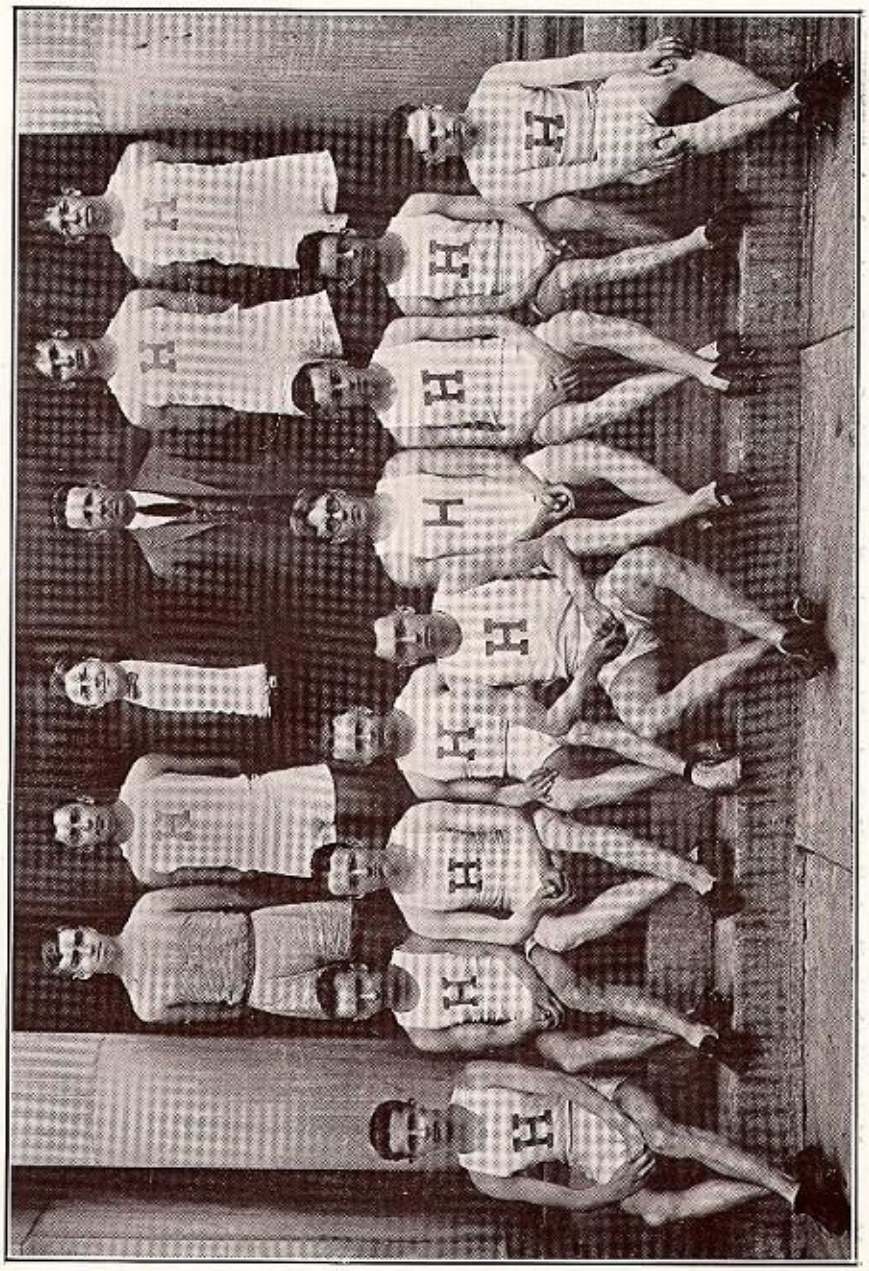
ROSMOND GRANDCHAMP.

THE Swimming Team under the able guidance of Coach Daniel Regan opened its season by journeying to Williamstown. The team was defeated by the Williams College Freshmen by a score of 31-11. Because of illness Capt. Lunn was unable to participate.

The divers were not allowed to compete on account of the fact that the ceiling was too low. The next trip was to Worcester where the team was defeated by the Worcester Academy boys by a score of 34-17. At this meet the Holyoke boys showed their best form, scoring 17 points, the largest score ever made by a team from our school in the academy pool. The next two meets were with the Springfield College Freshmen, the first at Springfield, the second at Holyoke. Springfield won both meets by scores of 35-18 and 33 1-2-19 1-2 respectively. The last meet of the season was with Gardner High School at Gardner. Holyoke was defeated by the score of 35-18.

Captain Lunn featured in the 100-yard dash, winning first place at every meet. E. Brooks showed up well in the 100 and the 50-yard dashes. Fleming did good work in the 220-yard swim. Clark was our star plunger. Morrison showed wonderful form in the dives and easily won first place at all the meets. Other members of the team who did good work are Heck, Bosworth, J. Driscoll, and Majeau. Those who are to receive their letter are Captain Lunn, W. Fleming, F. Heck, W. Bosworth, J. Driscoll, E. Brooks, R. Majeau, T. Morrison, W. Clark and Manager Rosmond Grandchamp. Of these boys Heck is the only one returning to school next year.

The team wishes to thank Mr. Regan for all the work he did to make the team successful.



Track

JAMES MAHONEY.

TRACK work has for many years been dropping into the rank of minor athletics. This lessening of importance has been due to lack of material. However, more spirit was shown this year, as about thirty candidates reported to Coach Danny Regan at Springdale Park every afternoon. A very successful season was assured from the start.

Some of the Seniors have made reputations for themselves as track stars. Rosamond Grandchamp, who has been a mainstay on the team for three years was elected captain last year. He is probably the fastest middle distance runner ever developed in the Holyoke High School, and he has come within two seconds of equaling the high school record for the four hundred and forty yard dash. A great deal is expected of him in collegiate circles next year. Roland Majeau and Henry Moggio, the two sprinters, performed all season in an excellent manner. George Ellert showed that he can hold his own with the best of them in the weight events. Fred Heck did well in the long distance running, and "Spot" Ouillette starred in the jumping and in the weight events. All the other men worked very hard and did their share in helping the track team make a fine showing.

Holyoke participated in four interscholastic meets at the Three County Fair, the Springfield Armory, Brattleboro, and Springfield College. In the meet at Northampton, Holyoke tied Ware for first place, this being the only tie of the season. This was run off at Ware, and Holyoke easily emerged the victor.

Altogether, a more successful season on the cinders has seldom been enjoyed by Holyoke High School.

Girls' Athletics

Mildred Picard, '24.

IN the "G. A. A.," real good sportsmanship has been shown throughout the year 1924.

The class of 1924 won the basketball championship. The team was as follows: Marjorie Freeland and Mildred Picard, forwards; Miriam Jones and Arletta Polson, center; and Mary Kane and Grace Bower, guards.

The Interclass Track Meet was held on May 13, 1924 with all the classes well represented. In spite of the Sophomores' clever team, the Seniors kept up their spirit and won the meet again this year, making it three consecutive annual victories. The class of 1924 is the only class which has ever had the honor of winning the meet for three consecutive years. The results for the first year are as follows:

The 25 yard dash: First, Marie Simes, '22; second, Margaret Stitch, '24; third, Miriam Jones, '24.

The Standing Broad Jump: First, Miriam Jones, '24; second, Marie Simes, '22; third, Helen Luce, '22.

Basketball Shooting: First, Sylvia Pariseau, '24; Second, Mildred Picard, '24; third, Lillian Allen, '23.

Basketball Far Throw: First, Marie Simes, '22; second, Rachel Childs, '24; third, Delia Utley, '24.

Running High Jump: First, Miriam Jones, '24; second, Edyth Maslin, '22; third, Doris Shaw, '22.

Potato Race: First, Marie Simes, '22; second, Miriam Jones, '24; third, Alma Rouleau, '25.

Relay won by the Class of 1922. Total points (1924-32), (1922-28), (1923-1), (1925-1).

The 25 Yard Dash: First, Dorothy Shea, '25; second, Miriam Jones, '24; third, Dorothy Provost, '24.

Standing Broad Jump: First, Sylvia Pariseau, '24; second, Miriam Jones, '24; third, Delia Utley, '24.

Basketball Shooting: First, Sylvia Pariseau, '24; second, Dorothy Provost, '24; third, Delia Utley, '24.

Basketball Far Throw: First, Miriam Reed, '25; second, Delia Utley, '24; third, Lucy Randolph, '25.

Running High Jump: First, Miriam Jones, '24; second, Flora Mayer, '25; third, Dorothy Provost, '24.

Potato Race: First, Miriam Jones, 24; second, Mildred Picard, '24; third, Delia Utley, '24.

Relay won by the Class of 1924, Total points (1924-42), (1925-17), (1923-1).

The 25 Yard Dash: First, Miriam Jones, '24; second, Mellony Pete, '26; third, Dorothy Turner, '26.

Standing Broad Jump: First, Miriam Jones, '24; third, Dorothy Turner, '26; third, Sylvia Pariseau, '24.

Basketball Shooting: First, Mildred Picard, '24; second, Annie Mitten, '25; third, Julia Podsadly, '25.

Basketball Far Throw: First, Mellony Pete, '26; second, Delia Utley, '24; third, Sylvia Pariseau, '24.

Running High Jump: First, Miriam Jones, '24; second, Dorothy Turner, '26; third, Mellony Pete, '26.

Potato Race: First, Dorothy Sullivan, '25; second, Dorothy Turner, '26; third, Miriam Jones, '24.

Relay won by the class of 1926. Total points are (1924-29), (1926-24), (1925-9).

Last year, for the first time, an interstate track meet was held. In this meet, all the juniors and seniors from the various high schools in the state were eligible for competing. Certificates were distributed to the twenty-five individuals making the best records for the state. Sylvia Pariseau, from the class of 1924, had the honor of being the first one on the list; while Miriam Jones from the class of 1924 took the tenth place; Mildred Picard, also from the class of 1924, took the thirteenth place; and Dorothy Provost from the class of 1925 took the fourteenth place.

This year, besides the annual interclass swimming meet, the girls have had the honor of going to Boston to compete in the Red Cross Life Saving Contest which was held in Cambridge on January 26, 1924. The girls who were chosen to go to Boston were: five Junior Life Savers, Viola Marciniak, Dorothy Driekorn, Katherine Mahoney, Miriam Reed, and Julia Podsadly; two Senior Life Savers, Miriam Jones and Mildred Picard. Out of the five Junior Life Savers, two of them, Katherine Mahoney and Dorothy Driekorn, brought home medals for taking first place in the Head Carry, while both of the Senior Life Savers, Miriam Jones and Mildred Picard, received two certificates, one for the Head Carry and the other for the Life Buoy Surf Rescue.

Address of Welcome

JAMES R. CREAN.

SOMETIMES in our dreams the meekest of us see ourselves playing the role of "Lord of all that I survey." The future holds for us then an unlimited fortune, to spend on a vast estate and its palatial residence entertaining lavishly those who in our school days were quite grateful for a lolly-pop, a bag of pop corn, or an ice cream cone. Not only in our dreams are we hospitable, however—1924 loves company, good company, and yearns to entertain as her means allow; at present "her means" are chiefly wit and good fellowship.

So, today, to the throne room of our palace—good old Holyoke High, which we own today—we open wide the doors to admit parents and friends, that they may enjoy with us the reminiscences of our three happy years in this domain.

To me falls the honor of acting as host for this worthy clientele —1924—to bid you "Welcome."

As today's activities emphasize the social rather than scholastic side of our school life do not be misled into believing that we have had "no work and much play." We have accomplished much, in this school so well equipped thro' the generosity of Holyoke's taxpayers. So our gratitude to you, for the goods you have provided is still another reason for our hearty "Welcome." We trust that next year the opening word of the class day exercises will be a great "Thank You" for the Athletic Field for which this class worked and pledged money, yet failed to see realized.

Again, as spokesman of today's hostesses and hosts, the members of 1924, I bid you "Welcome" to the last and best social gathering of our High School career.

Class History

MARGUERITE TIFFT.

MOST of us at some time or other have been interested in either the serious or the humorous side of trying to look into the future to see what we are to accomplish. Instead of gazing into the mystical future to-day, let us review the concrete past. Let us turn our thoughts back to four years ago in September, 1920, when a small group of "Freshies" entered these lofty portals.

In September we elected our first class officers as follows: President, Orris Pier; Vice-President, Grace Bowers; Secretary, Hazel Underwood; Treasurer, Leonard Hall.

As Freshmen we were not able to display much of our ability. About the only chance we had to appear in public was on Gift Day when we contributed generously to the Piano Fund. Of course, like all other classes, we spent more time in looking for our class-rooms than we did in them.

After an all too short vacation we returned here as sophomores. Upon entering the building we met a large group of new pupils who were to join our class. At first we looked upon them with suspicion; they were so much like "Freshies", you know; but after a few months we became acquainted and were very glad to have them as our classmates.

In September we held class elections and, as we like variety, we changed our officers. President, James Crean; Vice-President, Hazel Underwood; Secretary, Rachel Childs; Treasurer, Oscar Felsentrager.

That year we are proud to say our girls won the track meet and came in second in swimming, a record which was excellent for sophomores and of which we were very proud.

We gave our first play on Washington's Birthday. We were all filled with the spirit of war at this time and so we presented, "Our Boys of 1776." Everyone decided that this was a great success.

Our Junior year soon followed and we were filled with importance to think that we were upper classmen.

On October 6 we elected the following class officers: President James Crean; Vice-President, Katherine Delaney; Secretary, Rachel Childs; Treasurer, James Mahoney.

Our play this year came at Christmas. It was entitled, "The Loveliest Thing" and we were very successful in this presentation.

Our first "Prom" came during the Easter Vacation and the large crowd which attended agreed that they had had the best of times.

The Dramatic Club which had been discontinued, was reorganized and gave a play in March, 1923, entitled, "A Successful Calamity". The cast consisted principally of members of our class.

During the summer vacation of 1923, we were deeply grieved to hear of the death of our friend and classmate, Charles William Koehler. Through our secretary the class extended its sympathy.

Like all other classes we were eager to enter our Senior year, but we were destined to disappointment. Upon entering school in September what should we find, but that only the girls could inhabit "53" and the boys were to be banished to numerous small sections. You cannot imagine our grief and sorrow, but it was soon lightened by our ever present optimism.

On September 17, we elected our class officers for our Senior year. President, James Crean; Vice-President, Katherine Delaney; Secretary, Miriam Jones; Treasurer, Oscar Felsentrager.

At the beginning of the year it was decided that the movies, which we had always had every other Friday morning, would be discontinued and the different clubs would arrange programs to take their places. I think that generally we have enjoyed these programs much more than we did the movies.

The Class Play this year was entitled, "The Flying Wedge", and was given at Thanksgiving. It was full of life and action, just the kind of a play everyone enjoys.

In October of this year we voted to have a Student Council. As this was the first time that anything of this kind had been attempted in the school, everyone watched to see what would happen. The Student Councilors, and soon afterwards the Associate Councilors, were nominated and elected. They were soon organized and ready for work. It was difficult to make any decided headway at first because the Councilors were inexperienced in the project of which they had charge; but a good foundation was laid and the succeeding Student Councilors should do much to improve the school.

At mid-year, Mr. Sanford, the head of our English Department, decided to begin an English Drama Class. As soon as the class was formed it began to study early drama and dramatics, reading many dramas of the Elizabethan Period, and acting them. Shakespeare's comedy, "As You Like It" was chosen as the one to be given publicly. The rehearsing began immediately and plans were made to give it in the latter part of the school year. If Mr. Sanford finds that this class is successful he will undoubtedly continue it in following years.

The girls decided that this year they would have to insert something original in Pig-Tail Day and so instead of letting their hair down and tying a ribbon on it, they agreed to wear short, childish dresses. We were surprised and delighted to see nearly every girl follow the instructions. They entered right into the spirit and put it through as our class always does.

Miss Lynn picked a group of girls to take down to the swimming meet held in Boston. Though our girls did not win first place they gained 2nd and 3rd honors which we thought very good considering that this was our first attempt.

The Dramatic Club presented the comedy "Dulcy" on March 28. Much work had to be put into this, but the cast was very successful, and the play heartily enjoyable.

Our boys gained renown for us with their prowess in basketball. We are proud of them and hope that we have let them know that we have appreciated every effort they have made.

We have summed up from our High School experience what we know of our classmates, and to those whom we think deserving we give the following honors:

Class Oration

ROBERT CARROLL.

"Life is real—Life is earnest,
And the Grave is not its Goal—"

THESE thought-inspiring words are taken from the works of the incomparable Longfellow.

Life is, indeed, real and earnest—sometimes more so than we would have it. Yet it is a lamentable fact that many are late in realizing how real it is. An altogether too great a number find years of half-hearted effort pitilessly greeted with failure due to their inability to ever fully appreciate its earnestness. The grave, sad to say, offers haven to those whose early negligence or indifference has led them into the realms of failure and dark despair.

A great writer has bequeathed us the information that, "Life is a curious compound with its honey and its gall." So it is, the honey serving as a stimulant when we feel ourselves sinking into the depths of depression—the gall as a goal to compel our keeping in hot pursuit of the honey.

We, as a group, are still in the early stages of our lives. Thus far, ours have been lives of ease, comfort and comparative luxury. We have yet to feel the pinch of need or realize the despondency of dire necessity. All that has been asked of us is that we prepare for the real and earnest battle ahead. We have been reasonably asked to so train ourselves that the effects of the inevitable gall will not be disastrous.

This we have done—and well. As students we have been led to see the vital need of self-preparation in the "Game of Life." So far our destiny has been guided. The Path to Progress has been paved with painstaking care, due to the invaluable assistance and ceaseless efforts of skillful instructors. We are confronted now with the duty of dedicating ourselves to the great task remaining before us.

Before we part it will be proper and fitting to stop and ponder a while—to reflect upon the possibilities of failure through error. It will be wise to investigate the chances of our purpose being thwarted as a result of misunderstanding or misconceptions as to right or wrong. It will be well for us to resolve to appreciate the wisdom and value of the "Golden Rule." It will be better still if we determine to realize that the amassing of great fortunes or the gaining of political renown is not essential to real success, as proven during the recent revelations involving some of our most conspicuous and honored national officials.

Therefore, let us resolve upon parting, that our individual careers will be characterized by personal effort, honesty, fairness, generosity, and an ability to get the honey despite the gall.

Class Will

CATHERINE DELANEY.

SINCE the time has arrived for our departure from this High School life, to play our cards in the world's great game for Success—we, the Class of 1924, do hereby make our first, last, and only will and testament in which we dispose of our High School possessions. We leave and bequeath:

I.

To the Citizens of Holyoke, our Parents, and Friends—our most sincere thanks for affording us the opportunity of completing a High School education.

II.

To Mr. Conant and the members of the faculty—our deepest gratitude and affection for their kindly interest, their unceasing assistance, and their tireless efforts to make us aspire to higher and nobler things and to develop us into upright women and men.

III.

To our successors, the Class of 1925, the following numerous and remarkable gifts:

1. To the girls 53, where they may be free from the prying eyes of the opposite sex for at least a few moments each day; also, along with this, our class seal, painted on the blackboard therein by our talented classmate, Allan Prentiss.

2. To the boys, the task of producing a basketball team, a football team, and a baseball team—which shall indeed be a task, since the majority of the "star" players are members of '24.

3. The privilege of passing first, to and from the auditorium.

4. The leadership of the "Q" Club, the Phi Alpha, and the Student Council.

5. A printing-press for more expeditious publication of numerous "gossip sheets" which, we trust, shall be more clever, friendly, and mysterious, than were some of ours.

6. The pleasure of running a Senior-Junior prom so successfully that the profits may clear the debt incurred at your Junior-Senior prom.

7. The possession of our new music-books, with a warning "Don't neglect to bring them to auditorium exercises!"

8. And last, but by no means least, our much to be coveted Senior dignity!

IV.

To our beloved sister class, 1926:

1. The honor of being upper-classmen.

2. The right to join the "Q" Club and Phi Alpha.

3. The management of a Junior-Senior prom with the advice: "Don't attempt to run it during the Lenten Season".

4. Finally our love and esteem.

V.

To the very few Freshmen:

1. The pleasure of membership in Round-the-Table Club and the Assembly.

2. The permission to wear cow-bells around your necks, so you may be heard approaching, and then seen. This would also assist the overworked faculty in locating you when you wander away, or get lost.

VI.

To Miss Powers and Miss Franz, 53's section teachers, a megaphone with the aid of which we pray they may be heard above the din and uproar at section times, and finally obtain order.

VII.

To Mr. Moriarty, our senior faculty advisor, our deepest thanks for his untiring efforts to make this year a successful one for us. We agree with that old adage: "Good things come in small packages."

VIII.

To Miss Allen, a gross of red candles to distribute next Christmastide to Latin classes and Classical Club members, who burn these tapers at Yuletide to conform with the old Roman custom.

IX.

To Mr. Mitchell our deepest love and appreciation for the remarkable way in which he piloted us through our Junior Year. Under his careful guidance '24 had a very successful year.

X.

To Mr. McDonald our gratitude for his "big brother" attitude which has helped us over many rough places.

XI.

To Miss Fay our fondest esteem for her interest in us as a part of this High School, which she so dearly loves, and in which her library seems a haven of rest.

XII.

To Mrs. Nellie Boland Fitzgerald:

1. Our best wishes that her newly established home may be as happy as she has made the H. H. S. lunch-counter for us.

2. Our appreciation for her assistance at our school dances.

XIII.

To Mr. Craig the hope that sometime in the near future, through the aid of Pinkerton's Detective Agency, he may find the whereabouts of that much advertised "Lost Chord".

XIV.

To future classes, a prayer for the materialization of that much talked about athletic field, which so far has been one long, beautiful dream—no more.

XV.

To our Alma Mater, our everlasting love and friendship for years to come.

In Witness whereof, We, the Class of 1924, do hereby affix our signature and seal, to this our last will and testament, this — day of June, in the year of Our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twenty-four.

We, the undersigned, do consent to be witness to this document and to set our signatures hereto as executors of this testament which is signed, sealed, and published by the Class of 1924.

Class Propheries

Prophecy I.

MARGARET LENIGAN.

FOR weeks we prophets have been deep in thought
The fates of our classmates we have sought.
When all prophetic fates to us were unkind,
We finally consulted "Ted" the school's master mind.
"I can't tell a thing," said he with a sigh,
So then King Tut we decided to try,
But the strain last year was too much for "Tut";
He died from brain fever, the poor old "nut".
What were we to do? We were near to despair,
We prayed and cried, and tore our hair,
We thought suicide the only way
To get out of this mess and save the day.
Our faces grew long and our hearts were sad
It really seemed that we must go mad.
I glanced at the others with a downcast heart;
What to do? What to do? I jumped with a start
The radio! "There's the solution!" said I.
My two by four Radio was the thing left to try
I twirled the discs and fiddled around
For an hour or so—before hearing a sound;
A buzz! A voice! A mumble and then—
It was gone! I fiddled and fiddled again—
Once more came the sound, now very clear
A mystic voice I could plainly hear,
As it grew clearer, this sound in the air
I learned it was from Egypt, on end stood my hair—
A message from Egypt, from whom? Don't ask me;
It told my classmates' future and what each one is to be
So, now, while you curious ones attentively sit,
For each of our classmates we'll predict a future most fit.

James Crean, our class president, who piloted '24 to its successful end, will become President of the Holyoke Street Railway. The people in Elmwood will get service when "Icka" takes hold, for he was always interested in the "Elmwood line."

Ralph Day's future was evident in H. H. S. Has Ralph ever tried to sell you a Maxwell? He is a cracker-jack salesman and many of the girls of H. H. S. say he is a wonder at demonstrating the "arts" of a Maxwell.

In future years the name of Miriam Jones will be classed among the most successful women lawyers of our country. "Mim" will owe her success to her High School Romance as the first proposition she will prove is: "Resolved: that the course of true love will never run smooth."

Isadore Cohen's story is going to be a repetition of "Silas Marner." But Isadore is going to be wiser than "Cy," and say, "Try and get my "Goldie"!

When Mary Kane steps out in this world, all jazz, drinking, and joy riding will stop. Mary is going to be a leader in the Women's Temperance Society. After she has done away with every drop of liquor in America she will begin her reform work in Africa, where she will disturb the peacefulness of the barbarous tribes.

Dan Fogarty will not be a basketball star, the way '24 anticipated, Dan will be an author—educational at that! His greatest work will be entitled, "Points on making up a month's work in One Afternoon."

Fran Bailey will prove to be the wisest member of the Senior Class. Realizing that the way to a man's heart is through his stomach, Fran is going to Framingham Normal to attain perfection in the art of cooking.

Carl Lunn will be known as Professor Lunn, Jr. Carl is going to compose music; the most touching of his compositions will be entitled, "My Little Book and Me." Carl and one of his books were the best of friends "trotting" through chemistry.

Mabel Gold is going to work for Uncle "Sam", by accepting a position as postmistress, handling all the mail between Springfield and Holyoke. As Mabel is very familiar with the road from Holyoke to Springfield, Mabel will get along well with "Sam".

Walter Ruckdeschel will accept a position cleaning out Mr. Conant's office. "Rucky" was cleaned out of this office so often himself that '24 anticipates great success for him.

Pauline Warner is going to run a fruit stand on South Street in Elmwood. "Paul's" daily cry wil be, "Yes, we have fine 'Baldwin's' today."

Knowlton Oberlander will be a philanthropist running a jitney bus from the Highlands to Holyoke High. "Knowlt" and the Buick will not stand the strain, however, so he will retire to a solitary life in the country where he can devote all his time talking to and about himself.

"Kay" Delaney, our beloved vice-president, will be a zoologist. "Kay" will be very successful in her study of birds. Her interest will be lavished on two lucky birds the "Hawk" and "Bob"-o-link.

Ireland in 1830 had its Daniel O'Connell, so has the Class of '24 its Daniel O'Connell. "Dan's" reputation is spotless outside of being arrested for speeding a couple of times in his Ford touring car. A tragic result will occur when Dan's "car" falls apart on its Wednesday night trip to Springfield. Oh! Shea (Say) isn't this awful!

Naomi Spies is going to be a teacher of horseback riding. A fall off the donkey however will cause Naomi to follow another occupation—the stage. After graduating from Emerson School of Oratory, Naomi wil succeed Jane Cowl as Juliet. She already has her Romeo.

John Prendergast is going to be a football star. This is not a surprise, however, as John received his training in "parlor rugby."

Marjorie Smith is going to be a Domestic Science teacher; her specialty will be the care of the home. "Marge" always did love "Holmes."

Teachers are anticipating a musical career for Donald McIntyre. Don't be misled! Don is going to be an actor who will attain great fame in a play entitled, "My Dream Beside the Bay." (Bey)

Howes' store will miss a good customer when Naomi Bates goes away to school. Have you ever seen Naomi "bobbing" up Hampden street?

Don't be surprised to hear of Frank King as Class Photographer in future years. Indeed, Frank can pick out beauty and flaws in any picture. The way Frank hung onto the picture of the "Girls' Swimming Team" proved he was getting a "line" on future models.

Ruth Browne will pursue a novel vocation for a woman. She will be interested in "Manning" merchant vessels. Already she has choosen the chief mate and "skipper" of her fleet.

Billy Hutchins was always popular with the teachers, classmates, and Girls!! Due to this fact Billy is going to write a book on "The Power I Have Over Women."

Irene Pinney is not going to be a model for a large department store as the class expected. Irene will be an animal trainer. Her beauty will so charm every beast with which she comes in contact that "Foote" by "Foote" she will win her way into a certain "Lyons" heart.

Adelaide McKeefe is going to be an inventor. One of her successes will be an "automatic tickler" to be worn inside the pupil's garment to transform the "crepe hangers" expression coming out of "56" on report card day.

Rosamond Grandchamp will be a dancing professor. He will attain fame in an aesthetic dance entitled "The Pursuit of Helen."

Arrested for speeding—a member of the class of '24! This headline will be in the Transcript concerning Rose Persky who acquired the speeding habit in typewriting.

They talk about castles on the Rhine, but we all know that Marion Stott would prefer a castle on Hillside avenue. Marion is sure to be a "Queen" to some King family.

Immediately after graduation Ruth Woods is going to trip the light fantastic to Greenwich Village, where she will be an artist's model, posing for a masterpiece entitled "Captivating Terry."

One of our most promising young women is Kay Connolly. In the future she will write articles for the "Ladies' Home Journal" specializing in three things, Boys, Boys, and Boys!

Bob Carroll is going to be "Chief of Police." His experience was received in High School days as "President of the Student Council." Bob is going to warn the "jail birds" never to enter any office without knowing with whom they are coming in contact. Is this fair "Bobby?" How about your thrilling "blind date," last March 17th?

Whoever would believe Gussie Broudy would take the place of Holyoke High's popular pop corn man? After making millions, she will spend her time traveling through far off regions such as Fairview, Chicopee, and even Springfield; with curios she gathers at these places she will start a museum for Holyoke's benefit.

Harriet Benson is going to be kept busy looking for a "Duke" when she becomes "Duchess of Devonshire."

"Variety is the spice of life" is Mary Harrington's motto. Mary juggled hearts all the time in Holyoke High but "bust her", (Buster) she may get caught yet.

Oscar Felsentrager, after completing his High School course, as a result of his intellectual adroitness, will get a job from the city holding a red flag in front of a steam roller. "Occo" will fall down on the job, however, and the steam roller will leave him flat.

Julia Morè will cater at banquets, weddings, and banquets. Those who attended her parties in Holyoke High realize how successful she'll be.

Evelyn Powers is going to open a hairdressing establishment at M. A. C. You can imagine the rush Powers and Carey, Inc., will have with "Em" in the business, as she figures that Freddy will need a manicure at least twice a day.

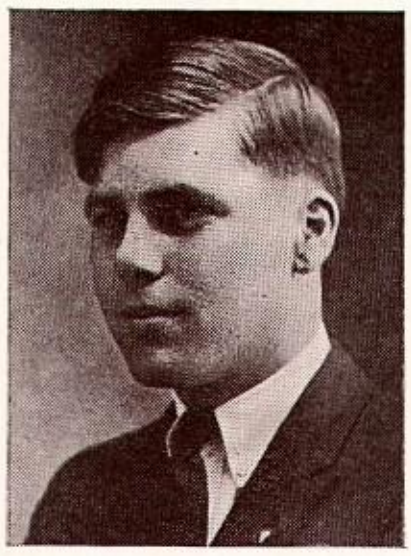
Alice Osborne as a member of the school will advocate hand cars to be used in the corridors of the High School by those who are overburdened with books, and for others who cease gesticulating only when their hands are on a steering mechanism.

Helen Popkiewicz's chief ambition is to send her wedding announcement to Mr. Scanlon. Helen knows this will relieve Mr. Scanlon who used her as an example of the "Mrs." in Commercial law the fifth hour.

Ann Leary in future years will star in the moving picture "Ichabod Crane." This will be the world's most famous as "Icka" falls off the horse and is romantically rescued by Nan.

Prophecy II.

ALLAN PRENTISS.



AT least one of our classmates will be famous. Leonard Baldwin is the champion marathon runner of the world. Every recess in H. H. S., Len used to see how many laps he could go around the second floor. Len always did specialize in "laps" anyways. We wish to Warn (h) er that "Len" is a fast boy when he gets going.

Elmer Lussier is one fellow who lived up to our fondest expectations. As was to be expected, Elmer followed up his excellent work in pianos. Great is our surprise, however, when we see that instead of playing them as formerly, he now moves them for Putnam's Express.

Necessity is the mother of invention. Such it must be, for Gertrude Kelly is now an inventor. "Gert" has invented a curtain which can be pulled down to separate the back and front seats of an auto. This invention is especially adapted to closed cars made by the Buick. Oh, "Gert," if autos could only talk!

The Class of '24 has a scientist also. Harold Gold, "The Boy Scientist", has gained renown throughout the world as the inventor of the ingenious device for taking the kinks out of pretzels. He is now at work on an elaborate machine which will straighten elbow macaroni.

Next among the list of celebrities comes Nera Davis, our Class Musician. Nera has given up her music and taken on the bonds of holy matrimony. She is a rather crabby wife and is continually saying, "Saw yer wood, Sawyer would."

Richard Ruppert is now, although small in stature, one of the biggest lawyers in the state. "Dickie" has become famous for his sterling character, and we can easily see where he gained this strength of character. He was always in such close contact with the Lincoln.

Louise Kostenbader, although quite a gymnast, did not take this up as her life work. She is "out where the West begins," trying to teach the Indians how badly they are being treated. While in H. H. S. her favorite theme was "The American Indian."

Henry Moggio is now running the Fruit Store. On the side, Henry has made a new candy called the "Henrietta". It is something similar to the "Oh, Henry", except that it has cherries instead of peanuts. "Oh, Henry!"

Hyacinth LaFrance is now one of the most popular stenographers in New York. She has the name of being the only one in captivity who can type, chew gum, and talk at the same time.

Newman Clapp, president of our Math Club, has started a matrimonial agency. He plans to use his math in the business and has a very complicated method for determining how many times a fellow can get "turned down" by the same girl.

Anna Price is out at Hollywood. She has discarded her glasses, and is known as one of the "vampiest vamps" in Hollywood.

Arnold Agambar is now a traveling salesman. "Arnie" is rather interested in the South and confines his business to this section. He always managed in H. H. S. to stay rather close to Virginia, too.

Hattie Belle Spring is the best known milliner in Paris and her specialty is dealing with Spring hats.

Sidney Preston is an electrician and is working for the Gas & Electric Dept. His job is fixing broken wires. Sid "has the jump" on the rest of the electricians as he can reach the wires without climbing the poles.

Viola Wolcott is now a telephone operator at Boston. She is coming back to work in the local exchange and should be a great success as she was always good at "throwing a line."

Elizabeth Horrigan is the first woman taxi driver in Holyoke. Elizabeth gained much experience about different makes of automobiles while in school as she delighted in going driving at night.

Arthur Smith has started another industry in the Connecticut Valley. He has started a donkey farm in Northampton. With so much ability we thought Arthur would be an artist, still, he was always fond of Brays.

Walter Marx, much to our surprise, has become a great banker. After graduating from school he started trading in Marks and made an immense fortune. We have to give him credit for making his mark in the world.

Margaret O'Neil is now a great singer in the Metropolitan Opera House. She ought to be a great success if she can sing her parts as well as she sang "Memories" at the Suffolk one evening.

Bernard Niemero has formed a partnership with "Ken" Riley. If their partnership is as successful in the business world as it was in helping them pass both English and French, they have the prospects of a brilliant career.

Thomas and Robert LePoer, "The Famous LePoers," are now traveling with Barnum & Bailey's Circus. They were always able to entertain in whatever way they were asked, and we feel sure that they will be a huge success.

Thora Freeman has become a missionary. She is now over in China trying to free the coolies who are used as slaves. "Teddy" believes in everybody being a Free Man. She has a large supply of candy with her and hopes to sweeten their dispositions. She was always such a sweet girl.

Phyllis Pratt has become a librarian. She is the successor of Miss Fay in "62" and is making a success of it.

Hazel Burgess while in H. H. S. was always interested in the Junior Achievement Clubs, and is now the head of all the clubs in New England. We feel sure that in this kind of work Hazel will be a great success.

Bessie Stewart is now the Drum Major of the Girl Scouts' Drum and Bugle Corps. Bessie was always interested in drummers and sometimes went even as far as Springfield to see one.

William Fleming is now working in Wall Street. Bill has quite a pile and has gained the reputation of being a big plunger in Wall Street.

Rachel Childs is an elocution teacher. "Ray" has often entertained us with her delightful recitations, and in her present job as successor to Miss Powers we feel sure she will be very successful.

Harold Bialkowski has become a well-known engineer. After graduation, he went to M. I. T. and, on completing his course there, he took up engineering. He is supposed to be one of the best in his line, which is the Holyoke & Westfield.

Every young lady we have mentioned seemed to have a career which she was following with more or less success. But in Myrtle Warner we have the exception to the rule. Myrtle does not wish to trouble herself with business, but instead is now the proud possessor of a little vine-covered cottage where she can spend many happy hours while the majority of people are slaving at their jobs. We envy you, Myrtle.

Marjorie Barrett has established an innovation in Holyoke. It is called "The Flappers' Retreat". It is a boarding house where flappers or would-be flappers may go if the styles change so that they don't suit them. All they have to do is wait a few months until the same styles come around again, and then they can blossom out again. Marjorie surely has a head for business.

Dwight Keeney and his cornet have had great luck. He is now playing in the original Paul Whiteman's Orchestra. He can surely make that cornet talk.

Lillian Weinberg has graduated from the Boston Conservatory of Music. She is now on her European tour and has played before all the crowned heads of Europe.

Mildred O'Connor is a farmerette. She has a small farm near Granby and is having a fine time. We can predict that there will be a "back to the farm" movement as soon as the news leaks out that Mildred is there.

John Boys, after completing his studies at Springfield Training School, has accepted a position as Boys' Secretary of the Brooklyn Central "Y". We are sure that Johnnie will succeed in this line as he was always interested in Boys.

Evelyn Abinger has gone in for literature. She has started a bookstore in Amherst and seems to be getting much business. Those fellows in Amherst have a great eye for books.

Jeannette Thompson will teach English in the Grammar School. She has such a sweet way and so much patience that we feel sure that she will succeed.

Leonard Hall has fooled us. He isn't a physical director or a doctor, although he did like to hang around doctor's houses. He has taken a life partnership in the Mary Louise Hairdressing Parlor. The question is Kinn (h) e make it pay.

Prophecy 111.

MARY LOUISE KINNE.

"TOM" Miner will develop an unusually large appetite and a great desire for lunching on cookies between times. His favorite is the Marguerite, which seems very much to his taste. But if he doesn't stop eating them soon, he'll get into a tift (Tifft).

We find Paul Hafey on the vaudeville stage. Paul is in his glory as he has a long string of girl admirers. We noticed he never wanted to "settle down" to one girl in H. H. S.!

Beatrice Mathieson is to become one of the leading automobile salesladies and will deal especially with the Chalmers car. She always was fond of Chalmers in high school.

Guerdline Cady will be the only woman to make her living on the race track. She will make the Buick car famous. Her favorite track is around the reservoir.

"Billie" Bosworth will become a great opera singer and will revive the old Irish ballad, "Has Anyone Here Seen Kelly"?

John Driscoll will not realize his ambition to become an actor of Shakespeare but he will form a bus line to carry the girls either home from school or out for a joy ride. His business will be thriving for he always was a success at "picking up".

I see Ethola Phillips as the mistress of a sanatorium, where one may find peace and solace. There has always been an air of peace and quiet about Ethola, and her very presence should, in due time, bring everlasting peace to all sufferers.

Contrary to all expectations, Celia Davis will not enter the nursing profession. She will start a new custom in Holyoke, known as the Phillips-Davis plan, that of women conductors on the Elmwood-Oakdale line.

Holyoke High is not to lose Jonas Saltman as we feared, but he is going to come back to succeed Miss Allen as the head of the Latin department, after she gets married. He'll be very good at that because he was about the only fellow that could get through Virgil without help, you know.

"Si" Wallace will be a Salvation Army preacher. His favorite hymn is "Nearer (Nera), my God to Thee", while once in a while he sings for a solo, "My Heart's in the Highlands." Can't you imagine him standing on a soap box, leading the crowd?

You probably won't be surprised to know that Marion Webber is to own and run the Suffolk Theatre. Then she won't have to pay to see all the shows that are put on there.

Barbara Chase, as you expected, will soon be a great authoress. Her most popular book will be entitled "Pep: A Story of My Life."

"Tommy" Morrison is to be a champion high diver and most famous for his back dive. He will also have a great interest in zoos for he always did like variety in H. H. S.

After Pearl Brougham was reprimanded in 53 for using a vanity case, she changed her tactics and decided to lecture on "The Dangers of Cosmetics."

May Fitzgerald is another one of '24 to become famous in the literary world. She will not only compose in the English language but her French plays will be most popular. It will be her plays that the Dramatic Club of future years will present. Of course, all Holyoke will attend.

"Ken" Chalmers will be a New York farmer and will specialize in bees (Bea). He will always find something new and interesting about them. We wonder if he will ever get stung by the queen of his hive.

Morris Margolis will have a hard time in deciding whether to be a chemist or to run a store. If it is the latter, we hope he will discontinue the practice of giving extra large measures to his friends.

"Peg" Tifft will not become a gymnast as she thinks, but will be a home economist. She always was fussy about prices (Price).

Franklin Knight will take Mischa Elman's place as the world's favorite violinist. He will soon find out that there is rhythm in Virgil as well as in music, although he will never like the Aeneid more than he does now.

Contrary to all expectations, Eleanor Kohler will become a teacher of Chinese in Holyoke High School. Several famous translations into this language will be to her credit, but the most famous will be that of the "Mother Goose Rhymes" which she will use in her freshmen classes.

"Bill" Kisiel will join the Olympic Skating team and will gain many laurels for his Alma Mater as well as for his country.

Ruth Fiske is going to open a bureau for correspondence between lonely young men and women in High School. If she can't supply suitable maidens in Holyoke, she will borrow them from "over the river." Then, if that source fails, she can invent fictitious ones. We know Ruth will be a success for she has had much experience in this line.

Pauline Carleton will take over her father's store and will open a sweet shop. All '24 will patronize her and there is no doubt that she will succeed. Didn't she always finish what she started?

Myer Glassman is still much the same fellow he was in H. H. S. He is trying to write an essay to give to High School students on "How to Bluff Your Teachers". He always was clever at that, anyway! Between times, he will do his best to rival Harold Lloyd. Evidently he thinks that all there is to it is to look like him and that isn't hard for Myer.

Mildred Crosier would like to become a smith (Smith). We warn you, Mildred, before deciding upon that profession, that horses sometimes kick.

Nellie Batistini will be one of '24's celebrated musicians. When she first appears in public, all the class will be there to hear her.

Sylvia Pariseau will become an expert "gym" teacher. Her pupils will win all the coveted medals and banners because of her good training.

Marjorie Burnett will become a star clerk at Steiger's. Safety pins and barrettes will be her specialties. We aren't at all surprised, for they always were, for that matter.

Howard Pringle will become an exclusive auto salesman. His "sheiky" ways and cool indifference as well as his various cars will make him quite a favorite with the "fair sex".

"Milly" Nye and Enid Whitmore are as much chums as ever. They will roam around for a while and finally settle down in Palmer.

"Dick" Mason will receive an A. A. degree and will enter the ministry. His sermons will deal mostly with "Love and Its Effects".

Loretta Rock will edit a book along the line of the "Three Musketeers," which will tell the story of her own experiences. She has had plenty of material for this, for when did you see her without "the other two"?

Mildred Davis is to specialize in calories. She will advise women and girls as to how many they really need. That was always one of Mildred's pet subjects.

Claire Harrington is to become a great traveler. She always had a tendency to wander in mind and thoughts, if not in body, when she was in English class.

John Dwyer is destined to become an active milkman of Holyoke. John always managed to be around the streets every morning. By this habit he has met and become acquainted with many of our present milkmen, and so, through them, he may expect anything but a "dark" future.

We know Allan Prentiss never looked as if he would be an undertaker. Nevertheless, he will be connected with one in Alberta. As a hobby, he will take to writing books, on the line of Alger, you know.

Alice Brown is going to leave us. She is going West to become a great fisherwoman. Her sardines and salmon will be known all over the country. Alice will never give up her fish.

Helen Goehring will become popular as a chaperon for all outings. She will know all the choice places for hikers, lunching parties, etc. She has had wide experience in that line.

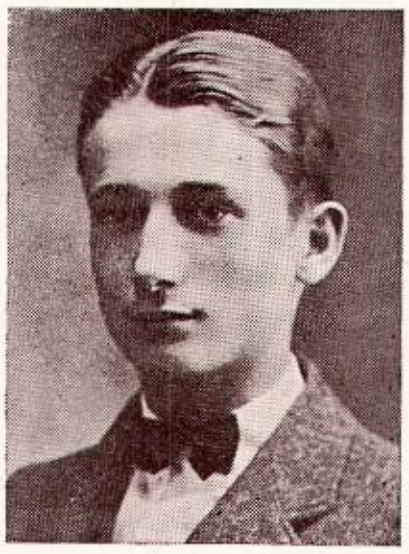
Hilda Donahue has condescended to become a bootblack in a store on High Street. But this is not so surprising as she always did shine in H. H. S.

"Soup" Campbell will join the ministry. He will tell the people just what they will have to do to be perfect. He will point out their faults with the hope, we suppose, that they will correct them. We always liked Soup's frankness and are glad to see that some others are getting the benefit of it now.

When the time comes to have a police force in Holyoke High, Louise will be at their head. She will be sure that the students not only know the rules but will comply with them strictly. Louise always placed duty and the right first.

Prophecy IV.

ROBERT IRONSIDE



"BOB" ALLISON ought to go big after he leaves school. He will be the corporation doctor for the American Window Cleaning Company. He should be able to take care of the window panes, (pains) as he can always see through them. During the dull season he might substitute as a handle for the long window brushes.

"Izzy" Barowsky wants to become a lawyer, but his father is opposed. Father says that if Izzy wants to be a lawyer, he will have to do so on his own "hook". We think Izzy is thoroughly capable of doing so.

"Bawb" Batchelor is going to be a jockey. His name is listed to ride "Spark Plug" in the South Holyoke sweepstakes. We think that "Bawb" ought to race his Reo; if he did he would qualify as a left-hand driver.

"Spike" Bilz is going to be a horticulturist. He always did want to find a way to make "peaches and cream" by grafting the milkweed onto a peach tree.

When "Steppy" Doyle was a baby everyone thought he was going to be a musician, because when he was two years old he played on the "linoleum." When he was twelve he played the violin. But, lo, he is to be a banker, after his experience at the Deane-banking fives.

"Knuckem" Kaplinsky is going to be a conductor on the Holyoke Street Railway. We can see a little "change" in him now.

"Jawn Piper" Lynch is going to be the most noted mathematician of his time. The two problems which keep him awake nights attempting their solution are: (1) How fast does water run off a duck's back? (2) How long a distance will a pea have to drop to break a pane of glass?

"Corky" McGuinness is going to be a great master in the art of suggesting proverbs. His own is "No matter how deep Hampton Ponds may be, you can always break a window with a stone. We also believe, "Corky," that people in tin houses should not throw can openers.

The N. Y. N. H. & H. R. R. Co. is waiting for "Semmy" Gordon. He will be a spike tester. Semmy is a good "track" man, so should be able to beat any of his competitors. He may get a job as an oiler on the locomotives if he gets there "oily" enough. However, it's "nuts" so bad if he makes a "bolt" and gets on the "track" of the president's job.

Carl Neisner is going to Fairview and be a farmer. He will be a king among the chickens up there. In fact, they are "laying" for him now. They must be "egg-sighted" (excited).

The Vermont Farm Equipment Co. wants "Ed" Pratt to sell ploughs in Venice. But Ed is going to be a taxi driver for the New York Sight-Seeing Co., in charge of their bus for the blind.

"Jim" Ross is going to be a basketball player of note. He "passes" well and his mind is so much on the game that he even "dribbles" when he takes a drink of water.

"Bummy" Stein is going to be the criss-cross champion of the world. His many hours of practice in Room 53, have won him the title.

William Minkley is going to find out why a certain Olive is so "stony." Also he is curious to learn why an Olive can make him weep, where it takes a strong onion to make others do so.

"Dutch" Bauer is going to establish an aquarium for the Kibbe Candy Co., in Springfield. He is to take charge of the "sucker" department (lollypops), and all the "bullheads" employed by the concern. This may sound "fishy" but a sardine can, why not Dutch?

"Alex" Cathro is going to have two million people under him next year. He has accepted a position as office boy with a concern located on the top floor of the Woolworth building in New York.

Paul Gallo is to be a floor walker in Woolworth's 5 and 10 cent store. He better keep away from the candy department, because the Spearmint gum is so "Wrigley."

Another South Holyoke boy makes good. "Yock" Rogow is to be a first class tonsorial artist. He will attain a reputation in his line thru many "close shaves," and by frequently "trimming" his customers.

Mildred Allen is the only girl who has something to do with holdups. She is going to work with the United States Clothespin Co., the original "holdups." If anyone wants to see Mildred just "meet her in clothesline alley, that's where she hangs out."

Ruth Clarenbach is so musical that she will provide new scales —acquired as a clerk at Schermerhorn's.

Alice Goy is to be a great songwriter, her first effort will be entitled "Whose Jimmie Is He, Yours or Is He Mine?" One French song will be written by her, entitled, "La Crowley De Moi".

Leonie Drapeau, much to our surprise, is to become a tight rope walker. Her bookkeeping experience under the guiding hand of E. J. Tripp, will enable her to "balance" both "sides" equally without a "trial balance." She will be O. K. if she does not fall.

Rachel Gamzue is to be a prohibitionist. She has accepted a position in the Hampden Trimming House, where she lays down the law in "dry goods."

Lillian Gouin is going to enter the theatrical world. She will be connected with the Metropolitan Opera House, selling tickets on Sundays and ushering during the week.

Vivian Healy is to be a naturalist. She is going to find out why a pine tree pines, and why a dogwood berry is called a dogwood berry. She thinks it is because of the bark on its branches.

"May" Kinne will soon be connected with the "Hall" of fame. She is now studying voice culture, and is singing practically (h)all of the time.

Nina Manseau is to demonstrate the main characteristics of Victor Talking Machines. She will enter a contest with other Victor Talkers. We hope, and we just know, she will win.

Jane Mendrck is to be a beautiful artist's model. She is going to pose for "Mellen's Pure Baby Food." Some baby!

Stella Mirault will continue being our champion answerer of questions. She will even know: Why did "Wiscon-sin?" Where did "Mary-land?" Where did "Ida-ho?" When her friends ask "Hawaii?" her reply will be "Alaska?" After marrying Jack "Straw," she will be Mrs. "Sippy" (Mississippi).

Marion Riley is going to sell Eskimo Pies. She has always been the typical "Eskimo Pie Girl" very sweet, but also very "cold."

Lillian Muskat is to be a movie star. She is to work in Grant's, moving pitchers. After becoming efficient in moving pictures, she may wed a paper hanger.

Marion Odabashian wants to follow in the footsteps of her father and be a photographer. She has started by taking the drawing course at school and trying her hand uninstructed at painting a bit.

Luella Rainville is the coming woman tennis champion. She always liked to "bawl" and make a "racket."

Madonna Raynor is going to work as a stenographer in the United Glue Works. She will fit this job, because there is no chance of her ever getting "stuck up."

Gladys Strong is to be a great historian. She is deeply interested in English history, especially the reign of William's son (Williamson).

Jean Pattison is going to write a book entitled, "Does Spearmint keep its flavor on the bedpost overnight?"

Emily Gruzdiz is a very sensitive individual who cries easily. She will work in a moth ball factory, where there will be cause for weeping every moment.

Ethel Dean is not going to accept any proposals for marriage until she is seventy. At that time she'll find out that all the men are after her, and realize what she has missed, and wed a youth of 75.

Lena Kalicka is going to get a job in a dairy in Vermont punching holes in cheese. Her slogan is "Cheese it."

Rachel Chambers is going to be a ballet dancer as she always was a pretty good "kicker."

Alice Johnston is going on a hunting expedition to Africa with "Stanley." Then there will be more docks (Murdock) in African harbors.

Mary Guimond will lead in the Near East Relief. She is going to provide toothpicks and napkins for the starving Armenians. Big-hearted girl!

Prophecy V.

ALICE GOY.

FOR reasons known only to himself William Walkov, our star basketball player, will return to H. H. S. and take a P. G. course next year. We think perhaps, that a certain junior has influenced our "Bright Star" in taking this course. Instead of walking around "53" and talking "business" with his numerous female admirers during his study periods, next year "Willie" will write a poem entitled "The Lilly of Our Valley".

We always thought Mary Barnett was strong for the city life, but since leaving Holyoke High she has changed her mind and is now living in the country. Mary says there is nothing like having fresh "Butter" daily.

Robert Ironside, always after the unobtainable, has decided to try his luck at raising oranges in Fairview. "Bob" has decided to make his future home in this town, as the cars do not run up this way often enough to suit our wise old prophet. If by any chance he does not make a success of this business, he will become a foreign missionary. We predict a sad "Parting" for Bob in the near future.

Our old reliable team mate, Christine Brassil has become a prominent saleswoman for The "Armstrong" Heating Co. "Chris" gained most of her knowledge of "armstrongs" from sliding on Sunday nights. Yes, due to his experience, J. Driscoll helps her out a little once in a while. Keep up the good work, "Chris".

Homer Hotin graduated from H. H. S. with the intentions of becoming one of the "Idle Rich", but, sad to say, he wasn't the only one who was concerned about his future, and he has become a traveling salesman. He has some wonderful stock, and his pet saying is "Women are out of my line".

When "Peg" Mitchell left High School, the problem of what she was going to do in the future was not solved. But in the course of five years "Peg" has made a name for herself, by writing various books on life in the romantic West. One of her most recent publications is "The Lone Star Ranger".

After receiving his long-looked-for diploma from High School, "Ken" Riley will attempt to make a name for himself. He has decided to do something better than trying to hold up Loisell's Drug Store. "Ken" will endeavor to install taxi service on the Sahara Desert. As he has always been more or less at home with the "Camels", we think he ought to make a success of this business.

Stroll into a small store on High Street in a few years, and you will come across our old friend, Millie Taft, trying to sell "The only lines that catch them". The store is noted for its fishing tackle. But remember, Millie, the line may be good but it's the bait that catches them. We may add that it will take a good fisherman to pull in her line someday.

Josephine Dubiel seems to be one of the girls who will leave school and go into business. "Joe" will open a small Grocery Store in the vicinity of Pleasant Street. The chief product on her well-stocked shelves will be "Heinz's Pickles". There may be 57 varieties but we know there is only one "Hynes" for "Joe". Well we wish her all the luck in the world with the Business.

We thought that when Fred Allen left school he would be manager of Steiger's Suit Department, but, much to our surprise, he has become a paper hanger. Why he should have taken up this work is far beyond our comprehension, but then, there may be a motive in his madness.

When Miss Lynn resigns and Miss McCormick is married, Elsa Bartlett will take the position of Physical Director at Holyoke High. The most important thing Elsa will do during her work here, is to coach the girls' basketball teams. Elsa always was such a "Brilliant Center" during her High School days.

George Bresnahan, one of the "Big Four", has accepted a position with the Buick Motor Co., as head salesman. George's 1915 Model knows its own way to Northampton now.

As most of you know, Grace Bower has cultivated a wonderful voice. Grace intends to take up the art of singing baritone solos. She says she intends, sometime in her life, to enter Grand Opera, but after hearing her during the Senior music period we are afraid it will be one Grand "Uproar" when she starts. Music is an art. All you have to do is master it. We wish Grace luck in her work and we may add that practice makes perfect but we don't want to be within ten miles of the place where she practices.

Another Highland "All Star" makes good. Ralph Hynes is traveling with a company which is playing the musical comedy, "Oh Do Bell (Dubiel)". Ralph makes the big hit when he sings his favorite song "Josephine".

We have always given girls the credit for making eyes, but Eugene Davis has made such a success of the business that he has opened a needle factory. After making his fortune at this kind of work, "Gene" will become an inventor and will try to make some improvements on the "Morse" Code.

Hattie Belle Beauchamp left High School and went into the Birdseed business. She specializes in food for "Sparrows" and has written a book called "How to tame a Sparrow".

Upon graduating Marjorie Snyder will enter Mount Holyoke College. If you will stop to think, you will recall that"Marge" was always interested in anything in South Hadley Center. Whatever vocation she decides to take up after leaving college we know she will make a success because she is one of those girls who believe in the saying that, "You don't have to have dimples, if there's sunshine in your smile".

George Ellert is another one of the "Big Four" who believes that "Variety is the Spice of Life". We never heard of George going with the same girl twice, and now he has written a song called, "I've picked some lemons in the Garden of Love where I thought only peaches grew."

After leaving High School Evelyn Bey will start a correspondence school. "Ev" has done so much corresponding during her high school years that she has already mastered the art. If only women were allowed in the navy perhaps Evelyn would jump at the chance, but, as there is no chance, she will have to be satisfied with the school of correspondence.

Contrary to all reports, Harold Maggi will be found upon the stage in the course of a few years. He will do soft shoe and aesthetic dancing. During his spare time he will write two books, "How Valentino Got His Name" and "How to Resist the Wiles of Women".

Kenneth Gennet has decided that when he leaves High School he is going to buy a farm. He is going to live by himself and do all the work with his own hands. It seems too bad that our most healthy and robust looking boys must choose a life of solitude.

Many were the times we feared the worse would come when we saw Carl Holmes traveling our streets in his "Old Reliable Ford". But Carl is as content as ever and has opened a "Repair Shop for Fords Only" in Smiths Ferry. Why he should choose this out-of-the-way place is beyond our comprehension; but, stop to think how Carl travels in the old Henry, and you will realize that Holyoke is not far away from Smiths Ferry, after all.

The Salvation Army has found a new member in our old school friend, Frances Browne. Believe us when we say Frances certainly makes a wonderful director for this organization with her best friend, her fiddle.

As time drifts slowly on its way, we find Elizabeth Ramsden has become a Household Economics teacher in H. H. S. After teaching here for a while she will resign and become a dietitian. Elizabeth was always such a "Shark" at figuring the amount of calories required by such and such a person in the Economics 5th hour Class.

Warren Clark has at last decided his future career, which is to be a famous detective story writer. His first book will be "How to trail the girl you want". Warren will relate a few true facts in this book, as he has had quite a little experience in trailing a certain "Bates" during his senior year. We can't imagine how this story will end as Warren never succeeded in capturing what he trailed in High School.

In 1926 Rhena Chabot will leave Holyoke and travel abroad. She will travel in Europe and become acquainted with the Royal Families. Rhena always got along pretty well with the "Duke" in High School so we imagine she will enjoy herself immensely while traveling.

Anna Doerpholz has always been possessed with a very studious nature. Because of her wonderful knowledge of human nature, she has written two books; the first, "The Douglass", deals mostly with life around Boston and near the seashore, and the second, of a religious and romantic nature, is called "Let us Kneel and Pray" (Neilan). Both these books and others of Anna's are expected to be good sellers.

The fates have decreed it, and it is so. Clement Sparrow will give up his job at the bank and become one of the city's most prominent bakers. Due to his experience in handling so much dough "Clem" will make a big success of this business.

"Tom" Moriarty has become such a faithful worker in F. W. Woolworth's that the company has given "Tom" the chance to bring music into the store. While the daily customers file into the 5 & 10 cent store, they are moved to tears by the touching way "Tom" sings his most-loved song, "Mary, You're the Only Girl For Me".

Three cheers for Lillian Hynd! She is one of the few women who have accomplished the art of cooking. After graduating "Lil" will write a book on "How to make biscuit rise without baking powder". With the money she gets from this book she will take a course in "The Appreciation of Music", "Lil" always was keen on going to church to hear the Grace Church Choir chant.

The next big beauty contest that is held will have a most competent judge in Philip Mondor. "Phil" always had the habit of calling everyone he met "handsome", and anyone who can pick beauty out like that ought to make a good judge.

Melody Messier has followed the calling of her name and is now established in New York at the head of a Ladies' Symphony Orchestra.

After leaving Holyoke High Mildred Bey will accept a position with the "Mack" Truck Company. As "Milly" was always pretty fond of the "'McIntyre" in her High School days she ought to be a success in this business.

In the near future when you stray into a fashionable shop in New York to buy a new gown, you will, perhaps see Jean Epstein as a model in one of the large stores. Jean always did wear such pretty dresses, and she wore them in just the right way. We think that she will make a big success.

In the course of four or five years we will see "Peg" Lenigan starring in a new Broadway Musical Comedy, "Well Done, Eddie". Due to her wonderful musical talent and experiences with "Eddie", "Peg" will work her way up the ladder, and, before long, will be one of our famous Opera Singers.

Lillian Riley has accepted a position in a large department store in Beverly. Her chief pastime during working hours is her demonstration on "how to use cosmetics in the right way". During her High School days, "Lil" had an awful habit of filling out coupons which advertised, "Girls' Beauty". She will later establish a beauty parlor in the same town as most of her interest is around this seaside resort.

Gardner Gould, after leaving Holyoke High, will travel to New York and study the art of dancing. In five years he will return and endeavor to teach High School students the way to trip the light fantastic.

Everett Howes will retire to the country where he will spend the rest of his life in solitude. Everett always has such a retiring nature.

Celia Baume will open a Fashion Shoppe in Holyoke about the year 1927. She will put on a Fashion Review at the Victory Theatre which will be the best one that we shall have seen for some time.

Prophecy VI.

ROSAMUND GRANDCHAMP.

FRANCIS BENNETT has aspired to the rank of a first class comedian in Keith's vaudeville. Frank manages somehow to keep his audience laughing as long as his act lasts. The best part of it is he can tell jokes without laughing himself. Frank was always so solemn looking in his high school days.

Immediately after graduating Robert Bates left for Connecticut. "Bob" intends to stay here all the time as he says it is quite a little trouble going over the road every week-end. He has written a book, while looking for work, which is called "Marion the Only One." His favorite song is entitled "Take Away the Bacon."

Harold Roy having done much acting while in high school will pursue this career. He will be seen acting in such comedies as

"Breaking Up With Jones", and "Davis as a Rival." He will form a stock company of which he will be leading man. This will be appropriate to him as he had plenty of drilling in this line while in high school.

Odiva and her seven seals will be "wiped off the map" by one of our enterprising classmates namely, "Milly" Picard. After seeing "Milly" do the graceful ones at the Victory we are sure that the theatres will be crowded in the future.

After leaving High School Arletta Polson will become an interior decorator. Arletta always did have such a way of arranging things! She will write numerous articles for "Good Housekeeping" magazine.

Abner Hertzmark is another of Holyoke High's dashers to go on the stage. Abner will travel with a well-known company as a soft shoe dancer, also adding a few songs to help along the "pep" of his number. After watching Abner at our school dances we know that the "Victory" will be crowded out if the company ever hits this town.

Alvah Eaton will be leader of a large caravan. He always did like "Camels."

Reuben Lipshitz in a few years from now will be renowned the world over as a famous song writer. Even now rumors are that Ziegfeld is endeavoring to have him in his Follies. Said job will be taken up by Reuben in 1935.

The stage will call Anna Mahoney. She'll make a fortune on the piece "Oh Piano-Man, Leave me My Baby-Grand." I wonder if she means the piano.

Bessie Miller will follow the most original vocation of all. She will run a plant which manufactures something to be used by the girls, but is more useful to fellows, a radium lip-stick.

Edgar Fleury is to go back to Connecticut demonstrating the use of the Pulmotor. His chest expansion will easily enable him to do so. He will become a renowned athlete. His best sport will be baseball. He was always good at catching flies.

Valois Beauvais will become ambassador to Spain. His studies in Spanish while in High School will enable him to speak that language fluently. Resigning as ambassador he will travel through Spain as a "Toreador," as he can throw the bull pretty well.

The Margolis Brothers have a wonderful future before them. In fact they have already been offered $100,000 by the Gold Dust Co., to pose for a picture which they would like to put on their soap powder boxes instead of the present "Gold Dust Twins." Max, the "Collegiate," is going to have a brilliant career as a designer for collegiate clothes. He will make a fortune in this manner and at the age of fifty, he will retire and spend the rest of his days with his wife

Pola Negri at his home on the Banks of the Nile. "Bobby Boy" the piano and violin jazz hound will have only one thing preventing him from becoming leader of "Paul Whiteman's Orchestra" and that's Paul Whiteman, himself. But, anyhow, he is going to California where it is always summer so as he won't have to rise with the roosters to fire his boilers.

Sylvia Radner will return to Holyoke High School as "Music Teacher." Her talents as a singer are to be admired. Her voice can always be heard above that of Mr. Craig's.

After watching Irene Williams at the French Club Dance, we are sure that a great future is in store for Irene. She will tour the world with a famous company and reach stardom when she does her Egyptian dance in front of a Fairview audience.

A dancing school will be opened by Stella Sullivan. She will teach all the modern dances and also stage dancing. This not being very profitable, she will go on the stage. Mr. Keith, of the Keith's Vaudeville circuit will engage her as a dancing partner for one of his "Sheiks."

Cecelia Walkov will make her home in Philadelphia in 1930 where she will hold the responsible position of chief of police. If Cecelia catches criminals as efficiently as she grasped her subjects at High School, Philadelphia will not suffer any crime wave.

Delia Utley will blossom out as demonstrator in a delicatessen shop in Granby. Delia will illustrate the household arts in the "Good Housekeeping" magazine.

Ambition is a wonderful thing and Rose Hollup surely is ambitious. Rose will use up her energy as table girl at the "Orient" restaurant on Dwight Street. We didn't think that any member of our class was ambitious enough to work for "Fun."

The stage will claim another of our classmates in Julia Hickey. Julia is to be an aesthetic dancer. Her form in these dances will enable her to take leading parts. The public will go wild over Madame Kantrovitsky, the Russian Dancer, for that is to be Julia's stage name. Her career, however, won't last long. The vigorous exercise will make her lose so much weight that she will lose her form in dancing.

The United States Government is to have Carl Zielinski and ship him to Africa to teach the natives "Mah Jong." Returning from Africa, he will make his home in South Hadley Falls with a family named Smith. From this home he will take a member and go to a house of his own for the rest of his days.

Marjorie Freeland, after graduating from Smith and having seen the serious side of life throughout her college career, will return to Holyoke and assume the role of matron at the Old Folks' Home.

Paul Jed will appear in the press when he takes leave for Africa where he will devote his time hunting up ivory. For fuller information on the subject ask Paul.

Armand Paperno disagrees with Switzerland's method of running a navy. Therefore, he will start a navy of his own. He will then sail around the world in grand style and in spite of prohibition will specialize in sinking schooners.

Roland Majeau, having been coached by Danny Regan, will become the world's greatest sprinter. But this won't last long, for he will suffer from fallen arches. His physique will enable him to earn a living. He will pose for the covers of such magazines as the "Police Gazette," "Physical Culture" and the "Whiz Bang."

Edwin Osgood will travel through the "Wilds of South Hadley Falls," hunting for bears, especially "Brown" ones. Unable to find any he will turn to his native town "Elmwood," where he will pursue his studies in Botany. He will write a book entitled "The Taming of a Wild Brown Twig."

"Vi" Masse is to open a candy shop. Soft candy will be her specialty as she always did like such things. She will also invent a "powder" to keep students awake in school. She assures us that a capsule of this powder will keep one going, no matter how late he went to bed. Ask her, she knows.

The Velie Motor Car Co., will offer a position to Martha Nevins as a demonstrator. She will also teach the people how to evade traffic cops. Leaving this company, she will open a "Hairdressing Parlor."

Much is expected from Jimmy Mahoney on the cinders. A position will be given him by the B. & M. Railroad as a first class "Gandy Dancer." Leaving this position, he will travel south and will become the world's champion jockey.

Due to her good work in the art of cooking, Frances Keeler is going to open up a boarding house for men only. Frances always came off with such high honors in H. H. S. that we know she will make a success of this business.

Edith Coe has decided to follow up her musical profession. She will not, however, keep up the good work in Holyoke, but sometime next year she will move to Worcester as she says the inspiration she gets from that city will insure her success. Her first great success as a singer will be when she sings "I'll Be With You, Frankie."

In the course of a few years Sophie Bloom will return to Holyoke High to assist Miss Lynn in "Gym" work. Sophie was always brilliant in "Gym" work, especially when it came to drills with the dumb-bells.

Ruth Osborne has surprised us all by having become the greatest woman orator Holyoke has ever known. Ruth was so timid about reciting in Elocution that we never thought she would come to this. But fate and time are funny things.

It is said that Elliot Brooks is to become a swimming coach, but this is not true. Elliot will study oratory. Graduating from Emerson, he will tour the country speaking on the downfall of the German mark. He will return to Holyoke with the Barnum & Bailey Circus as the head, side-show, and ticket seller.

"Abe" Wiener will become the city's greatest bootlegger. Using a fruit and vegetable store as a blind, booze will be made in the cellar and sold in the rear. The vigilant eyes of the police will soon detect this and "Abe" will go out of business. A book entitled "Fifty Different Ways of Making Your Own Liquor" will be written by him, from which he will make a fortune.

Millie Gerbhardt will employ her time in future years in two lines of business. Millie will work for Steiger's Dept. Store and will gain renown as an expert in the proper necktie for men. She will, in addition, be engaged as matron for high school straw-rides and private parties.

Henrietta Gingras will go on the stage. She will star in the production entitled "Who Dropped the 'Gin' on the Grass." This will "go big" in California.

Another member of the 1924 class who is to leave his country is John Daly. John is to travel through Belchertown, Granby and Chicopee. He will then write a book entitled "Willimansett on Mt. Tom and Have a Fairview of Holyoke." This book will bring a fortune to the young author. Large sales of the book will be made in Ludlow.

Felix Fournier will return to his Alma Mater as a teacher of Latin and Greek. He will be head of the Dept. and do very good work. He will be the author of a book: "How To Get A's in Greek Without Studying."

Edwin Lenz is to become coach and physical director at the Holyoke Boys' Club. Champion basketball teams will be turned out of the club under the able coaching of Edwin. His coaching ability will enable him to become coach of the Olympic Checker Team.

Willie Hoppe beware! For when it comes to billiards, Edmund Gloskin, our classmate, is an expert at banking.

After leaving high school Maurice Gordon will spend the rest of his days in seclusion, trying to solve the following example: "If a fish swims 3 miles an hour and 8 hours a day, how long will it take him to fill up a 10 gallon pail with water if he perspires 3 drops to the mile?"

Farewell Address

PAUL HAFEY.

TODAY we celebrate the greatest moment in our lives—the time of our commencement exercises. Graduation has been the object of each one of us for four years and now that object is about to be realized. At this time each pupil tries to feel a satisfaction that he has done his best and that he may well deserve his diploma. He is thrilled with the thought that he has been privileged to work for his school and that he has worked so that his class might be the best ever graduated. But then, too, he realizes that no longer will he be able to fight as an active member of his school. Such a thought brings sorrow to his mind and it is with deep regret that he says a last farewell. It is with this thought in mind that the class of nineteen hundred and twenty-four gathers today for the next to the last time to say good-bye. It is my honor,—though not a happy one—to say these last words. As freshmen and sophomores we saw this day far in the distance, a day which would be gained only after hard labor. In our junior year, as we saw the seniors prepare for their Class Day, we suddenly realized that after they had gone we would be the graduating class. Then this day did not seem far away but in reality it was very near. But as Seniors we wonder that our year has passed so quickly and that this day has come so soon. We thought of it first as a happy climax to a series of difficult events which we had accomplished in past years. It is true—it is a climax—but not entirely a happy one. We see instead that only too quickly is this, the turning point of our school life, going to send us out into a world of toil and labor where life will challenge us to make our greatest efforts and do our best work. In school life we have tried to show a good example to the other classes and we think we have done so. But now that we are to be students no longer, perhaps a few words of advice to the other classes would be a fitting close to our school days.

Lowerclassmen:

Most of you have just completed your first year at high school. You are no longer new material, but a part of the very dependable foundation upon which our school life rests. Next year you will be upper-classmen. At that time many new pupils will come to the school. You will be far more experienced than they and you should use this experience for their good and for the good of your class. Urge them to join the "Round the Table" and the "Assembly", for these worthy clubs will make their lives more happy here. You, yourselves, will have many more responsibilities next year. You should all do your share to raise the good standard of the "Q" Club, the "French Club", and the "Phi Alpha". These clubs are open to all juniors and in them you will find great happiness. Athletics now demand your support. Every boy who is able to play should try for the various teams so that they may be the best ever. But above all, remember your studies. During the next year they will tend to languish but never permit this to happen. Persevere and the results will be a source of great satisfaction to you.

Juniors:

The greatest year of your career is ahead of you. You do not realize now the joys and pleasures by which you will be thrilled next year. You are about to become the class leaders of Holyoke High School. Your example should be an incentive to all the other classes. Next year you must necessarily take charge of many school affairs. From your ranks must come the leaders of the "Q" Club, the "Phi Alpha", and the "French Club". Serve them with the best interests of the clubs in mind. The "Herald" is now one of the greatest factors in the school life. Keep up its good record, aid it always with your subscription and literary contributions. As Seniors you will be required to bear the greater part of athletics. Work hard in this line, make your teams something that you will never want to forget because of their excellence.

The Student Council has received a good start during this last year. Further this worthy project and prove that it is something that we cannot dispense with. But greater than these is the responsibility of your lessons. They are by far the most important. Remember that they are the keynote to your own welfare and that of the school, and then yours shall be a final year of happiness.

Mr. Conant:

To you, our friend and leader, we take great sorrow in saying good-bye. From the day of our entrance at Holyoke High School to this very last day of departure, we can truly say that you have shown yourself a friend and a man in the true sense of the word. At one time we could not understand why you insisted that so many laws of the school should be observed, but now we thank you for it. You have taught us what it is to be citizens and how we can make ourselves better men and women. We hope that in our future life we shall carry out your teachings in such a way that you will notice and say that your time and council have not been given in vain.

Teachers:

Our acquaintance with you seems to have been altogether too short. But we have enjoyed the terms spent under your guidance and thank you for the invaluable help you have given us. You have shown yourselves not only our teachers but our friends; and as friends we shall never forget you. So in saying good-bye the class of 1924 thanks you again from the bottom of the heart.

Classmates:

For us to say good-bye is not an easy task. We cannot truly realize that our high school life is over. How we have enjoyed it! Can we forget it? No, I hear each one of you saying in your heart. And since it is so, let us make certain resolutions on this day of days. Many of us will enter higher institutions of learning soon. Let us resolve that in those places we shall show ourselves a credit to Holyoke High by our ambition and our perseverance. Let us resolve that we shall never forget the class of 1924, by far the greatest and the finest in the history of Holyoke High School. Let us never forget our championship basketball team and excellent football team of which we are so proud. Let us always know each other in the true spirit of friendship which we cultivated at High School, and, indeed, this will be an unseparated class. There is only one more resolution to make—that is to our school. With all our hearts let us remember Holyoke High as a place where peace abides and where our Alma Mater stands with its arms outstretched to youth.

Dear classmates as our Class Day draws to a close there remains but one more word to say. In saying this we ask the blessings of God for a happy future and the strength to always uphold the right. And now slowly—and softly—we say the word—Farewell.

Class Poem

I.

At last, after patient awaiting
  Through all the winter long,
We feel within us the spirit
  Of Spring, that fills us with song.

II.

The earth in new verdure is clothed,
  The songsters' heraldings ring;
Fresh zephyrs now gently blowing
  Set every flower a-wing.

III.

The sweet sap seeking upwards
  From roots deep down in the ground,
Scatters a blush in the branches,
  Where breaths of fragrance abound.

IV.

Trees have burst out into glory,
  Ineffable, soft pink and white,
Which covers them like a garment
  Of wondrous beauty and light.

V.

'Tis the beauty that fills us with gladness,
  And we drink of it more and more;
The beauty that is but the promise
  Of plentiful fruitage in store.

VI.

Like the tree with its sweet flowery mantle,
  To the weary a restful sight,
Is youth with its freshness and fairness
  Clothed in its cloudlike white.

VII.

Youth, like the burgeoning branches,
  Foretells of the ripe fruit to be,
For the fruit of our lives are thoughts and deeds,
  Of which but the bud we now see.

VIII.

Thus after steadfast endeavor
  We're leaving our school we love,
With the firm hope and confidence
  That worthy of her we may prove.

IX.

It is she who has nourished our growing
  Out-blossoming like a young tree.
Oh, may we fulfill her cherishing;—
  This generation that is to be.

—Enid Whitmore, '24.

Class Songs

Tune of: A Kiss in the Dark.

Verse

Holyoke High, we're leaving you,
It's time for us to go;
Alma Mater, we are blue,
For we love you so.
We shall often think once more
Of the years spent here
And the class of '24
Holds you very dear.

CHORUS.

Oh, our dear Holyoke High,
We must now say "good-bye"
To your portals and teachers true
Tho we hate to depart
It is time that we start,
Holyoke High, we must say "Adieu."

—Catherine Delaney, '24.

Tune of: A Smile Will Go a Long, Long Way.

CHORUS.

When we're blue, we'll always think of you,
And the fine days that we spent in school.
When we pine, for that dear school so fine,
Oh, words are too deep to express our mind.
Just a sigh, and then we say good-bye.
Farewell, dear Holyoke, time is flying by.
To the fore, dear class of twenty-four,
For we will soon be known no more.

CHORUS.

Twenty-four, oh, famous twenty-four,
We soon shall leave and not meet any more.
Though we've shirked, we've also worked and worked.
Your spirit makes us do our best.
We are sad, but yet we're very glad,
When we think of days spent, good and bad.
We've had good times, in that dear school so fine,
Oh, Holyoke High, we're proud of you.

—Reuben Lipshitz, '24.

Wonderful Holyoke High.

Tune: Dream Daddy.

Dear Alma Mater. Today we must leave you;
The time has come for us to bid you farewell.
No matter what we may do,
No matter where we may dwell,
Every night and day,
You can hear us say:

CHORUS.

Dear High School, Dear High School,
Wonderful Holyoke High,
We'll ne'er forget happy days spent with you,
We'll always think of our teachers, so true.
We love you,
Dear High School, Dear High School,
We will leave you with a sigh,
And though we lay away our books and our slates,
And go into the world to seek our fates,
We'll cherish
Our High School,
Wonderful Holyoke High.

—Rose Persky, '24.

Song to Tune of: Lord Geoffrey Amherst.

I.

Oh, we are the members of the class of '24,
And we stand just 250 strong.
To our Principal and Teachers all we've been most awfully kind,
And they knew we could do no wrong,
And they knew we could do no wrong.
When you spoke of Latin, Mathematics, English and the rest,
They were names that never made us blue,
For we always had our lessons, and we never skipped a class.
And it's true, all these things, oh, yes, it's true.

CHORUS.

Oh, '24, mighty '24,
The most famous who've ever been in school.
May we always be noted
As the class who put the R in rule.

II.

Oh, we are the members of the Class of '24,
And we're keen both for work and for play;
In fact in every single thing we ever undertook,
We've always led the way,
We've always led the way.
And as for our reports, when they were handed us each time,
We were as proud, as proud as we could be.
Our marks they never worried us, they were so very fine,
With all A's and B's, and never D's.

III.

Oh, we are the members of the Class of '24,
And we leave a mighty rep,
For the Juniors and the Sophomores they'll find it awfully hard
To follow in our steps,
To follow in our steps,
For when we no longer tread the halls of Holyoke High,
And to other duties we have gone,
They will note the school is not the same, and know the reason why,
And they'll long, yes, for us, they'll often long.

—Miriam Jones, '24.

FLORA MAYER.

IN September, 1922, the members of the class of 1925 began to climb the ladder and reached the sophisticated sophomore standard. The results of the class elections of that year were: Casper Ranger, president; Pauline Allen, vice-president; Constance White, secretary; and John Zielinski, treasurer. By February, the sophomore class had started on its successful career. Our class had charge of the exercises for George Washington's birthday and creditably staged "An Episode of Nathan Hale's Life."

During the Sophomore year, 1925 had the privilege of membership in the various clubs. The girls of the class proved very athletic, for they won three championships out of four—volley ball, basketball, and swimming.

When we entered in 1923, up the ladder we went; we were now Juniors. At the first meeting we elected our officers: Casper Ranger was re-elected president; Claire Beauregard, vice president; Flora Mayer, secretary; and John Zielinski, treasurer.

December 21, 1923 the Junior class presented a Christmas play, "The Mistletoe and Hollyberry."

March 17, 1924 the Junior-Senior prom was held at the High School "gym." The "gym" was decorated in green and gold—the green appropriate for the date and gold, one of our class colors.

During the Junior year, the class took an active part in club life, in "Q", Phi Alpha, and French.

1925 is now looking forward to the most important year, Senior year.

MARGUERITE CHAMPAGNE.

THE Sophomore Class met in the auditorium in the fall for organization. The officers elected for the ensuing year were: president, Edward Geran; vice-president, Eleanor Whiting; secretary, Marguerite Champagne; treasurer, Stuart Williamson.

The Freshman reception was held on September 28. Mr. Conant opened the program and then members of the Sophomore class spoke on Oral Expression, Geometry, History and Latin. Refreshments were served in the lunchroom. Dancing was then enjoyed by all during the rest of the evening.

The Student Council Government was formed in October. The members from the Sophomore Class who were elected were Eleanor Whiting and Edward Geran. Eleanor Whiting is also the treasurer of the Student Council Body.

On March 21, the Sophomore Class presented in the auditorium, two episodes from the life of George Washington; viz., the reception given Washington after he took command of the American Army, and Washington at Valley Forge. The characters in Part I comprised: Perry Ducharme, Stuart Williamson, Edward Geran, Edward Moriarty, Ernest Bork, William Dillon, Thomas Herlihy, Thomas Dillon, Alice Mason, Margaret Carroll, Lillian Morris and Marguerite Champagne. The second part consisted of: Edgar Archambault, Georges Ducharme, Morris Cohen, Allan Hopkinson, Charles Beckett. Eleanor Whiting gave a brief account of Part I, and Catherine Sullivan that of Part II. The stage was effectively decorated. The old-fashioned costumes, which the participants wore, helped to make the success complete.

The Sophomore Class won second honors in the Inter-Class Track Meet in February.

Bits of Humor

PSALM 2223.

The teacher is my boss; I shall not want to work.
She maketh me to sit down in my seat, and keep my mouth shut.
She boreth my soul; she leadeth me through fields of knowledge for my mind's sake.
Yea, though I walk through the halls like a mummy, I still fear evil, for she is behind me; her rod and her ruler discomfort me.
She prepareth a test each month for me and my classmates; she rewardeth my efforts with 50.
May this remembrance and mercy follow me all the days of my life; and I'll ne'er be cruel to a pupil, no never. —Selected.

Senior: "What do you do the fourth period?"
Freshie: "Work up an appetite."

Miss Gilligan, in Civics class: "What inducement did the Chinamen have for coming to this country?"
Smart Junior: "Laundry."

Child: "Say, mama, ain't we made of dust?"
Mother: "Yes, dear."
Child: "Well, why don't we get muddy when we drink?"
—Ex.

That's All.

Teacher: "Can you repeat the shortest commandment? It has but four letters."
Brilliant Freshie: "Keep off the grass."

Rastus: "Sambo, what's you doin' these days?"
Sambo: "I'se an oculist in er hotel."
Rastus: "Yo' doan mean it!"
Sambo: "Yes, I cut de eyes out of potatoes."
—Ex.

"Some have greatness thrust upon them," gasped Bob Carroll, left end, as the center, Davis, sat firmly down on his ribs.

Mr. Bailey: "Give an illustration of a line containing only one foot."

Senior: "Be gone."

Mr. Bailey: "Correct, and what takes the place of the other feet?"

Senior: "A pause to give the fellow time enough to go."

There was once a mayor in a city,
Who thought it was quite a pity,
To think that Holyoke High,
Didn't have an athletic field nigh
To practise the sports that go
To make the freshies grow.
With joy we were almost giddy:
Thought we'd get it sure. BUT—did we?

RECIPE FOR FRESHMAN:

One pair of extra short legs.
A small amount of body.
One face, narrow, pale and meek-looking.
Head very small and hollow.
Before cooking mix in plenty of green grass, and when partially done, flavor with Sloane's soothing syrup.

Mr. Bailey fears that the letter carriers will demand larger wages in the future, if the faculty continue their correspondence with the parents of the scholars.

Fresh in 53: "What does that writing on the front board mean?"

Senior: "Oh! That's the Phi Alpha, a club in which the boys are taught to act like perfect flappers."

Mr. Conant: "Why are you late?"
E. Powers: "I slept over."
Mr. Conant: "Walk over next time."

When you go way back and sit down take a Year Book along. It will kill time.

Heard in Physiography: "Where is the Highlands?"
"Most of it's in Elmwood at night."

MY TROT.

I had a little pony
To help me in my work
To be accommodating
I lent him to a shirk.

He rode him, he drove him,
He used him every day.
And in pay for pony's efforts
My friend received an "A".

Miss Gilligan: "But what pleased me most on my trip was the wonderful clock of Strasburg."

Wise Senior: "Oh, how I would like to see it! And did you see the celebrated watch on the Rhine?"

Teacher to Soph: "What is the plural of child?"
Soph: "Twins, of course."

Senior: "Do you know why our school is such a learned place?"
Wise Sophomore: "Of course; the Sophomores all bring a little learning here, and the Seniors never take any away, so it naturally accumulates."

Mr. H., in Botany, holding up a red ear of corn: "Class, what does the color signify?"

Mr. Brown to Sophomore: "You return to this room at 1:45 to-day, and stay for a month."

We wonder if the poor little "Soph" wouldn't get lonesome for his mother before the month was up.

HIGH SCHOOL LIFE.

Freshman year: A comedy of errors.
Sophomore year: Much ado about nothing.
Junior year: As you like it.
Senior year: "All's well that ends well.

Mr. Moriarty: "How many of the twenty problems did you do?"
Dick Mason: "All—"
Mr. M. "All?" (in amazement and joy.)
Dick: "All but nineteen."
Mr. M. fainted.

HE WILL RECOVER.

Prof: "Where is Hafey?"
Fresh: "I think he is ill, sir."
Prof: "How do you know?"
Fresh: "Last night some soph came up to his room, and I heard someone tell him to lean over and take his medicine."

Mr. Brown: "What do they raise chiefly in the West Indies?"
Pupil: "Umbrellas."

Teacher: "Didn't I tell you not to leave your seat?"
Senior: "Yes, ma'am, but it's too heavy to take with me."

E. Brooks, in Latin IV: "Fly, oh, Aeneas, from this accursed land."

3. Would you class 3-in-1 oil under decimals or fractions?

GOOD TASTE.

Si: "Dearest, will you marry me?"
Nera: "Sawyer, I can't marry you, but I shall always respect your good taste."

EARLY BIRDS.

Judge: "Have you ever been up before me?"
Icha Crean: "Why, I don't know. At what time does your honor usually get up?"

"Darling", he cried, in tender tones,
"I ne'er have loved but thee."
"Then we must part," the maiden said;
"No amateurs for me."
(More practice Len!)

ALMOST AS BAD.

Hilda: Did you get caught in the rain?
May: No, with Hall.

H. Roy: How long could I live without brains?
Mr. Hebert: Time will tell.

Our school ought to be considered one of the seven wonders of the world, as it has a hall (Hall) that can talk.

Bob: "My father has a wooden leg."
Bill: "That's nothing. My sister has a cedar chest."

Mr. Hebert: "Name three articles containing starch."
Bright Senior: "Two cuffs and a collar."

Son: "Father, did God make me?"
Father: "Yes, my child."
Son: "And you, too?"
Father: "Yes."
Son: "Well, he's doing better work now, isn't he?"

Love may be blind, but the neighbors aren't.

The cry of a Senior girl, coming from the rear of a Westcott:
"Give me liberty or give me death!"
Wonder what she means!

Physiology teacher: "How many ribs have you?"
Bright Junior: "I don't know," giggling, "I'm so awful ticklish, I never could count them."

Teacher: "Why did Lafayette go home soon after the battle of Brandywine?"
Voice in the rear: "Too much Brandywine!"

Mother: "Bobby, I heard you were a very bad boy today. Now tell me about it."
Bobby: (with sudden modesty) "Teacher says it isn't polite to talk too much about yourself."

Science teacher: (trying to explain evaporation) "Can anyone tell me what becomes of the rain in the streets?"

Sarcastic Pupil: "The people carry it home in their rubbers."

Teacher, at opening of school: "Do you want to take Manual Training?"

Occa. F. "Do you think I came here to work?"

Flapper: "How do you like being engaged to Tom?"

Literary Student: "Oh, it's wonderful! The dear boy calls me a poem, envelopes me in his arms and seals with a kiss.

Mr. Sylvester: (to pupils who fail to understand problem) "Now all of you who can't see this example just look at it for five minutes."

Pupil: "What shall I do now, color this map brown?"

Mr. Brown: "Please address your teachers in a more respectful way.

ADVICE TO R. LIPSCHITZ

How to Write a Song Hit

(Merely fill in the following lines):

.....in love
.....from above
.....her arms
.....her charms
.....she lie?
.....could die
.....I sigh
.....softly cry
.....I'm missing
.....her kissing
.....my heart
.....must part
.....I'm through
.....so blue.

But for Gawd's sake don't mention anything about being out of that abominable yellow fruit known to the people of the U. S. as the "banana."

He: "Why do you say that he is loud-mouthed?"

She: "I have kissed him, my dear."

Rude: "Teacher's pet!"
Rudolf: "No! Do they?"

OUTLINE OF HISTORY.

(With apologies to H. G. Wells)

We came here in September,
To be great college men.
We took both drawing....on the bank,
Each night took dates at ten.
We studied twice that quarter,
We flunked....a mystery;
And that's just a little outline
Of our History.

OBVIOUS.

Now that they have closed the saloons to save our boys and since they cannot close the garages to save our girls, they might at least close the sideroads.

Mr. Sylvester: "Fools sometimes ask questions wise men cannot answer."

Roy: "Now I see why I flunked my exams."

The Old Maid's Prayer:

Now I lay me down to sleep;
I wish I had a man to keep.
If there is a man beneath my bed,
I hope he's heard the prayer I said.
A-man.

Eddie: "I flunked that quiz flat."

Mary: "Why, didn't you know the answers?"

Eddie: "Yes, but I had vaseline on my hair and they slipped my mind."

Fickle: "Must I have a chaperone at the glee club concert tonight?"

Steady: "Yes."

Fickle: "But it is a regular cold cream treatment."

Steady: "What do you mean by that?"

Fickle: "It keeps the chaps away."

Miss Shea: "What is the future of the verb 'to love'?"

Bright Pupil: "Divorce."

"I've got a bad cold, Doctor."
"How did you get it?"
"Too much outside reading!"

Mr. Haskell: "Who knows much about elm wood?"
Crean: "I do. I've visited there for four years."

Mr. Hebert: "Can you tell me what steam is?"
Peg Mitchell (confidently): Oh, I know! Steam is water that's gone crazy with the heat." (Clever child).

Some call "57" Bachelor's Hall. Quite a name!

Why not hold the Freshman reception on Mt. Tom? There is a dance hall there and rates could be secured so that all undesirables could be kept out.

Lives of football men remind us,
That they write their names in blood
And, departing, leave behind them,
Half their faces in the mud.

Mr. Mitchell: "The future has no plural."
Leonard Hall: "Oh yes, it has, if you are married."

Mary had a little trot,
Which was against the rule.
Her teacher, Mary's trot did spot,
And Mary left the school.

What sweet old maiden ladies some of the "Q" Club girls will make.

Miss Lynn (drawing teacher): "Don't you draw?"
M. O.: "No'm, but I paint."

"If I kiss you this once, will you promise never to ask me again?"
"Certainly, dear, if you consider it unnecessary.

Paul Hafey: "The garbage man is here."
Mrs. Boland Fitzgerald: (deeply engaged). My, my, tell him we don't want any.

"Why are there so many jokes about short skirts?"
"Because brevity is the soul of wit."

Mr. Hebert: "Miss L., take 2000 and subtract 18.7 from it."
M. L. "May I sharpen my pencil?"
After wasting several minutes looking out of the window, M. L. was startled by Mr. Hebert's voice: "Miss L., take your seat and add 500 to it."

Maid: "May I come in and dust your room?"
Bennett (young poet): "Away, woman! I'm wrapped in thought."
Maid (alarmed): "Goodness gracious! I'm glad I knocked first."

Teacher: "Why are you late?"
Pupil: "Well, the sign—"
Teacher: "What has the sign to do with it?"
Pupil: "Well, the sign read, 'School ahead. Go slow,' and I did."

H. Nixon: "I smell cabbage burning."
Dan O'Connell: "Then take your head away from that radiator."

QUERY.

Is a gold-digger necessarily a minor?

Mim: (sarcastically, out walking) "This reminds me of Robert Louis Stevenson's 'Travels With a Donkey'!"
Gene: "Yes, I do feel like an author tonight."

FAIR OFFER.

Mr. Moriarty: "I take great pleasure in giving you 81 in Math."
S. Preston: "Aw, make it 100, and enjoy yourself."

A SCOTCH TRADE.

By Morrison.

A Scotchman fell overboard. A brother Scot tried to save him, and shouted, "Here, Sandy, gie me yer haun."

"Na, na," said Sandy. "It has been against my preenciples a' ma life to gie onything; na to save ma life will I break ma preenciples."

"Here, Sandy, ta' mine," said another Scot, coming to his assistance.

"Now ye are talking," replied Sandy. "Hand it out."

Freshman girl in French I, translating: "Nous neigeait sorti-vous sil." "We go out in our negligee."

Student, translating Virgil: "Three times I strove to cast my arms about her neck, and that's as far as I got, Sir."

Miss Allyn: "Well, Mr. —. I think that was quite far enough."

Mr. B—: "What was the wife of Vassal called?"

Bill B.: "She was called Vaseline."

THEIR DEMANDS.

Street Cleaners: We demand narrower streets and wider brooms.

Firemen: All buildings must be built of asbestos. We want cooler flames.

Policemen: We must not be required to catch motor bandits. Inspectors must go.

Garbage Men: All trash must be neatly dusted before being thrown out.

Milk Men: Later mornings; fewer babies.

Mac: "You are the light of my life, the fire of my heart, the warmth of my soul, the flame of my—"

Mildred (interrupting): "Please turn off the heat."

Peggy: "I'm going to marry a doctor and be well for nothing."

E—: "Why not marry a minister and be good for nothing."

May your life be like arithmetic:
Friendship added,
Enemies subtracted,
Joys multiplied and Sorrows divided.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY.

A nifty little iron,
A cunning little curl,
A box of pungent powder,
And you have a pretty girl.
A sudden little shower
Zip!—the beauty goes.
And you have a homely girlie
With a freckled little nose.

Teacher: "When does the Liberty Bell ring?"
Scholar: "After the sixth period!"

"Is the bearded lady your mother?"
"Naw, she's my old man."

"How was the dance?"
"Rotten, I came out with my own overcoat."

First Freshie: "Who's your fellow?"
Second Freshie: "Won't tell."
First Freshie: "Any relation to William Tell?"

Teacher: (to pupil) "Do you know Lincoln's Gettysburg Address?"
Pupil: "Why, I thought he lived at the White House."

A teddy bear sat on the ice
As cold as cold can be;
But soon he upped and walked away.
"My tale is told," said he.

Will: "One of your friends was running you down. He said you were not fit to associate with pigs."
Bill: "You stood up for me, didn't you?"
Will: "Yes, I said you were."

He: "Are you dining anywhere Sunday?"
She: (expectantly) 'No, I don't think so."
He: "My! How hungry you will be on Monday."

GIVE YOURSELF FINANCIAL BACKING

In The Years To Come

You're ambitious to succeed in life and keen for an opportunity to show the stuff you're made of. Quite possibly your aim in life is already fixed. Remember, however, that whatever your aim may be it will take MONEY to realize it, and that you cannot have money unless you begin now to SAVE it. Here is what Kipling has to say about the value of money-saving. It's worth taking to heart.

"Savings represent much more than mere money value. They are a proof that the saver is worth something in himself. Any fool can waste, any fool can muddle, but it takes something of a man to save and the more he saves the more of a man it makes of him. Waste and extravagance unsettle a man's mind for every crisis; thrift, which means some form of self-restraint, steadies it."

If you can keep your head when all about you
  Are losing theirs and blaming it on you,
If you can trust yourself when all men doubt you,
  But make allowance for their doubting, too;
If you can wait and not be tired by waiting,
  Or being lied about, don't deal in lies,
Or being hated don't give way to hating,
  And yet don't look too good, nor talk too wise;

If you can fill the unforgiving minute
  With sixty seconds' full of distance run,
Yours is the earth and everything that's in it,
  And—which is more—you'll be a Man, my son!

Old Hampshire Stationery

Is the Choice of the Discriminating Student

It is suitable for all social requirements. Its fine texture and beautiful finish give it that air of refinement desired by people of taste.

Your character, your integrity, your self-esteem—these are things that cannot be advertised, but you can suggest them through the stationery you use.

Old Hampshire Stationery conveys all these to your correspondent.

When securing your supplies, don't forget a box of Old Hampshire.
